HIDDEN REPORT ON WATERWAYS REVEALS PERIL

Illinois Route May Be Made Futile.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Disagreement of opinion within the ranks of the army engineers on the diversion of water at Chicago is disclosed in a suppressed army report, a copy of which was obtained by THE TRIBUNE.

The report, which opponents to the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada declared will have great effect in defeating ratification of that treaty, reflects the opinion of some of the army's engineers that adoption of the pact may work incalculable harm to the Illinois waterway.

It also discloses that Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, has gone against the almost unanimous opinion of his own subordinates in issuing a report siding with advocates of the St. Lawrence treaty.

Camouflage Effort Charged.

The report also exposes the fact that the war department publicity bureau withheld the vital facts of the disagreement and issued a brief statement camouflaging the true facts.

Efforts to obtain copies of the report had been met with rebuffs from Secretary of War Dern, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Speaker of the House Rainey and other officials who have copies in their possession.

It had been announced in a brief formal release by the war department publicity officer that the report was a finding by the engineers that with the building of two locks and dams, at Peoria and La Grange on the Illinois river, and with a widening of the river below Starved Rock, the entire waterway would be navigable with the diversion of 1,500 cubic feet per second of water from Lake Michigan.

A full perusal of the report, however, discloses misrepresentation in the war department's press communication, for the report discloses that the district engineer at Chicago, the division engineer, and the war department's board of engineers all held it to be impossible to state as a positive fact that this volume of water would be sufficient to render the Illinois waterway navigable from a sanitary point of view.

Fear Odors on Waterway.

The board of engineers is composed of outstanding army experts. They, with the two engineers who are on the scene of the Illinois waterway and have studied all its aspects at first hand, raised the question as to whether the discharge from the sewage plants now being built to handle Chicago's wastes would be sufficiently purified so that its dilution in a volume of 1,500 c. f. s. would be adequate to prevent a nuisance on the waterway.

Agreeing that the proposed diversion would be sufficient for simple purposes of lockage, seepage, and evaporation for floating barge traffic through the waterway, the district and division engineers declare that it is not possible to state whether sufficient dilution of sewage will be effected.

These experts, with the approval of the board of engineers, recommend that discretion be left with the chief of army engineers to increase the diversion at times if he finds it necessary, and in this point is the nub of the opposition to the St. Lawrence treaty.

Treaty Would Limit Flow.

Canada has succeeded in obtaining from the American state department a clause in the proposed treaty permanently limiting the Chicago diversion to 1,500 c. f. s. after 1938. Consequently, it is pointed out that if the treaty is ratified with this clause intact, and it is discovered in 1938 that navigation on the waterway is impossible because of a stench rising from the stream, it will be impossible to remedy the situation.

Advocates of the treaty declare its provision to permit emergency changes in the diversion under agreement by an international board is adequate protection for Illinois and the Mississippi valley states, which will profit by operation of the Illinois lakes to the gulf waterway.

Opponents counter, however, that Canada must consent to such changes, and they declare that with Canada anxious to promote the fullest use of the St. Lawrence outlet to the sea, Canada will oppose any adequate de-

THE COMING CRISIS

Whisky Agent Sues Estate of L.J.M'Cormick

Suit for $450,000, charging breach of contract, was filed yesterday in the Circuit court against the estate of the late Leander J. McCormick and against Charles J. Donnelly, manager of the estate, by H. B. Loewenstein, described in the bill as the representative of a New York liquor syndicate.

The bill charges that last Dec. 11 Loewenstein, through his agent, E. E. Shimanek, entered into a contract to purchase from the estate liquor warehouse certificates for 150,000 cases of whisky at $42.50 a case—a $6,375,000 transaction. A letter certifying to the contract and alleged to have been signed by Donnelly goes with the bill.

Broken Contract Charged.

Later, according to the bill, Donnelly informed Loewenstein that the estate could not sell all the liquor at the price quoted, but would sell 104,000 cases at $45.50 a case. The New York group refused to purchase the warehouse certificates at the higher price, he says.

The liquor for which the original contract called, according to the bill, was in three allotments kept in warehouses throughout the country.

The first allotment included 50,000 cases to be made up of Old Grand-Dad, Old Taylor, McBrayer, and Pebbleford whiskies, all 17 years old. The second lot of certificates called for 51,000 cases, to be made up of similar type whiskies, also 17 years old. The third lot consisted of 49,000 cases of Kentucky whiskies.

History of the Estate.

The Leander J. McCormick estate is the owner of large downtown properties, including the McCormick building at Michigan avenue and Van Buren street. Leander J. McCormick was the father of L. Hamilton McCormick and the grandfather of Capt. Leander J. McCormick, whose English country home burned recently. The Chicago offices of the estate are at 332 South Michigan avenue. Another heir of the estate is Robert Hall McCormick.

Attorney Arthur P. Feigen, who filed the suit for Loewenstein, said that within the last few years the estate had accumulated certificates for 500,000 cases of whisky, either by outright purchase or by accepting them as rent payments from tenants.

"The syndicate Mr. Loewenstein represents would have been glad to purchase all the certificates at the price of $42.50 a case," Attorney Feigen said, "but by his original contract the estate would sell him only certificates for 150,000 cases. He was ready at any time to turn over a check for $6,375,000 for the 150,000 cases. But he was not willing to pay $3 more per case for a lesser amount."

CATHOLIC SCHOOL DIRECTOR SENT TO PRISON BY NAZIS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MUNICH, Jan. 2.—The Rev. Dr. Rossberger, director of the Catholic seminary at Freising, was tried before the summary court today on charges of sedition and sentenced to eight months' imprisonment. He was accused, among other things, of derogation of the government and interfering with the government's winter relief program.

Dr. Rossberger pleaded not guilty and characterized the charges a "mendacious slander." Several witnesses testified in his favor.

The prosecution rested on the testimony of a single witness, Herr Hartl, a member of the seminary's staff. He testified that he had written down alleged seditious utterances by his superior—made openly, he declared, to the teachers—but burned such records before the case came to trial from fear that they might incriminate Dr. Rossberger.

Grau to Quit Presidency of Cuba May 20

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 2.—President Grau San Martin today signed a decree setting April 22 as the date for the election of a constitutional assembly which will meet on May 20 to choose a new provisional president and draft a new constitution. The assembly is scheduled to remain in session 180 days or until a permanent president is elected.

The decree set Nov. 1 as the date for the election of a constitutional president, congressmen, mayors, and governors. Successful candidates will be installed May 20, 1935.

President Grau said he would not continue in the presidency after May 20, regardless of whether the assembly confirms him as provisional president.

Registration Is Compulsory.

Under the electoral decree, all men and women over the age of 20 are required to register for the election. Failure to register will be punishable by 90 days in prison.

Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army, tonight said the government has confiscated plans made by foes of the régime under the lead of former President Mario G. Menocal and Dr. Martinez Saenz, head of the ABC organization, to oust Grau. He said Col. Rosendo Collazo was slated to lead an expedition from Mexico and that other former army officers would command groups from Santo Domingo.

Says Rebels Number 3,000.

"The exact strength of the expeditionary armies is not known to me," said Batista, "but secret reports in my possession indicate 3,000."

President Grau announced today that the government will bid at the auction of eleven of the largest sugar mills in Cuba owned by the Cuban Cane company, an American concern, on Jan. 15. They will be sold to meet a $15,000,000 mortgage foreclosure.

HONKING GOOSE ROBS MARTIN OF HASENPFEFFER

A goose caused Martin Hansen, 44 years old, 3647 Oketo avenue, an unemployed butcher, to be sentenced yesterday to five days in the Bridewell. Early Saturday morning he broke into the butcher shop of Harry Beider, 7211 Irving Park boulevard. While he was stuffing 14 live rabbits into a bag, a goose in a nearby crate began honking loudly. Hansen wrung the goose's neck, but not before it had awakened the owner, who pursued the burglar and captured him. Hansen told Judge Alfred O. Erickson that he tried to steal the rabbits because he was hungry for hasenpfeffer.

CITY SENATORS DECLARE WAR ON STATE RUM RULE

Assembly Faces New Week of Deadlock.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Illinois state senate today will resume consideration of the proposed state liquor control law with every prospect that the home rule issue will continue to block action.

This became evident yesterday at a conference of Chicago Democratic senators in Mayor Kelly's office. At the conclusion of an hour's talk behind closed doors it was announced that the Chicagoans had determined against surrender to the state control idea, even if the state has to go along for several months more without a liquor statute.

There was little talk, it was said, of conciliation. There were a dozen senators present, and that number plus a few Republicans will be sufficient to block a two-thirds vote of the senate for emergency approval of the Lager house bill which slid through the lower chamber without a vote to spare two weeks ago.

Unanimous for Home Rule.

When the conference dissolved Senator Richey V. Graham, president pro tempore of the upper house, and Senator Harold G. Ward, chairman of the special commission on liquor control legislation, acted as spokesmen for the group.

"We are unanimous for home rule," said Graham.

"We all," said Ward, "are of the opinion that the people of our districts want home rule, that they insist the municipalities should be allowed to regulate the sale of liquor for themselves in accordance with their own views."

Senator Ward also pointed out that as companions of the pending Lager bill there are pending appropriation bills calling for the expenditure of $400,000. Those measures are still in the house of representatives.

Gov. Horner Stands Firm.

From Springfield the advices were that Gov. Horner is firm in his advocacy of a state control commission, as provided in the Lager bill. So far as could be learned there had been no exchange of communications between the governor and Mayor Kelly over the week-end.

In connection with the senatorial conference Mayor Kelly said plainly that he was not acting the rôle of "boss," but merely had called the Chicago members of the upper house together so that they might decide for themselves where they will stand in the week's battling.

"This is not a matter of personal bitterness with me," he said before the conference, "but one of deep conviction that Chicago must protect itself. My views, however, are not to be the deciding factor in the talk among the senators. It seemed desirable that they exchange views before going into the new legislative week and it was for that reason alone that I called them together.

Mayor Charges Smoke Screen.

"Great amounts of smoke screen are being injected into the atmosphere. There is a great hue and cry about the saloon. Who, I'd like to ask, has established a precise definition for the saloon? What is a saloon?

"Is it any place in which liquor is sold by the drink? Is it a place that includes a bar where people may be served with liquor? Just what is it?

"My views on all phases of the problem have been made plain, time and time again. The people of the nation and the people of Illinois voted unmistakably for the right to take a drink. I am for giving them that right under the best possible conditions.

"But I am unalterably for giving the people of each community the right to decide for themselves how and when they want to drink. The state as a whole is not constituted in a way to pass on the needs and desires of the many communities within its borders."

Suggests April Referendum.

Discussing the issue of home rule versus state dictation, Mayor Kelly said that rather than agree to a bill for a state commission at this time he would prefer to see a referendum at the April election on some of the important questions raised in the legislative controversy. His proposal was that the subject could be placed on the ballot as a question of public policy.

The mayor said once more that he is against the return of the "old time

Find 35 Flood Dead; Hunt 73 in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Knee deep in tons of mud, silt, and débris, an army of relief and rehabilitation workers moved today into stricken areas where at least 35 persons died and 73 others were reported missing in Sunday night's disastrous floods. Thirty-two bodies had been identified. Seven persons also were killed in traffic accidents resulting from the storm.

Thousands of men and women, Red Cross nurses, American Legionnaires, sheriff's deputies, police, and volunteers sought other bodies in the wreckage of nearly 300 structures and attempted to effect order in the storm swept districts.

Loss of 5 Millions.

County authorities estimated the damage would exceed 5 million dollars. The rehabilitation work was most intense in the Montrose and La Crescenta communities, which, stripped of watershed protection by a disastrous fire six weeks ago, in which 29 relief workers were cremated, fell prey to the deluge.

Not all the devastated area had been searched exhaustively for bodies, however, and relief officials said many of the missing might have perished.

Many of the victims, especially in the Montrose and upper Glendale sections, were trapped as they slept.

Two thousand homes were damaged in the Culver City-La Playa-Del Rey-Venice area, but families who had evacuated some 1,500 dwellings were able to return today.

Rains Cease at Last.

A warm sun shone throughout the day on the stricken areas. Precipitation, shattering a 57 year storm record, came to an end during the night. The total rainfall for the storm in Los Angeles was 8.27 inches, bringing the figure for the season to 11.29 inches, 7.08 inches more than normal.

Responding to a request from City Engineer Lloyd Aldrich for trucks, supplies, and men, the Los Angeles city council today appropriated $10,000 from the city's reserve fund to supply 100 trucks and equipment. Aldrich was authorized to seek federal financial aid.

More than forty bridges were washed out in the county, but rail transportation was able to proceed today at a nearly normal rate.

Tells of Wall of Water.

The terrific force of the great wall of water which surged down through Pickens canyon and into Montrose, La Crescenta, and La Canada was shown in a report of Don Carpenter, Montrose resident, who late today returned from a horseback trip to the rim of the canyon.

The check dam was rent completely asunder, he reported.

A story of tragedy was told at Montrose by Arthur McLean, 27, whose mother, Mrs. Ella McLean, was among the dead. They were trapped in their small frame dwelling when a torrent surged from the hills Sunday night.

"For hours," he said, "rocks and timbers crashed against our home. Finally the water swept into the house, hissing and roaring. I called to mother, but I could not reach her. I was washed out of the house and carried more than 100 yards. Finally I was hurled against a tree. I climbed to the top of it and leaped to a rooftop, where I waited, shivering and quivering with fear, until dawn."

Mother's Body in Ruins.

All of Monday McLean searched vainly for his mother. Today, with a squad of rescue workers he found her body in the ruins of their home, beneath tons of débris.

Stories of terrifying experiences were told by hundreds in Montrose, La Crescenta, La Canada and other communities of the main flood area today as survivors, their homes tangled masses of wood, rocks, and mud, gathered to avail themselves of the

PRESIDENT TO APPEAR BEFORE 73D CONGRESS

Will Give Account of the 'New Deal.'

Congress on the Air.

W-G-N, The Tribune's radio station, will broadcast the opening session of congress, beginning at 11 o'clock today. The broadcast will be brought to W-G-N over an NBC hook up.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight put the finishing touches to his annual message, which he may decide to deliver in person to a joint session of the Seventy-third congress when it reassembles tomorrow noon.

Something akin to a sensation was produced when word flew through Washington this afternoon that preparations were being made at the capitol for the reception of the President at a joint session to read his message.

When it was first rumored last week that Mr. Roosevelt would follow the precedent revived by Woodrow Wilson of personal delivery of messages the White House sought to dispose of the report by explaining that the President would not appear before congress at any time unless the development of a grave emergency should warrant such emphasis on an executive appeal for first aid legislation.

Touches Off Speculation.

In the light of this explanation, the preparations for the visit of the President to the capitol touched off all kinds of speculation on the character of the crisis in the affairs of state that had caused the change of program.

Nobody was aware of any emergency any greater than that we have been living with throughout the depression including the extraordinary 100 days session of this congress last spring, when not even the bank panic impelled the President to make a personal appearance at the capitol.

Recourse to the White House secretariat only increased the mystification. The secretariat knew of no crisis, explained that whether the President were to read his message to the two houses in joint session would depend on the weather tomorrow. If it is a fine day Mr. Roosevelt will appear at the capitol, otherwise not, according to the secretariat.

Faces Acclaim by Congress.

If he does go, and Democratic leaders on Capitol hill confidently expect him to, Mr. Roosevelt will receive a meed of acclaim such as has been accorded few Presidents. For more than a week incoming Democratic senators and representatives and not a few Republicans have been telling the President that the country is overwhelmingly behind him in his efforts to recover prosperity, that he is stronger today than when he assumed office, that even the Republicans have been cowed into submission by the wave of popular hero worship.

Comment was heard today in more than one quarter that the President would be more than human could he resist the temptation to taste the delights of triumph which a personal appearance before congress under such circumstances would afford.

Mr. Wilson was the first President since George Washington to deliver a message to congress. Mr. Harding read his first message to a joint session and so did Mr. Coolidge, but neither appeared again, and Mr. Hoover never appeared at all before both houses in joint session, though he did address the senate on one occasion.

Works on Message.

Mr. Roosevelt was not seen at the executive office today. He remained at the mansion dictating and polishing his message which will report the "state of the Union," as directed by the constitution. Those who have been taken into presidential confidence say that the message is an arresting document in its presentation of the case for the new deal. It will be comparatively short, requiring about twenty minutes to read.

The immediate legislative program agreed upon by majority leaders of both houses today calls for the passage of the new liquor tax bill as the first act of the session, to be followed at once by a liquor regulation bill for the District of Columbia. Appropriation bills will follow, but will be speedily sidetracked to make way for reciprocal tariff legislation as soon as the President makes his request for power to negotiate trade agreements without senatorial ratification.

It was the prospective tariff legislation which brought from Republican leaders the only word of protest from the minority party on the eve of the session. Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep. Ore.], senate Republican leader, predicted strenuous opposition to such a tariff measure and Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], declared:

"I am a Roosevelt man, but I would not vote for a thing like that."

The eve of the session found Republican leaders in both houses proceeding warily as far as criticism or obstruction of the Roosevelt program was concerned. For the senate, Mr. McNary predicted a "coöperative spirit whenever one is possible," as the attitude of the minority. On the house side, Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.] declared after a meeting of his steering committee that the minority party "still has a function to perform."

From a member of the administration's own party—Chairman James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.], of the house appropriations committee—came the day's sharpest criticism of the Roosevelt policies. Mr. Buchanan was inflamed at the allocation of 2¼ billion dollars of the public works funds to federal projects, many of which, he declared, have been definitely turned down in the past by his appropriation committee.

"I see no sense whatever in cutting down appropriations and then turning public works money over to make up for the cuts," he asserted. "If there is another public works bill, and there will be one, of course, I'm going to insist on a specific prohibition against using public works money to make up for departmental appropriation cuts ordered by congress."

Senator Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] announced that he would introduce a bill to do away with the National Recovery Administration.

JAPAN TO MAKE PU-YI EMPEROR OF MANCHUKUO

TOKIO, Jan. 3 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Important changes in the Japanese advised government of Manchukuo, including the elevation of 28 year old Henry Pu-yi to be emperor, were reported imminent today in high circles.

Pu-yi, who was emperor of all China before the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty in 1912, at present is the executive of the Manchukuo government. He was made the nominal ruler when Japan seized the area from China last year.

Manchukuo is expected to issue on Jan. 15 an "important manifesto concerning the future policy of Manchukuo which, it was learned on reliable authority, will have a widespread effect on Manchukuo's 30,000,000 inhabitants," a Rengo [Japanese] news agency dispatch from Hsinching [Changchun] said.

Although it was forbidden under a decree to state the definite nature of the impending developments or name the individual destined to be the central figure in them, it was known that the changes planned will be effectuated March 1 and that they will have a constitutional character involving the establishment of a new fundamental law in Manchukuo patterned largely after the Japanese model.

velopment of the southern all-American route.

Gen. Markham, despite the overwhelming opinions of his own subordinates, does not agree with the facts and opinions outlined by them. In the suppressed report he declared that he saw no reason for reserving discretion to the American army engineers on the question of the amount of the diversion, even though he conceded the impossibility of determining the amount necessary.

Gen. Markham ignored entirely in his report the fact that unless this reservation is made before the St. Lawrence treaty is ratified it can never be made. He did speak vaguely of "international as well as national interests."

In this connection it has been charged that Gen. Markham's appointment to his post, which he took recently, was made in part for the purpose of obtaining a favorable report on the engineering aspects of the St. Lawrence and gulf waterways.

Opposed by Brown, Rumor.

It is generally asserted in Washington that Gen. Markham's predecessor, Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, had refused to sign a report holding the proposed diversion of 1,500 C. S. F. at Chicago to be sufficient for navigation purposes on the Illinois waterway.

Because of the importance of the report in the weighing of the treaty before the senate at the present session of congress THE TRIBUNE presents it herewith in considerable detail.

The report, which is signed by Gen. Markham, first points out that with the addition of the domestic pumpage, estimated at 1,700 C. S. F. in the summer season, the total annual supply would average 3,200 C. S. F.

The report concedes that this flow would not be continuously available, because at times a much greater flow is needed to prevent the backing up of sewage into Lake Michigan. The "reliable flow," with a permitted diversion of 1,500 C. S. F., the report states, would be about 2,400 C. S. F.

Some Details of Report.

Going then to the findings of the district and division engineers and the board of engineers, the report states as follows:

"While the district engineer finds that an annual diversion of 1,500 cubic feet per second, increased by domestic pumpage, is ample to provide an adequate flow to meet all requirements of lockage, seepage, leakage, and evaporization on the waterway, he concludes that the determination whether this flow will provide a flow suitable from a sanitary standpoint for a commercially inequal waterway can be made only by experience after the sewage treatments plants at Chicago are completed.

"He points out that the weight of expert testimony is to the effect that the effluent from the sewage treatment plants will be inoffensive, but that the program is on such an unprecedented scale that such predictions must contain an element of uncertainty, and that no reliable process of calculation can predict the effect of raw sewage in storm water run off and of accumulated sludge deposits.

Division Engineer's Views.

"The division engineer concurs in general with the conclusions of the district engineer. He believes that in order to afford an assured channel in the chain of rocks section of the Mississippi river at St. Louis, its positive improvement should be provided by the construction of locks and dams at an estimated cost of $12,000,000.

"He recommends that the chief of engineers be granted authority to direct such additional temporary diversions of lake water, not to be considered in the determination of the annual average, as may be necessary to flush pools or to maintain pool levels and as may not be inimical to lake navigation.

"These reports have been referred, in accordance with law, to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors. Attention is invited to its report herewith concurring in general with the views and recommendations of the reporting officers.

Flow Provides Minimum.

"The board reports that the minimum average annual diversion of water from Lake Michigan that will be required to meet the direct needs of navigation for a commercially useful waterway in the Illinois river and that will not substantially injure the existing navigation on the great lakes, is 1,500 cubic feet per second, as prescribed by the Supreme court decree, but that the indirect needs of such a waterway in the matter of securing satisfactory sanitary conditions for those aboard vessels or employed at terminals cannot be determined until the waterway has been fully completed and the diversion limited to 1,500 cubic feet per second for a sufficient period of time to observe the conditions that may then exist.

"The board recommends that the chief of engineers be granted authority to direct such additional temporary diversions of lake water, not to be considered in the determination of the annual average, as may be necessary to flush pools and, or to maintain pool levels and as may not be inimical to lake navigation.

"After due consideration of these reports, I concur in general in the views and recommendations of the board. The report conclusively shows that, aside from sanitary requirements, the minimum annual average flow from Lake Michigan required to meet the needs of a commercially useful waterway in the Illinois river, is a direct diversion of 1,500 cubic feet per second in addition to domestic pumpage by the city of Chicago.

Vitally Affects Illinois Waterway.

"It does not appear possible to arrive at a conclusive determination whether this flow will afford suitable sanitary conditions on the waterway after the sewage purification plants at Chicago have been completed and placed in operation. This flow will not substantially injure the existing navigation on the great lakes.

"Having in view the international as well as the national interest in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan, I do not consider it appropriate that the chief engineers should be afforded discretionary power to increase the diversion. The present discharge of untreated sewage produces as bad sanitary conditions in the Chicago drainage canal and in the portion of the Illinois waterway immediately below Lockport as those which may be expected with the reduced diversion after the sewage treatment has been completed in accordance with the intent of the decree of the Supreme court. The situation is one which unquestionably demands a remedy, but the remedy should, in my opinion, be afforded first by the purification of the sewage, and second, if that proves inadequate, by a moderate and reasonable draft of water from Lake Michigan. Until the need is established for a greater diversion than that now provided by law, I see no reason for a modification of the present legislation.

Opposes Immediate Change.

"I therefore recommend that no change be made for the time being in the water authorized to be used for the navigation of the Illinois river under the provisions of the river and harbor act approved July 3, 1930, that the slack watering of the river be completed by the construction of modern locks and dams at La Grange and Peoria, and that to provide a fully useful commercial waterway the project for the improvement be modified to provide for a channel at least 9 feet deep and 300 feet wide below Lockport."

U. S. OFFICIAL REJECTS CORPORATION'S GIFT OF $50 BOX OF CIGARS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce, has sent a $50 box of cigars back to the corporation that presented it to him with the notation that he did not think government employés should accept gifts from those with whom they have business dealings.

Mitchell issued orders to all employés and officials in the six department divisions under him to return all such gratuities.

"I do not think it good practice," Mitchell informed the donors, "for a government official or employé to accept gifts, even of small value, from those with whom he has business relations or with whom he may have business relations."

In his order, Mitchell said that such gifts were made to "influence favorable action by those who receive them, and that such object is, to a greater or less degree obtained in a large percentage of the cases."

STATUS OF CANAL PROJECTS TOLD TO SUPREME COURT

Plans Completed for U. S. Loan of 42 Million.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The Chicago sanitary district, in its semi-annual report to the Supreme court, filed today, said it had completed arrangements for the sale of bonds to the federal emergency administration of public works which had brought it $42,169,315 in cash. Of this amount $41,938,000 was the purchase price of the bonds and $231,315 represented accrued interest.

The money received from the federal government will be applied in pushing work on the Calumet and west side projects and the west-sout' west plant.

100 Millions Expended.

The report said there had been expended $100,969,212 on the work completed Dec. 1, 1933, leaving work estimated to cost $120,185,000 to be done. In addition to the money obtained from the federal government it will be necessary for the sanitary district to provide $78,247,000 for the completion of the projects now planned.

The money advanced by the federal government must be applied, the report said, to construction work to be completed within the next two years.

Report on Diversion.

The report said during 1933 the net diversion of water from Lake Michigan had averaged 6,280 cubic feet per second, made under a permit from the secretary of war limiting the diversion to the end of 1935 at not more than 6,500 cubic feet per second. In addition to this diversion Chicago is taking from the lake for domestic purposes, the report stated, an average of 1,690 cubic feet per second. The total flow through the sanitary canal at Lockport was reported to have averaged during the year 8,015 cubic feet per second.

Future Projects Listed.

Future construction work was listed as: Calumet project, costing $14,140,000; north side project, $5,392,500; west side, $13,138,000; west-southwest plant, $37,550,000; southwest side, $44,847,000; miscellaneous plants and sewers, $2,000,000; Chicago river controlling works [if necessary], $3,200,000. This totals $120,367,500.

"During the interim of six months between the date of the last report," the brief reads, "and the present report, very little actual construction work has been accomplished. Work has been prosecuted diligently on the design of the Calumet, the west side and the southwest side projects, and on the west-southwest sewage treatment plant.

"Construction work on the Calumet pumping station and blower house and on the aeration tanks, operating galleries and final settling tanks has been discontinued since December, 1931.

Plans Virtually Complete.

"Plans are practically completed for the Harvey sewer, the California avenue outlet sewer, the Evergreen Park sewer and for the sewer in South Park avenue, and plans are being prepared for the Blue Island sewer extension.

"Plans have been completed for preliminary settling tanks, sludge concentration tanks, screens, meter vault, sewage conduits, etc., for the Calumet treatment works. This work is ready for advertising of bids. It is contemplated that this contract will be let in the late summer of 1934."

The district said it expected work would be resumed immediately upon the west side project, which includes the Imhoff tank battery and construction of the west side sewer.

EVEN STANDING ROOM IS GONE FOR FIRST CONGRESS MEETING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—A rush for tickets that would delight the heart of a theatrical producer was on today for a show that will have only one performance.

When word spread today of a strong probability that President Roosevelt would address congress tomorrow, House Doorkeeper Joseph J. Sinnott was flooded with thousands of requests for seats. High government officials as well as others failed to get them.

The joint session would be held in the house chamber because it is larger than the senate chamber. Despite this, there are but 553 chair seats in the galleries and 100 seats on steps. There are 435 representatives and 96 senators.

ROSENBERG 'WELL AS EXPECTED,' PHYSICIANS FIND

Bulletin Says No Cause for Alarm.

A bulletin issued by five physicians last evening indicated that the condition of Moe Rosenberg, west side Democratic politician who underwent an operation for appendicitis two days ago at the Frances Willard hospital, is not so grave as it was reported earlier in the day.

After relating that the removed appendix was inflamed, the bulletin continued:

"At present the post-operative condition is what might be expected. There is considerable abdominal distension with a great deal of pain. The pulse has increased and on one or two occasions became weak and irregular, but responded to cardiac stimulants. The present condition shows no cause for alarm."

Signers of Report.

Those signing the reports were Dr. Allan E. Stewart, chief of the hospital surgical staff; Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health; Dr. Frank O'Connor, English specialist; Dr. Frederick Tice, heart specialist, and Dr. Samuel Marmor, the Rosenberg family physician.

At midnight Dr. Marmor said Rosenberg's condition showed little change.

Members of Rosenberg's family remained constantly at the hospital, but were cheered by the evening bulletin. They had been anxious since his ailment developed, particularly as his brother Michael died of appendicitis several years ago.

The trial of Rosenberg, on a charge of income tax evasion which was scheduled to have begun yesterday, was delayed until next Monday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. At that time, the judge said, he will set a trial date after hearing reports from the attending physicians. Rosenberg is charged with defrauding the government of $85,000 in income tax for the years of 1929 and 1930.

Plans to Plead Guilty.

It had been rumored that Rosenberg planned to plead guilty to the income tax charge yesterday until the operation made impossible his appearance in court.

The plan to plead guilty was said to have been evolved after Rosenberg's offer of a compromise settlement was refused last week in Washington.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Senator Sheppard [Dem., Tex.] put up a Blue Eagle on his office door today, the building custodian notwithstanding. The senator recently signed the President's reëmployment agreement in behalf of his office force and placed on his door a big Blue Eagle. The custodian asked him to take it down, explaining that it was against the rules to put up "signs."

Mrs. Rainey Heads List—$327 a Month.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Despite the furore caused before the last congressional election campaigns by wide publication of the names of representatives whose wives and other relatives enjoyed places on the federal pay rolls, present members seem to be clinging to the old habit, a survey of the November rolls showed today.

Nearly sixty members, including the resident commissioners from Porto Rico and the Philippine islands, have employés on the pay roll whose last names are identical with those of the members.

That there are many other members who have close relatives listed on the rolls was freely admitted.

Making Hay.

It is also known that several minor employés about the house are sons of members.

Both in prominence and in the amount involved, Mrs. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, wife of the speaker, led the list of relatives. Mrs. Rainey's salary as secretary to her husband is $327.25 a month.

The name of Eleanor O. Kemp was shown as receiving $195.50 a month on the territories committee, whose chairman at the last session was the late Bolivar E. Kemp of Louisiana.

One small salary listed was that of A. H. Carmichael Jr., although Representative Elect Carmichael of Alabama has not yet been sworn in as a member of the house.

"Maybe they feel that with the Vice President's and speaker's wives making good salaries on top of what their husbands are paid, they should 'make hay' too," a veteran employé said when he viewed the list.

Not Under Code.

Another, a member who said he employed no relatives, held a different view.

"With people back home out of jobs," he said, "won't it be a fine thing when some member is making a speech for reelection, and a jobless constituent in the back of the house yells: "How much does your wife make in Washington?"

"It is interesting," another remarked, "to see the speaker, second man in the New Deal government keeping his wife on the pay roll, whereas all the codes are devoted to spreading employment to the needy and otherwise unemployed."

Some of the Lucky Listed.

Among midwest representatives and those of identical surnames and the amounts paid to them [aside from the speaker's wife, as shown on the November pay roll, are:

Crosser [O.], Barbara Crosser, $177.08.
Dickinson [Mo.], Peyton Dickinson, $294.16.
Dingell [Mich.], Frank J. Dingell, $254.16.
Gregory [Ky], Marie Gregory, $177.08.
Hamilton [Ky.], Lily Hamilton, $167.50.
Hughes [Wis.], James W. Hughes, $110.
Kvale [Minn.], Russell B. Kvale, $145.83.

POLICEMEN BUILD OWN RADIO PLANT IN RIVER FOREST

A police radio broadcasting system was installed in River Forest yesterday for the first time. The mechanical equipment has been under construction for the last two months by members of the police department and William Ingle, 730 Belleforte avenue, Oak Park, a radio engineer who contributed his services. The policeman decided to build the system themselves after they were unable to obtain a contractor's bid under $1,800. The cost of the set with the policemen doing the work themselves was estimated at only $230. Chief Carl Soderlin said the department will now be able to give information to occupants of five squad cars within three seconds after the first flash of a crime has been received.

ITALIANS CHARGE JAPAN'S POLICIES MENACE PEACE

Marquis Sees Danger in Naval Race.

ROME, Jan. 2.—(AP)—A cry of alarm against the "menace" of Japanese naval activities and recent policies was raised today in the Italian budget committee's report on navy expenditures distributed in the chamber of deputies.

"Japan today invades China—inspired by race hatred, she will plan tomorrow against white men," said the Marquis Giacomo Medici del Vascello, the committee reporter, in revealing that Italy's naval budget of 98,731,000 lire [currently about $7,898,480] for 1934-35 is 14,536,000 lire [$1,082,880] under that for the current year.

Calls Jap Gesture Menacing.

Referring to Japan's naval activities, the marquis declared that "the groundwork for this future danger from the east is perhaps being laid.

"It was revealed in Japan's recent policies and diplomacy, including her withdrawal from the league of nations. This gesture is of great importance and is highly significant and menacing.

"She quit the league in 1933 because of the very clauses in the covenant which she once accepted, and in 1935—a time of still graver decisions—she will have full and unconditional freedom of action."

His reference to 1935 was to a conference suggested for the study of a naval accord on the expiration of the Washington and London treaties.

Sees Resumption of Naval Race.

Citing the American, British, and Japanese naval building programs, Vascello said the year 1934 brings a resumption of a race for naval armaments in preparation for the treaty expirations.

He said the Washington and London pacts never accomplished the purpose of arresting naval rivalry of Japan and the United States.

"During the useless discussions at Geneva the three major naval powers diligently worked to add new warships to their fleets," he asserted. "The policies of these powers will have certain repercussions which can be foreseen in the near future in world events.

"Almost all nations are preparing for the expiration of the treaties with anything but intentions that would favor world peace. The vision of peace the whole world clamors for is receding into the distance."

He concluded by citing the Brazilian and Argentine naval programs among others, and declared the building fever apparently has touched even the Latin-American countries.

BETTER TIMES AHEAD, IS MRS. ROOSEVELT'S PREDICTION FOR 1934

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt thinks that "everybody has a sort of cheerful outlook toward this new year." As for herself, she looks forward to a "slow return"—she emphasized the adjective—"to normal times."

She said so this morning at her press conference when she was asked what she thought about the new year. She shuddered when they suggested a prophecy. She doesn't put overly much faith in prophecy.

The wife of the President believes that "allowing the usual batting average for prophecy" we may look forward to a series of ups and downs, with the ups more pronounced than the downs.

Plenty to Keep Her Busy.

"Now that the holidays are over," spoke up a newspaper woman, "what of your many interests are you going to attack?"

"My dear child," replied Mrs. Roosevelt, "I don't attack anything. I hope I don't. That would be a horrible attitude."

"Well," bantered the reporter, "you usually win; that's why I used the word."

Anyway, whatever the technique, Mrs. Roosevelt's interests for the rest of this week include: Hostess at a dinner to sixty this evening attendance at congress tomorrow to hear her husband read his message, attendance at an Episcopalian parish luncheon, hostess Thursday at the White House, reception in honor of the judiciary, and a speech Friday in favor of old age security pensions.

JARECKI ACTS FOR RECOUNT ON 1932 ELECTION

Impounds Ballots After Plea by Civic Groups.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday indicated that he would order a recount of all votes cast in Cook county in the general election of Nov. 8, 1932. The judge ordered the election commissioners and the county clerk's assistants to impound all ballots cast at this election, and set Jan. 12 for the hearing of attorneys representing a group of civic leaders who filed a petition asking for the recount.

The plea for the recount was based on the prevalence of fraud as disclosed in the recount of certain ballots during the Samuel Heller-Erwin J. Hasten contest which recently was ended when Heller, a Republican candidate, was seated as a Municipal judge and Hasten, a Democrat, who had been sitting, was ousted. Official election commissioners' findings in the recount were included to show fraud in 128 out of 374 city precincts in which ballots were examined.

In the 24th ward, one of the so-called "river wards," controlled by Moe Rosenberg, frauds were found to have occurred in every precinct.

Petition for Recount.

The petitioners included Joseph W. Badenoch, head of a citizens' committee; John McKinlay, president of the Union League club; Edward L. Ryerson Jr.; Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime commission; Max Murdock, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Union League club; C. L. Rice, chairman of the civic affairs committee of the Association of Commerce; Robert Clements, president of the Chicago Church federation; Alfred Cowles, president of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency; Grace T. Davis, president of the Chicago Woman's club, and Mrs. Burnette D. Warner, president of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs.

The petition itself, a 75 page document which contained brief analyses of the recount findings in 67 of the 300 precincts in which the judicial ballots were examined in the Heller-Hasten contest, was presented to Judge Jarecki by Attorneys Harry E. Kelly and Carl R. Latham. The petition asked only for a recount of all ballots cast in the 3,029 city precincts in the fifty Chicago wards.

Urges Recount for County.

"I don't see why you limit this thing to Chicago," said Judge Jarecki as Attorney Kelly completed his presentation of the petition. "Why not make this a Cook county affair? I have favored something like this for years. A recount of every vote is what is needed."

"We are more than willing to do this," announced Attorney Kelly. "We want to go as far as the jurisdiction of the court extends. We are nonpartisan and we seek to stigmatize no one party, but only those who commit these frauds. We want honest elections and we hope the next one will be honest."

Offer to Pay All Costs.

Through their counsel, the petitioners also announced that they would pay the costs of the recount, which were estimated by election officials to amount to between $40,000 and $50,000. When this statement was made by Attorney Kelly, Judge Jarecki glanced at Mr. Badenoch, who was sitting near by, and asked:

"We discussed those arrangements several days ago in the office of Col. Knox [Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News], did we not? The arrangement sought is a good one since no public funds will be needed for the work."

Judge Jarecki then entered his impounding order. He summoned Chief Election Clerk Dan Carey from County Clerk Sweitzer's office, which conducts elections in country towns within Cook county where the jurisdiction of the board of election commissioners does not extend, to inform him of the order. The judge explained his action in continuing the case until Jan. 12 by saying he was heavily burdened with tax cases.

"In ballots cast at elections government is established," said Judge Jarecki, "but in these tax cases we are hearing matters pertaining to the maintenance of government."

Election Officials Jailed.

The evidence cited in the petition has already been used to send 17 judges and clerks of election in various polling places to jail for terms ranging from 15 days to one year. Twenty fines ranging from $50 to $150 have been imposed. There still are 14 other defendants awaiting trial on similar charges growing out of the Heller-Hasten contest.

In the petition these reports are summarized in a table of "fraud shown or indicated." The table establishes that ballots from 374 precincts were examined, and in 128 precincts fraud was found. The proportion of fraud was 29.6 per cent, by precincts. Fraud was found to have occurred in 66 per cent of all precincts in the First ward, in 35 per cent of the precincts in the Twentieth ward, in 30 per cent of the precincts in both the Twenty-seventh and the Fifth wards, and in 28 per cent of the precincts in the Twenty-third ward.

Types of Fraud Classified.

The frauds were classified as of four types. The first is that of willful miscounting of ballots; the second the marking of large numbers of ballots by the same person, as indicated by similarity in marking; the third, tampering with ballots either by insertion of crosses for favorite candidates or erasures, and the last the large number of ballots where clerks of election "aided" voters in marking the ballot.

In an interview after the court hearing Judge Jarecki pointed out that in the November, 1932, election there were four ballots—the large ballot, a smaller ballot for the Municipal court judges, a third on which several amendments to the state constitution were presented for a referendum vote, and a fourth ballot which included several propositions. A recount would require the work of 175 clerks for two or three months, he said.

THIEF RANSACKS SIX EVANSTON HOMES; LOOT $3

A burglar who had apparently used a screwdriver to force locks on front doors broke into the homes of six Evanstonians last night, ransacked them all, and escaped with only $1.86 and a $1 pair of earrings.

The homes were those of Albert J. Hiner and Burr A. Benson, both of 620 Judson avenue; Lawrence Van Ness, 822 Forest avenue; Edith Nelson, 517 Lee street; Frank O. Butler, 229 Main street, and William A. Osgood, 824 Forest avenue. Mr. Van Ness, from whom $1.50 was taken, was the heaviest loser.

ORDERS GRAND JURY TO PROBE AUTO THIEVERY

Judge Stresses Reports on "Fences."

Two important steps were taken yesterday in the campaign to reduce the automobile thievery which costs Chicago motorists millions of dollars a year in increased insurance premiums. First, Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court, impaneling the January grand jury, gave its members a special charge to investigate "fences" who receive stolen cars and parts. Second, a special branch of the Municipal court, to handle all automobile theft cases, was opened in the Criminal Courts building.

"I direct your attention to an existing condition in Cook county and especially in Chicago relative to automobile larcenies and the stripping of automobiles," Judge Finnegan told the grand jurors.

Orders Theft Inquiry.

"Newspaper stories have been published to the effect that so-called 'fences,' or clearing houses for stolen cars and parts, are operating in our community. Suggestion has been made that certain of these establishments are immune from attack or prosecution.

"You gentlemen have the power to investigate these matters and the court charges you to make true inquiries and report all violations of the law, if any you find."

Charles T. Eddy, a public accountant living at 617 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, was chosen as foreman of the grand jury.

Opens New Auto Court.

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court was among those present when Judge Joseph A. Graber opened the new automobile branch of the court. It was placed in the Criminal Courts building to bring it closer to the state's attorney's office.

The first case called was that of an alleged "fence" for stolen automobiles, James Duda, 45 years old, owner of the Southwest Wrecking company, 1413 West 47th street.

Policeman John Martin testified that Duda showed a purported bill of sale for the car but that police were unable to find the man named in the bill as the seller. The case was continued to Jan. 9 to give the police an opportunity to find Etzel, who has moved from the 60th street address.

Judge Graber had nineteen cases on his call yesterday. In five cases he held six defendants to the grand jury, all of them but one being youths under 21 years old. The other cases were continued.

PENNSYLVANIA OPENS STATE LIQUOR STORES

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Pennsylvania went into the liquor business today, but there was no rush of customers.

In fact business generally was poor in the state liquor stores that opened their doors during the day.

There were many "window shoppers," but comparatively few purchases.

First day sales to individuals were in small amounts, whiskies getting preference over gins, wines, and cordials. Some hotel and restaurant men bought larger quantities to replenish depleted stocks.

Less than 100 stores opened, but the liquor control board, created by a special session of the legislature, rushed plans to open 240 stores.

BARBARA HUTTON AND HER PRINCE TO GO TO ORIENT

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani and her husband, Prince Alexis Mdivani of Georgia, will leave Thursday for the orient, with an accounting for her $40,000,000 estate tucked safely away in the records of a Suffolk County court.

The accounting was made by her father and guardian, Franklyn Hutton, and has just been revealed, although it was filed several weeks ago.

It showed that Barbara was allowed $400,000 a year for living expenses while she was preparing to marry Prince Alexis. Previously her allowance was $300,000 annually.

She inherited the $40,000,000 estate last November when she was 21.

Harvey Bissell, millionaire manufacturer and sportsman, reported late today by telephone he and his family were marooned in their palatial ranch home high above La Crescenta because of landslides on the roads.

Silt in Judge's Courtroom.

Superior Judge Guy F. Bush entered his courtroom today to find a truckload of rocks and silt had been deposited in his chambers.

Judge Bush's chambers are on the second floor of a modern downtown building. Investigation developed the flood had sent a torrent of débris down a hillside adjacent to the building, many bowlders crashing through Judge Bush's windows.

A proclamation citing the magnitude of the disaster and urging all citizens to contribute to Red Cross funds was issued by Mayor Frank L. Shaw, while Gov. James Rolph Jr., promising every necessary assistance from the state, kept in close touch with rehabilitation workers throughout the day.

CWA Head in Command.

Maj. J. E. Manique, retired army officer, was named by Capt. Edward MacCauley, head of the civil works administration in California, as officer in command of all relief work. MacCauley placed 4,000 CWA men. Numerous men were withdrawn from other projects and hurried into the stricken areas.

A serious problem confronted Montrose in the lack of drinking water. Water companies sent emergency units into the area. Red Cross headquarters were in operation in Montrose and La Crescenta and coroner's assistants were in charge of temporary morgues. Hundreds of physicians and nurses were in the areas.

Frank Nance, county coroner, announced an investigation was being made to determine whether the breaking of a check dam in Pickens canyon, above Montrose, had resulted in some of the loss of life. He said it was probable no inquest would be held.

YANKEES WANT POUND OF FLESH, ARKANSAS TOLD

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 2.—Two alternatives were held out to the legislature by Gov. J. M. Futrell today. One was the passage of tax laws to meet the compromise effected by state officials with a group of highway bondholders. The other was the possibility that U. S. marshals would seize Arkansas homes in highway districts where bonds are in default, if bondholders were successful in the suits before the United States Supreme court and the federal court in Arkansas. The legislature is in special session to seek refunding of $155,000,000 highway bonds.

Immediately after the session opened Speaker H. K. Toney told the house members he hoped the legislature would preserve the honor and credit of the state.

"I say this," he added with emphasis, "despite the fact that I have no consideration for those 'Yankee bondholders who have sued in the Supreme court [of the United States] and in our federal colurt."

A refunding program worked out at a previous special session has been attacked by Pennsylvania which has filed suit in the United States Supreme court. A bondholder's suit in federal court here has tied up highway revenue.

"The federal government is feeding a great number of people and yet these 'Yankees' have come here asking for their pound of flesh and the last drop of our blood," the speaker declared.

FORMER CHICAGO TWINS DIE STILL PALS IN FLOOD

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—For 19 years and 11 months Winston and Weston Doty, twin brothers, were inseparable. As children in Chicago they played in the old Selig movie comedies.

Coming to Los Angeles at the age of 8, they attended grammar and high school together and matriculated at the University of Southern California, where they studied architecture and were twin yell leaders in 1932. They also played in motion pictures here, being in four "Our Gang" comedies. They were in "Peter Pan" with Betty Bronson.

They attended a New Year's eve party of young folks in Montrose Sunday night. Flood waters swept down the canyon and engulfed the house. Both boys and several other young people were drowned. Search today revealed the twins' bodies, still together, far down the boulder strewn ravine.

Gets "215" as Auto Number for 18th Successive Year

Charles H. Goll, 1521 Birchwood avenue, yesterday received his 1934 state automobile license plates bearing the same number, 215, which he has carried on his various cars since 1915. He nailed his 1933 plate to his garage door in company with the plates of seventeen preceding years.

Receiver Is Appointed for Belt Casualty Co.

H. B. Hershey of Springfield, state administrator of insurance, yesterday was appointed receiver for the Belt Casualty company, 29 South La Salle street, by Judge Hugo M. Friend in the Circuit court. The petition for a receiver was filed by Attorney General Kerner on behalf of Ernest Palmer, state director of insurance. The bill alleged that the company was insolvent through an impairment of $176,789 in its capital. Most of the company's business was the writing of automobile insurance.

saloon," with its bar, its screened windows, and its back room. But he said he thought the cities could regulate such matters without the aid of members of a state commission selected through political channels.

Largely because of the mayor's determined position there was a rush of applications for city liquor licenses at City Collector Kaindl's office.

At 5 p. m. the number of applications on file totaled 5,274. After 3.2 beer came back last April 8,326 applications for city beverage licenses were filed and these licensees were permitted to sell liquor up to the opening of the new year. It was estimated yesterday that now a number of these dispensers would either go out of business or stop selling liquor and that the probable total of liquor licenses would be about 6,500.

Police Make a Survey.

Last night policemen visited every establishment selling liquor to determine if each had made application for a new license. They were acting under orders of Police Commissioner Allman to give summonses to proprietors of "fly-by-night" places, but to allow a day of grace to reputable saloonkeepers.

The police started strict enforcement this morning of the 1 o'clock closing law. All districts reported the law was being obeyed and that most saloonkeepers ordered their patrons out at 12:45 a. m. The Sunday closing time is 2 a. m. and the opening hours 7 a. m. weekdays and 1 p. m. Sundays.

A test of the city's licensing power was begun in the Circuit court in the name of Harry Nichols, operator of the Lucky Strike cafe, 735 Englewood avenue, the upper floors of which are college. The police contend that the saloon is in dry territory. Nichols asked an injunction on the ground that the city, without state action, is powerless to close his place.

LADIES RESENT BAR BAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—O, Mister Mayor Kelly of Chicago, the National Woman's party has a bone to pick with you.

You see, Mister Mayor, you said that women shouldn't drink at bars, but you didn't say that men shouldn't drink at bars. And that's sex discrimination.

Miss Anita Pollitzer, very pretty vice chairman of the National Woman's party, has read your ruling, Mister Kelly. And, while her organization is nonpartisan in politics and nonpartisan in prohibition, she does have this to say:

"Bars are either good, or they are bad. It is up to the municipality or the officials or the electorate to decide which they are. But if they are considered good, then they are good for grownups, which, of course, means women as well as men. If they are considered bad, then they are bad for men as well as women.

"Therefore, admittance to bars, whether sitting or standing, should be on a strictly nonsex basis."

SALES SHOW GAIN AT FIRST DAY OF FURNITURE SHOW

800 Register, See Many New Styles.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Optimism for the year ahead in the furniture industry permeated the Furniture Mart yesterday as buyers from all over the country and Canada arrived to see the new styles in the mart's 20th semi-annual exhibit. The show opened at 8 a. m. and by 11 o'clock, officials reported, more than 800 had registered. A total of 5,000 is expected during the two weeks of the showing.

A washing machine exhibitor said his sales for the first half day were the heaviest in years. This was typical of reports indicating better business at the mart.

Buyers Study New Styles.

On each exhibiting floor buyers gathered in small groups examining the new features, discussing the new trends in styles, and figuring whether the folks out in Nebraska or down in Tennessee would like the new modern bedroom furniture with red handles on the drawers of the ebony black chiffonier or whether they had better stick to conservative styles.

They were on the alert, however, for the labor saving articles that would please the housewife. For instance, a kitchen range of white and black porcelain enamel, acidproof, boasted a radio on the mantel back, or, if the housewife preferred, the same space could be utilized for an electric toaster. This stove had other features, such as a knife sharpener, a smokeless broiler that allowed the meat juice to fall in a small pan for making gravy, a safety lock so the small child could not turn on the gas, a top lamp and clock, a monogram, and a single dial oven control.

The baby comes in for a break this year with a high chair that is guaranteed not to tip over. Because of a larger base the chair sits so firmly on its legs that a child can scamper up one side, settle in the chair, and scramble down without tipping the chair. A stainless wooden tray fits in after the child is placed in the chair, eliminating some children's inclination to stand up and reach for food on the family table.

Even the cedar chest has been modernized to please the bride. Now it is a combination cedar chest and vanity dresser. A lid lifts up and reveals a tray for cosmetics, while a secret panel swings down and discloses additional space for jars of cold cream and powder. Underneath the chest is a small drawer. The interior of the vanity is a huge cedar lined chest. Other models have small drawers on the top surface and an electric clock on a small shelf.

Modern furniture is characterized by its color this year. One bedroom suite was of maple with rose and white handles and rose piping. Chromium is used for the framework of much of the modern furniture, which is upholstered in leather or imitation leather in bright colors.

345 MEN JAILED LAST YEAR FOR ALIMONY DEBTS

The steel barred door of the cell tier in the northwest corner of the third floor of the county jail, known as "alimony row," closed upon 345 men in 1933. This was revealed yesterday in an examination of jail records.

For 331 of the men the doors were not opened until they had served the six months' sentence imposed by divorce court judges. Only a few obtained release by satisfying obligations due to their wives.

Of those who satisfied the court mandate by serving the full period, it is estimated, one-fifth will be returned on new actions brought by their wives. There is no moratorium of alimony payments while a man is serving his jail sentence.

Seen as Victims of Racket.

Prisoners in alimony row are regarded by a growing body of attorneys as victims of a racket of grasping wives and avaricious counsel. Actually the prisoners are jailed for debt, despite constitutional condemnation, by means of a legal subterfuge.

A man remiss in alimony payments is cited for contempt of court. He is sent to jail for defying the court order fixing alimony payments. Gold digging wives and certain lawyers have been quick to seize upon this evasion of the spirit of the constitution to gain their ends, students on the alimony system declare.

85 Per Cent Make Payments.

In most cases the mere threat of jail and the stigma of imprisonment drive the husband to make payments. In many cases by borrowing money, court records disclose. Eighty-five per cent of the men brought into court for contempt in such cases make payments. The other 15 per cent in 1933 were the men who entered "alimony row."

Those who do not pay, even though they have no funds or prospect of obtaining funds, are jailed. This is due as much to the activities of callous attorneys, as to those of the wives, court attachés say.

Even hardened jail guards are lenient with occupants of "alimony row." They look upon the prisoners not as criminals, but as victims of an unfortunate legal system.

Judge Points Out Defects.

The defects of the present system were pointed out by Judge Rudolph F. Desort, who has sent only 11 men to "alimony row."

"Like many of our laws conceived for a noble purpose, the alimony contempt order is a great source of abuse," he said. "It is the weapon of a spiteful and miserly woman and her attorney. I have tried to use it judiciously.

"I believe no man should be jailed, except in most unusual circumstances, unless he refuses to pay alimony going for the support of his children. Too often I have found women seeking to jail one husband for alimony when they were already receiving payments from a former mate.

Rejects Many Petitions.

"I have turned down hundreds of petitions to jail husbands and shall continue to do so. Particularly I abhor those petitions which seek to return a man to jail for alimony which piled up during previous imprisonment.

"Until our laws are changed I can only do my best on meager facts presented to me. I shall send no man to jail without the best investigation of the facts it is possible for me to make."

A bill for the reform of the law relating to imprisonment for alimony debts failed to pass at the last session of the legislature. One reform of existing law was enacted which made alimony reciprocal, so that a husband might sue for alimony. In the last six months only two husbands have taken advantage of the law.

BOY, 17, FASTENS RIFLE IN VISE; SHOOTS HIMSELF

Herbert McDonald, 17 years old, 2410 East 73d place, shot himself through the chest late last night with a .22 rifle, causing a wound which may prove fatal. He had fastened the weapon in a vise on a bedroom table and pulled the trigger with a string. His parents told Policeman Pat Blanchfield of the Grand Crossing station that they had heard Herbert singing in the bathroom a short time before they heard the shot. They were unable to account for the shooting.

TELLS POSTMEN TO LIFT DODGERS IN MAIL BOXES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James Farley today signed an order to end the dumping of advertising circulars, sales bills, and the like into private postal receptacles.

Dumping of such "literature" into boxes intended to hold only mail, Mr. Farley indicated, has seriously alarmed American home owners. He therefore ordered mail carriers to take any such matter out of private boxes and carry it to postoffices, where it will receive the same treatment as unstamped mail, being held until postage is paid.

Persons all over the country have opened their post boxes in millions of homes only to find them jammed full of circulars to such an extent, in some cases, that legitimate letters had to be left by postmen carelessly stuck in doors.

CANADA SENDS 7,500,000 GALLONS WHISKY TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Permits for the admission of 7,500,000 gallons of Canadian whisky have already been issued by the federal alcohol control administration. The total probably will exceed 10,000,000 during the next four months.

This is aged rye and bourbon whisky of a character required by American distillers for blending. It is being admitted without any fixed trade concessions on the part of the Canadian government, although it is believed likely Canada voluntarily will extend some trade favors.

Whisky from the Irish Free State also is being licensed freely, with the Dublin government extending its purchases of wheat and other American agricultural products in return for the liberal treatment given its liquor.

Discussions are going on between H. O. Chalkley, commercial consular of the British embassy, and the interdepartmental committee for the purpose of effecting a trade whereby the initial British quota of 607,000 gallons of Scotch whisky may be extended.

FINNEY IS GIVEN 31 TO 635 YEARS AS BOND FORGER

Kansas Judge Declines Prosecutor's Deal.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Ronald Finney, key figure in Kansas' million dollar bogus bond scandal, was sentenced to hard labor in the state penitentiary for not less than 31 nor more than 635 years by Judge Paul H. Heinz in a dramatic court session today.

Sentencing Finney, Judge Heinz disregarded the recommendation of County Attorney Lester Goodell the minimum term be 15 years in accordance with an agreement between state and defense counsel at a conference in which the court participated.

Overrules Defense.

Judge Heinz also overruled a defense request, joined in by Goodell, that Finney's guilty plea be withdrawn if the agreement was not observed.

Finney, who brought his trial to an abrupt conclusion two days before Christmas by a plea of guilty, when asked by Judge Heinz if there was any reason why sentence should not be pronounced, answered:

"No reason except the agreement at the time I entered my plea of guilty that sentence would not be greater than 15 years."

Basis Of His Plea.

Finney pleaded guilty to 31 counts charging forgery and sale of a $30,000 issue of Hutchinson, Kas., bonds, one of several issues which the state in presenting its evidence sought to show the defendant had forged and sold. Evidence was presented to show he and his assistant, Leland Caldwell, had nearly three-quarters of a million dollars of bogus bonds printed and had disposed of them.

Finney will appeal. He was arrested last Aug. 7, after spurious bonds were found in the state treasury vaults. Subsequently Tom B. Boyd, then state treasurer, was arrested and resigned. Three Finney banks were closed. W. W. Finney, father of Ronald and prominent Emporia, Kas., banker, was convicted of embezzlement. Two state officials were impeached.

In Alimony Battle

MRS. MARY LLEWELLYN. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Mary C. Llewellyn of Downers Grove, breeder and exhibitor of show horses, filed a petition yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court for the restoration of the alimony payments of $1,100 a month which she formerly got from Paul Parks Llewellyn of Rectortown, Va., whom she divorced in 1924.

Llewellyn won a reduction of the payments for support of his ex-wife and their daughter, Mary Isabelle, 16 years old, in 1932. Mrs. Llewellyn agreed to the reduction when he stated that he was no longer an official of the Interstate Steel company and that his only income was from the estate of his father, the late Silas Llewellyn.

Since that time, Mrs. Llewellyn said yesterday, her former husband has received a considerable inheritance from his mother. As a result, she said, he has been able to build a new house and a swimming pool on his 663 acre estate, Pen-y-Bryn, at Rectortown, and to keep a large stable of horses and a kennel of hunting dogs. Judge Desort set the petition for hearing on Jan. 19.

FARMER APPEALS TO LAW AGAINST ARDENT NEIGHBOR

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A Hamilton county [Chattanooga] farmer has come to the law to find relief from a woman neighbor, who he charged persisted in living with him at the point of a shotgun and drove his wife and children from his home.

The outraged farmer, Jewell Fitzsimmons, filed a bill in Chancery court here today against Mary West, from whom he is renting the farm.

In his petition for an injunction restraining her from molesting him further, Fitzsimmons charged that a few weeks after he rented the farm the West woman "came back and insisted in living with the plaintiff."

When he objected, the bill recited, "she became angry and has caused the defendant every conceivable kind of trouble. Has terrorized and assaulted his family with a shotgun, and has laid in wait for him at night and assaulted him."

Criminal Judge Charles W. Lusk, acting for the chancellor, who is ill, issued a temporary injunction.

TWO BOMBS SET OFF IN MINE WAR; WOMAN INJURED

Taylorville, Ill., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Two bombs exploded tonight at Kincaid, ten miles from Taylorville, where the United Mine Workers and the Progressive Miners unions have been hostile for more than a year.

One of the bombs was set off at Fred Bassana's filling station, which was closed, and the other at the home of Peter Giacomini, a Progressive union member. Giacomini ran from his house and fired several times at the bombers as they fled in an automobile. His wife was slightly hurt by flying glass.

The Progressive faction is in political control at Kincaid and has deputized a large number of special policemen. Mines in the vicinity, which employ members of the United Mine Workers, are being heavily guarded.

6 Gunmen Raid Restaurant Chain Office and Get $275

Six gunmen escaped with $275 yesterday after threatening the bookkeeper and five women employés in the third floor restaurant chain offices of John Rakilos & Co. at 247 East Ontario street. One bandit stood guard at the door and two others stationed themselves on the stairs.

REPORTS MOST GUN TOTERS NOT NATIVES OF CITY

Two-thirds of the gun toters arrested by Chicago police during 1933 were born outside the city, the annual report of Sergt. Frank Ballou, chief of the gun investigation section of the detective bureau, disclosed yesterday.

Of the 1,362 persons questioned for carrying concealed weapons, only 462 were born in Chicago. Of the 902 born elsewhere, 43 were found to be aliens and were turned over to immigration authorities.

Forty-five of the weapons turned in to the bureau by police had serial numbers defaced. Treatment with chemicals and heat restored the numerals, and Sergt. Ballou testified in court against every person found in the possession of such a gun and obtained a conviction in every case.

DENIES CHARGE OF EXTRA PROFIT IN PENSION DEAL

Hugh T. McCarthy Jr., a partner in the securities investment firm of Joseph M. Johnson & Co. and a son of Capt. Hugh T. McCarthy, a member of the police pension board's investment committee, denied unofficial charges yesterday that the concern had been paid more than prevailing market prices for pension fund securities.

"The charges are without any foundation whatever," said young McCarthy. "The Citizens' association made the charges without questioning us. Our books are open and we welcome investigation."

Capt. McCarthy has been on sick leave for several months and is still out of the city, his son said. An audit of the pension funds which has been going on for some time is expected to be completed in a week or two.

19 GO TO TRIAL TOMORROW ON RACKET CHARGE

Ald. Nelson's Dismissal Plea Is Denied.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson of the 46th ward yesterday was ordered to trial tomorrow with 18 other defendants charged with conspiracy to stifle trade by bombings, sluggings, strikes, and intimidation. Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court overruled the motion of Attorney Floyd Thompson, representing Ald. Nelson, that his client be dismissed because he had demanded trial in four successive terms of court.

Assistant State's Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy argued that the state had not been at fault in the delays and said that Ald. Nelson had participated in continuances sought by other defendants.

Last Obstacle Removed.

The ruling of Judge Finnegan removed the last obstacle to the start of the trial, and the defendants were ordered to be prepared tomorrow morning. Principal among the defendants are Benjamin M. Squires, once dictator of the cleaning and dyeing industry; Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney and trade organizer, and Morris I. Kaplan, counsel for several trade associations.

The blanket indictment, aimed at racketeering in the cleaning and dyeing, carbonated beverage, and linen supply industries, was the result of three months' secret investigation by Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber and a staff of assistants.

Other Defendants Listed.

The other defendants in the case, besides Ald. Nelson, Dr. Squires, and Attorneys Sapiro and Kaplan, are:

JAMES F. GORMAN, president of the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union, and former labor commissioner of the Cleaners and Dyers' institute under Dr. Squires.

JOSEPH BUSH IWANIEC, president of the Laundry and Dye House Drivers' union, local 712.

GEORGE BENDELL, secretary and treasurer of the same union.

GEORGE KNOTT, vice president of the union.

ROBERT RADO, business agent of the union.

A. L. CANFIELD, president of the Canfield Beverage company.

JEAN FRANKS, business agent for the Retail Cleaners and Dyers' union.

BEN ABRAMS, business agent for the Inside Dye House Workers' union.

Damage Estimated by Insurance Men.

Malicious plate glass window smashing during 1933 cost Chicago property owners upwards of $1,500,000, it was estimated yesterday by E. Irving Fiery, president of the Cook County Plate Glass Insurance bureau. The bureau is an association of 29 major writers of plate glass insurance.

The year also saw a 25 per cent increase in insurance rates against breakage of plate glass. On last July 1, when the destruction assumed the proportion of a highly systematized racket, the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters ordered the current rates doubled. However, due to a reduction in the number of breakages reported the doubling was not carried out.

Vandals Unpunished.

Perpetrators of the vandalism have remained largely immune from prosecution and for a time the authorities were unable to cope with it. There were more than 3,000 cases of deliberate window smashing reported and only two men were prosecuted. Both pleaded guilty and were given probation.

The use of sling shots with steel ball bearings as missiles puzzled the police. Usually two or three men riding in fast cars broke the windows and were gone before they could be recognized. The average cost of replacing a broken plate glass window was $50. On some days as many as 100 such cases were reported.

Heavy Claims Paid.

By June 1 the plate glass insurance companies recognized that if the racket was allowed to continued the costs would put them out of business. Burglaries accounted for some of the destruction and disputes between the organized and unorganized milk dealers were held responsible by police for others.

One underwriter, the New Century Casualty company, said that for the 11 months ending Dec. 1 plate glass premiums amounted to $37,000 and claims during the same period totalled $72,000. Albert Kahn, president of the concern, stated that during 1932 when the premiums were twice as high, claims aggregated only $88,000. The year before premiums were still higher, and the claims totalled $90,000.

DEPUTY ACCUSED OF ABUSE WINS REINSTATEMENT

Deputy Sheriff Louis G. Gatheman, who was suspended three weeks ago pending investigation into charges that he was drunk and abusive in serving a writ at 4 o'clock in the morning, was reinstated yesterday by Sheriff Meyering. The charges were brought by Harry J. McCann, 7705 Sheridan road, on whose son, Harry G. McCann, Gatheman had served a writ of ne exeat.

"We have affidavits from eight persons who saw Gatheman before and after he served the writ," said Sheriff Meyering. "Every one declares Gatheman was sober. The preponderance of the evidence tends to show that the McCanns misrepresented the incident."

START CHOOSING JURY TODAY FOR INSURANCE CASE

Seven Will Go to Trial on Fraud Charge.

Selection of a jury will be started today in Judge Benjamin Epstein's court to try seven defendants—among them Machir J. Dorsey, once a millionaire insurance promoter, and John H. S. Lee, attorney—on charges of conspiracy to obtain $1,555,000 by false pretenses.

Judge Epstein cleared the way for the start of the trial by overruling a defense motion challenging the special jury venire of 125 men on the ground that they were illegally selected. Defense Attorneys Harry Olson and John E. Northup charged that there was no element of chance in the selection of the veniremen. They said the box from which the names were drawn was almost empty.

The state presented affidavits from the jury commissioners to the effect that the veniremen were selected in accordance with the law. The affidavits said the box held the required number of names.

Charges of the Prosecution.

The prosecution charges that the defendants imposed $1,705,000 in mortgages on a vacant Waukegan factory property worth no more than $150,000. These mortgages, according to the state, were dumped on two of the string of insurance companies which Dorsey controlled.

Both insurance companies, the Security Life Insurance company of Chicago and the Northern States Life Insurance company of Hammond, are now in receivership. The Waukegan factory property on which the mortgages were written was owned by the Manufacturers' Terminal corporation. The stock in the Terminal corporation, the state charges, was owned by Attorney Lee and another defendant, Harry W. Huttig.

Judge Epstein yesterday forfeited the bond of Huttig when the latter did not appear in court. The action was taken after the state presented a report from Dr. Frederick Tice, heart specialist, saying that Huttig's case of heart disease would not prevent his court appearance.

Two Granted Severances.

Two of the nine defendants named in the original indictment were granted severances. They are Harry S. Tressell, vice president of the Security Life, and Charles R. Surface, to whom Attorney Lee is alleged to have transferred the Waukegan property during the mortgage transaction.

The other defendants, besides Lee, Dorsey, and Huttig, are Edwin Hult, president of Edwin Hult & Co., which the state charges was organized to carry out the mortgage transaction; John W. Seids, secretary-treasurer of the Hult company and a director of Security Life; G. Edwin Johnson, vice president of Security Life, and Bertram Day, president of Northern States Life and a director of Security Life.

SLAIN GAMBLER IDENTIFIED IN TWO ROBBERIES

Linked with Holdup of Beverly Gardens.

Michael Regan, alias Walsh, robber and gambler slain on Monday by three gunmen who invaded his mother-in-law's home at 9223 Houston avenue, was identified yesterday as one of the gang who on Sunday night held up the Beverly Gardens roadhouse, took $600 and shot two county highway policemen in a gun battle. He also was identified as one of the robbers who last July 1 took $100 in a holdup of the Realty Mortgage company at 2115 Logan boulevard.

The identifications were made in the undertaking rooms at 9500 Commercial avenue where Regan's body lay during the opening session of the inquest into his death. Walter Ahern, owner of the Beverly Gardens, which is at 9140 South Western avenue, Evergreen Park, and his bartender, Vladimir Smejersky, were certain Regan was one of Sunday night's robbers. Two employes of the Realty Mortgage company identified the dead man in connection with the robbery of that concern's office.

Dillinger Clew Weakens.

Ahern previously had identified a picture of John Dillinger, leader of the gang of escaped Indiana convicts, as one of the Beverly Gardens robbers, but in view of Regan's being linked with the robbery the police belief yesterday was that the Dillinger gang was not involved in the holdup.

Lieut. Edward Weber and Sergt. James Allegretti, the county highway policemen wounded in the gun fight with the robbers, saw the gang only in the dark and could not recognize any of them. Regan had not been known to have an acquaintance with the Indiana convicts, the police said.

It was the theory of detectives that Regan was slain as a result of the Beverly Gardens robbery, perhaps because he took a major share of the loot.

Tells of Regan's Fear.

At the inquest Sergt. Patrick McShane informed Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen that Regan's mother-in-law, Mrs. May Watley, said Regan had been in constant fear of his life and had warned her never to answer the doorbell while he was in her home. She did answer a ring on Monday, however, and the three gunmen pushed past her and walked into the house where they killed Regan in the presence of his bride of four months, Mary, a former cabaret hostess.

Deputy Coroner Whalen continued the inquest and said he would permit the police to hold the body at the undertaking place for a few days so that other victims of robberies might have the opportunity of viewing it for identification purposes.

DAIRYMAN SHOT; HINT OF MILK PRICE QUARREL

Son Denies Attack Is Due to Trade Fight.

Josef Wagner, independent milk distributor, was shot yesterday in his office at 5407 West 24th street, Cicero, under circumstances which left police in doubt as to whether the shooting was part of an attempted robbery or a development of the milk price war.

Wagner, who was taken to the Frances Willard hospital with a bullet wound in the neck, told Police Chief Michael Solar of Cicero that he believed he recognized one of his three assailants as the former owner of a cut rate milk stand, who bought his milk from Wagner's plant. Wagner was one of three dealers whose license to sell milk was revoked by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for selling milk at prices below the schedule set by the agricultural adjustment administration milk code for Chicago, since abrogated.

The former milk stand operator appeared at the dairy plant on Sunday, Mrs. Anna Wagner, wife of the victim, told police, and asked for some milk bottle caps. Wagner refused him and he went away angry, she said.

Three Men Slug Dairyman.

Yesterday morning Wagner arose and went from his living quarters, behind the office, to answer a ring at the door. Three men forced their way in and slugged him over the head, Mrs. Wagner said.

Two of them then forced her husband, whose scalp was bleeding, back into the living quarters, Mrs. Wagner said. When she appeared at the bedroom door one of the men said to her: "Keep your mouth shut or I'll shoot you."

The two men began to ransack a bureau in a storeroom where milk supplies were stored. Near the bureau was a tin box containing the weekend receipts of the dairy, amounting to $12,190, but the invaders did not disturb it.

Victim Gets Shotgun.

The two men who had invaded the living quarters paid no attention to the elder Wagner after they got there. He staggered into a bathroom and emerged with a shotgun. The third member of the gang saw this and yelled a warning to his mates from the front door, where he was left on guard.

"Jiggers," he yelled, "he's got a gun."

The man at the door raised his revolver and shot Wagner in the neck. Wagner dropped the gun. The other members of the gang seized that and a revolver and started to retreat. As they did so Mrs. Wagner began to beat on the wall and scream.

One of the men fired a shot at her as he left. The shot missed her head by inches. Two of her daughters, Eleanor and Evelyn, hurried downstairs from their sleeping quarters above and helped her take their father to the hospital.

Robbery Motive, Son Believes.

Josef Wagner Jr., son of the wounded man, who is associated with his father in the milk business, denied last night that the attack had any connection with the milk war, and emphasized a belief that the men were robbers.

"When the men entered one of them asked my father: 'Where is the money?' he said. "Dad said the money was not there and then he was attacked. The money was in a tin box which looked like a tool kit and was shoved between a bureau and a cabinet. It looked so much like a tool box that the robbers never even tried to open it."

Wagner said that his father thought one of the men had formerly bought milk from him, but was not sure.

Physicians operated on him later for the removal of the bullet and said he probably would recover.

BIRDS FLEE FAR NORTH; EXPERT FORECASTS A REAL COLD WAVE

RED BAY, Labrador, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Ernest Doane opined today that this winter's cold is going to make grandfather's recollections warm with embarrassment.

Doane, who is called the "hermit taxidermist," has been coming up here for 39 years to stuff birds and small animals for exhibitions all over the world. This year, he says, he is finding birds which he has never encountered before and he says they have been driven southward by an unprecedented cold.

The oldest residents here are astonished by the number of mountaineer ptarmigan which have found their way to this sheltered spot, where the temperature rarely falls under 40 degrees below zero. They agree with Doane's contention that the little birds are telling them there's a really frigid wave coming.

The ptarmigan, which is only one of several varieties making mass flights here from the north, landed in vast flocks at Red Bay. Many of the birds were so tired they could not rise again and hundreds were bagged. The inhabitants have stocked their pantries with plenty of delicious ptarmigan meat.

LAWYERS BATTLE FOR FREE COPIES OF COURT RULES

Amid turbulent confusion free copies of the new Municipal court rules were distributed to lawyers yesterday by Judges Edgar A. Jonas and Edward E. Casey in Judge Jonas' courtroom in the city hall. Within an hour the supply of 2,000 copies, printed by the two judges at their own expense, was exhausted.

Lawyers milled about the courtroom to get free copies of the rules, which Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court is offering in a bound volume at $7.50 a copy. Clerks and bailiffs fled into chambers as the press of lawyers swarmed to the bench. Some attorneys actually climbed to the clerk's desk, leaving footprints on court files. Several fist fights among lawyers jockeying for position were averted by peacemakers.

When the supply was exhausted, Chief Justice Sonsteby announced that he was having 2,500 copies of the rules printed for free distribution. However, he said, the bound volumes contain forms which will save lawyers much time and are well worth the price asked. Judges Casey and Jonas, who have arranged for the free distribution in protest against the price fixed for bound volumes, said the forms can be secured free in the court clerk's office.

FREES 13 SEIZED NEW YEAR'S EVE AS TIPSY DRIVERS

Judge N. J. Bonelli in traffic court yesterday discharged 13 motorists arraigned on charges of driving their automobiles New Year's eve while they were intoxicated. None of them had been involved in accidents, but were merely arrested by police on the watch for drunken drivers, the judge was told.

Two other motorists, however, didn't fare so well. Richard Burns, 33 years old, 4932 Potomac avenue, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve 30 days in the House of Correction. After consuming nine bottles of beer he had smashed his car into the automobile of Policeman George Hunter of the Chicago avenue station. The collision occurred at Lake street and Kedzie avenue.

Daniel J. Carney, 39 years old, 2532 West 58th place, a laborer, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 60 days in the House of Correction on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident at 55th street and Trumbull avenue after running into two automobiles. He was traced through his license number after he had driven away.

URGES POWER USE TO AID FARMS IN EXPORT MARKET

Machines More Economical, A. of C. Told.

The way for the American farmer to capture export markets is to produce in the most economical way, with the full power of machinery at his command. So asserted A. P. Yerkes, editor of Tractor Farmer and research counsel for the International Harvester company, at a meeting of the agricultural council of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel yesterday.

As an example of how American agriculture could get a boost abroad, Mr. Yerkes referred to the rice growers of California.

"If they would make the best use of tractors in their fields," he asserted, "they could sell their product in Japan and China and pay their labor $5 a day. Hand labor in China and Japan, at 12 cents a day, would be unable to compete."

Other Side to Be Given.

Most of Mr. Yerkes' talk was devoted to the advantages claimed for mechanical power over horses and mules on the farm. The side of animal power will be presented to the council next Tuesday by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America.

Mr. Yerkes quoted from an editorial in Power Farming in Australia, a publication in the southern commonwealth, in which it was strongly urged that no restrictions be placed on the production of wheat there.

The editorial pointed out that power farming had advanced to a high degree in Australia and that a large trade in supplying Japan and China with primary agricultural products had been built up, which it would be "unreasonable" to surrender through pacts made abroad. Rather the editor urged that Australia continue to produce cheaply and battle for markets.

Traces Agricultural Progress.

Mr. Yerkes sketched the history of agriculture from primitive times, marshaling arguments to show that the modern tractor provides the ultimate in farm power, not only easing and enriching the farmer's toil, but aiding toward a more balanced national economy.

"In agriculture's earliest form, farmers had only the power of their own hands," Mr. Yerkes said. "With the hand power of himself and his family, each farmer was able to till no more than three acres. The yield of these few acres was sufficient only for the subsistence of the farmer's family. There was no surplus available for people in the cities; hence there were no cities of importance.

"With the coming of the ox, a surplus was made available, for the farmer could now till 10 or 12 acres, instead of three. But the surplus was not yet available for support of workers in industry, for the ox, himself, consumed what surplus there was.

Ox Replaced by Horse.

"Finally the swifter moving and more efficient horse replaced the ox. With one horse a farmer could now till 20 acres and with a team or two teams he might till as much as 200 acres. Yet with all this increased efficiency there were many who still clung to the ox. They pointed to the cheapness of ox yokes and the costliness of horse harness.

"They held the same position with reference to the horse that the harness makers hold today toward the tractor. It's the harness markers who are sponsoring most of the propaganda for the horse today.

"Well, the tractor has come to replace the horse, notwithstanding. A tractor, which cost $1,840 a few years ago, is available for $550 today. With one tractor a farmer can till 320 acres alone, and he needn't keep a horse at all to do the job.

"Notwithstanding that the United States leads the world in production and improvement of farm power, American farmers are showing an unexplainable reluctance to use their advantages to the full."

U. S. ORDERS TWO ENVOYS IN LATVIA TO MOSCOW POST

Seek Accommodations for New Staff.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 2.—The American legation here, for the first time in its 12 years of existence, applied today to the soviet legation for visas for two of its members, George Kennan and Robert Macy. They have been assigned by the state department to go to Moscow in connection with arrangements for accommodations for the American representation which is expected to arrive in February with Ambassador William C. Bullitt.

Since Bullitt's departure for the United States, Moscow diplomats have been speculating about financial arrangements between Washington and Moscow in connection with the opening of an embassy.

According to information given THE TRIBUNE, all representatives at Moscow with the exception of the British have contracts with the soviet authorities calling for the payment of rent in soviet rubles. The British are housed in the former palace of a Russian sugar king and are paying £500 [about $2,500] monthly for their quarters.

Diplomats connected with other Moscow legations say their rent is negligible since they purchase the necessary rubles either in Warsaw or Berlin at the rate of two cents for one ruble. These departments also make no secret of the fact that they import soviet currency from abroad for their personal needs and that this infraction of bolshevik decrees is winked at by the soviet government.

Establishment of an American embassy is also difficult because of a lack of suitable quarters. Moscow possesses only four hotels, which are hard pressed to handle the tourist traffic, and American diplomats may be obliged to "rough it" until accommodations are found.

MILK DRIVERS FIGHT PAY CUT IN CONFERENCE

Fail to Reach Agreement with Companies.

Representatives of Chicago's union milk wagon drivers and of the large distributing companies, after thirteen hours of deliberation in the Midwest Athletic club, adjourned early today without reaching any agreement on a revised pay scale for the deliverymen. Negotiators for both sides said there would be further conferences at a date to be determined later.

The milk companies have indicated that a reduction in the retail price of their product, now 11 cents a quart, can come only if the drivers take reduced pay. The drivers, on the other hand, at a meeting of their union recently, announced they would not accept a $10 cut of their present $40 weekly wage scale and instructed their officers not to receive offers involving any reduction at all.

Goudie Heads Union Group.

Leslie G. Goudie, president of the Joint Teamsters council for Illinois, headed the group representing the wagon men in the conference with the milk companies' representatives. He announced that Robert G. Fitchie, president of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, and Steve Sumner, 84 year old treasurer of the union, were out as negotiators and that his committee had authority to act. On the Goudie committee are Fred Groth, secretary of the state teamsters' council, and John Smith of the Inside Dairy Workers' union.

F. H. Kullman, vice president of the Bowman Dairy company, headed the distributors' committee.

Declares Against Pay Cut.

"The men are not going to take any cut so long as I have anything to do with it," Goudie declared. "They took a cut five months ago that amounted to 22½ per cent of their scale. Their contract was not up and they took the cut so they could help run racketeers out of business. They didn't get a wage increase when milk went up from 9 cents to 11 cents.

"Now that the government has failed to enforce a trade agreement that would have kept up earnings, we are going to fight against any more reductions."

It is understood that the distributors wish to bring milk down to 9 cents a quart, or 8 cents in chain stores, if labor costs can be lowered. Farmers are now being paid $2.10 a hundred pounds for milk sold in the fluid state and $1.45 a hundred pounds for that used as cream. No change in the farm price has been suggested.

ATLANTA MULE SALES FIVE TIMES LARGER IN LAST 5 MONTHS

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Five times as many mules were sold on local markets during the last five months as were handled in the same period of the previous year, with sales reaching 38,064 mules, representing a cash turnover of $4,834,128.

From Aug. 1 through Dec. 31, 1933 the business done by Atlanta mule markets was the greatest since 1918.

Cliff Ragsdale, of the firm of Ragsdale, Lawhon & Weill, said the animals sold for an average of $127.

Most of the mules now being handled are sent to eastern Carolina towns where crops are being planted, and some to south Georgia.

PARE $160,000 FROM EVANSTON BUDGET FOR 1934

Evanston's 1934 budget, presented to the city council last night by the council finance committee, calls for a total expenditure of $1,215,292, a reduction of about $160,000 from the 1933 budget.

Important savings recommended by the committee included cuts, by varying percentages, of municipal employes' salaries, the reduction of the police force by three patrolmen and two clerks, and the placing of the police matron on half time instead of full time. The budget will be considered by the whole council at the next meeting.

To raise additional revenues, the council adopted an ordinance requiring all athletic shows at which admission is charged to pay a tax of 5 per cent of the gross receipts. Northwestern university's football games would come under this tax, which is expected to raise $15,000 annually from all sources.

BANKER TO ASK PROBATION ON THEFT SENTENCE

Ralph L. Peck, former president and attorney for the First National bank of Palatine, who was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment and fined $2,000 on embezzlement charges, is expected to surrender at the United States court house today. He announced yesterday, after an order for his surrender had been issued by the United States Circuit court of Appeals, that he would appear before Judge John P. Barnes with a motion for probation.

Peck, who is 66 years old, was convicted in 1932 on charges of embezzling $25,000 from the Palatine bank, later closed. He fought the case through the Appellate court, where the sentence was upheld, and then carried the appeal to the United States Supreme court. The Supreme court recently refused to review the case, and Peck's arrest was ordered last night.

FIVE SUIT FIRMS GET INJUNCTION AGAINST THE NRA

Constitutional Rights the Basis of Test.

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 2.—(AP)—An order was served today temporarily restraining the national recovery administration and other federal officials from enforcing the suit and coat industry code against five Connecticut manufacturers who challenged the code's constitutionality.

The temporary injunction, believed to be the first such action aimed directly at the recovery administration, was issued by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States District court pending a hearing Jan. 15.

In their complaint the five firms asserted that the code for their industry amounts to "an unlawful interference with the process of manufacturing and interstate commerce contrary to the constitution of the United States."

Wage Provision Attacked.

The minimum wage provision in the code especially was singled out for criticism, the complaint charging that it was discriminatory and resulted in personal hardship to the five petitioners—Philip Scapellati, the Independent Cloak Company, Inc., and Sokol Brothers, Inc., of New Britain, and the Parisian Garment company and the Biltright Garment Manufacturing company of Bridgeport.

Judge Thomas said he issued the order on the basis of evidence contained in affidaviats filed by the petitioners, but pointed out that this evidence may be refuted at the hearing Jan. 15.

The manufacturers protested against the division of the country by the code authority for their industry into western and eastern sections. The code, they explained, fixed 81 cents an hour as the minimum wage for the eastern section and 40 cents for the western section.

The complaint set forth further that Baltimore, Md., was placed in the western division and that as a result manufacturers of that city were given an unfair advantage in the New York market over the Connecticut firms.

Cites Constitutional Violations.

The Connecticut manufacturers charged that the division of the country was "arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and without foundation in fact or law" and that it constituted a confiscation of property without due process of law, a deprivation of liberty of contract, and unlawful discrimination between citizens of the United States."

Frank S. Bergin, United States district attorney for Connecticut, was named one of the defendants and issuance of the injunction was disclosed when the order was served on him.

The order permits the five petitioners to pay less than the minimum wage specified in the code and enjoins Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and other federal officials from refusing to issue NRA labels to them.

George H. Cohen, assistant United States district attorney, notified NRA officials at Washington of the restraining order. He awaited instructions from them as to whether the suit will be handled by the legal department of the NRA or the justice department through the district attorney's office in Hartford.

Johnson Is Served.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The temporary restraining order handed down by a federal judge in Hartford, Conn., against enforcement of NRA's suit code was believed here today to be the first such action pointed directly at the recovery administration.

Papers in the suit were served upon Administrator Hugh S. Johnson just before the New Year holiday.

Court defense of the action probably will be carried through the regular channels of the department of justice but the government can elect whether to answer the complaint in the Connecticut court or have it transferred to the District of Columbia Supreme court.

GEN. JOHNSON GIVEN POWER BY ROOSEVELT TO O. K. MINOR CODES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—As a move to accelerate the completion of pending NRA codes, President Roosevelt, by executive order, today authorized Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, to approve all codes for industries employing 50,000 or fewer workers.

Codes of major industries, as heretofore, will be submitted to the President, and today's order specifically retains in the President power under the national industrial recovery act to impose codes on business and industry. The transfer of the small codes, however, is expected to relieve the President of much detail and speed up the program. To date the President has approved 195 codes, 14 of which were signed today. Public hearings have been held on 311 additional codes, the majority of which cover relatively small industries and therefore are subject, by the terms of the executive order, to approval by Gen. Johnson.

The action of the President served to set at rest all reports that Gen. Johnson soon might retire. Under the present arrangement, it was indicated, the work of the recovery program will go forward as outlined without the reorganization which has been effected in the agricultural adjustment administration within the last week.

300 IN RELIEF JOB SERVICE TO BE DISMISSED

Due to Unemployment Cut by CWA Projects.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and director of relief administration in Cook county, announced yesterday that 300 professional and clerical workers in the unemployment relief service in Chicago have been notified of their dismissal because of the decrease in the relief rolls resulting from the transfer of the idle to CWA jobs. The 300 workers will end their jobs on Jan. 15.

Restriction of the unemployment relief service previously for the same cause resulted in the dropping of 14 professional and 29 clerical workers, and two relief stations, the South Shore and the Cragin, being closed. Further reductions will be made as the CWA reduces the relief load still further, Mr. Reynolds said.

Discuss Relief Financing.

The problem of financing future relief expenditures in Illinois was brought up yesterday, when Howard O. Hunter, regional relief supervisor for the federal relief administration, asked Mr. Reynolds for estimates of the money to be spent by the state in meeting relief needs during January, February, and March.

Relief needs during January will amount to about $3,295,145, a reduction of 27 per cent from the amount spent in November, it has been estimated. This sum is to be obtained from three sources—revenue from the 2 per cent state retailers' sales tax for December, the sale of tax anticipation warrants based on a state property levy of $30,000,000, and funds advanced by the federal government.

Mr. Hunter disclosed that any advance of federal funds for relief would be based upon the state's ability to sell its tax anticipation warrants, and that after this month the federal relief administrator can give no assurance of future advances.

U. S. to Aid During January.

"The federal relief administration expects to aid the states during January, as it is not as yet out of the direct relief picture," Mr. Hunter said. "We hope that the tax proceeds, the sale of warrants, and what we can afford will carry the load, but any amount advanced by the government will be on a purely discretionary basis, and not on the former 1 for 3 matching basis.

"The government now has about $100,000,000 of uncommitted relief funds, of which about $50,000,000 is set aside for civil works service and educational projects, for salaries and materials. That leaves only $50,000,000 for direct relief, and it is expected that that sum will be allocated to the states before the end of this month."

If Illinois receives any relief money from the federal government after this month it will have to be provided by congressional appropriations, he said. He refused to say whether the federal relief administration might try to make Illinois carry its relief load without federal aid because of the reductions in the relief load caused by the CWA projects.

One of the three sources for relief funds, the state sales tax revenue, ends with this month. Further revenue from that source will go toward wiping out the state property taxes. That leaves only the sale of tax anticipation warrants and federal aid for relief. Only $22,250,000 of tax warrants based on the 30 million dollar property tax levy may be sold until a proposed bond issue of 30 million dollars is passed upon by the voters in a referendum next November. If the bond issue is voted the tax levy will not be put into collection and the sale of the bonds will retire the warrants.

BUILDING OCCUPANCY SURVEY STARTS, 1,600 WOMEN GETTING JOBS

More than 1,600 women, many of whom had been jobless for many months, comprised the majority of the enumerators who yesterday began a survey of building occupancy in Chicago, preceding a general census of the city.

Charles S. Newcomb, member of the staff of the social science research committee of the University of Chicago who, with the Chicago census commission, is supervising the work, said about 25 per cent of the enumerators are men. The men are assigned to slum areas.

The survey now under way has been long planned by the Chicago plan commission to check several theories concerning the so-called blighter areas of the city. After the survey, definite action may be taken to correct conditions as they are revealed by accurate data.

The Chicago census will cost the federal government an estimated $283,617, but the data gathered will belong to the city. The money will be spent by the CWA as follows:

2,200 enumerators, seven weeks, at $15	$231,000
36 supervisors, 10 weeks at $36.	10,800
20 assistant supervisors, nine weeks, at $30	5,400
10 stenographers, nine weeks at $30	2,700
100 punch machine operators, five weeks at $18	9,000
50 sorting machine operators, five weeks at $22.50	5,625
Total labor costs	266,925
Materials, equipment and supplies	16,692
Total cost	$283,617

DEEM $7,500,000 BRIDGE LOAN IN WEEK PROBABLE

Outer Drive Project in the List Acted On.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—A $7,500,000 easy money loan to complete the Chicago outer drive bridge is likely to be announced by the public works administration this week, it developed today.

Caught in the last minute jam of five hundred projects which the PWA board pushed through Thursday, the outer drive loan, it is reported, will survive.

Tackles School Problem.

Meanwhile, Representative Adolph J. Sabath [Dem., Ill.] prepared for presentation at the opening session of congress tomorrow two bills which would enable the Reconstruction Finance corporation to buy the 40 million dollars of Chicago school bonds through which Mayor Kelly proposes to pay the teachers.

Representative Sabath explained that his bills would empower the RFC to buy the bonds of school districts, which could pledge as additional collateral unencumbered real estate under Mayor Kelly's plan.

The PWA is now checking the huge list of approvals granted Thursday by the board, whose day's outlay proved to have exceeded the $3,300,000,000 available. Before announcing the list the administration is searching out duplications or errors. If necessary, some projects will be pruned.

To Weed Out Dead Projects.

To obviate such pruning the administration is now endeavoring to call back from moribund allotments enough money to cover all Thursday's approvals.

If the outer drive loan should be dropped because of insufficient funds it will be one of the first before the board if and when congress appropriates new billions for public works.

The outer drive application was made jointly by the south park and Lincoln park commissioners. The former applied for $5,145,200 to finish their share in the bridge, and the latter asked for $2,300,000.

TREE PLANTING PLAN INDORSED BY CWA CHIEFS

Four Leaders Take Steps to Advance Project.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Four executives who are concerned with the placing of men in CWA projects yesterday indorsed the plan for revitalizing Chicago's streets and boulevards by the planting of thousands of trees and shrubs. They took steps to start at once on the program, which contemplates the transfer of the trees and shrubs from the forest preserves to the city's parkways.

"The proposal to plant new trees along the parkways of Chicago streets is an excellent one," said Howard O. Hunter, regional supervisor for the CWA, who returned to Chicago yesterday from a survey of the central western states in which he has active charge of CWA projects. "I believe that the local administration should see to it that adequate technical supervision be given the men assigned to this work."

Dunham Indorses Project.

Robert J. Dunham, chairman of the Illinois civil works administration and of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said the state CWA would support recommendations for carrying out the tree planting program. He said he is convinced that highly beneficial improvements to the city's appearance can be gained "for years to come" through a well managed planting this winter.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the relief commission and Cook county administrator for the CWA, called the beautification scheme a "splendid idea and a project which will have lasting value." He pointed to the tree transplanting work already being done by the city as a suitable beginning for a more comprehensive program.

Chase to Have Charge.

Frank D. Chase, executive director of the CWA in Illinois, who will have active supervision of the tree planting work, declared it would be given a prominent place in the list of CWA projects in Chicago. As soon as the city needs more men than those now moving trees from its tree nursery on the Gage farm near Riverside, Chase said, they will be supplied, together with capable foresters and engineers to assure a thorough job.

The city, through Commissioner of Public Works Oscar Hewitt, has asked for an initial quota of 100 men from the CWA. Some fifty employés have been authorized and about 3,000 trees already have been transplanted. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 more young trees available at Gage farm and several thousand others from the seedling areas of the forest preserves.

Meets U. S. Requirements.

Mr. Chase said he has received word from Harry L. Hopkins, national CWA administrator, that many of the emergency projects outlined here were not of sufficient importance, but he pointed out that the plan to beautify the city's parkways easily qualifies as the sort of major project sought by Administrator Hopkins.

The project is the first organized attempt to give Chicago streets adequate landscaping and ample summer shade since the creation of the present boulevard system. Hundreds of trees have died or been removed with the ruthless march of pavements, sidewalks, and other means of transportation and communication, it was pointed out.

Cold Won't Interfere.

Cold weather will not interfere with the transplanting program, it was said, since trees can be moved during the winter by keeping an adequate frozen ball of earth about the roots.

Aside from moving the trees there will be problems of fertilizing, preparing the new locations and trimming back the young tree tops. All of these technical matters, including the choice of tree varieties best suited to urban growing, will be subject to capable planning and supervision, according to Mr. Chase.

SECOND TRIAL OF 5 YANKS NEAR IN SPANISH COURT

The five, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of West Springfield, Mass.; Roderick F. Mead of New York, Edmund W. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn., and Rutherford Fullerton of Columbus, O., were acquitted Oct. 27, by a military court at Palma. Military Auditor Morales refused to uphold the verdict, putting the case in the Supreme court's jurisdiction.

EXPECT OUSTER OF HOLC CHIEFS IN INQUIRY HERE

Report M'Neal Ready to Act Today.

The federal ax is expected to fall today on several political appointees of the William G. Donne regime in the Home Owners' Loan corporation offices at 134 North La Salle street. It was reported yesterday that William H. McNeal, special representative from Washington of the HOLC would oust several heads of departments at once.

Auditors and investigators from Washington have been carefully going into the affairs of the local HOLC and its personnel for several weeks. They have turned over enough evidence of incompetency and use of political influence, it was reported, to cause Mr. McNeal to act. Donne resigned recently when the investigation was ordered.

Branch offices of the HOLC throughout the state may be affected by the shakeup. This was indicated by the return to the Chicago office yesterday of D. C. Hair, who has been conducting an investigation of the branch offices. On his return Mr. Hair talked with Washington over the long distance phone.

Henry G. Zander Jr., new Illinois manager for the HOLC, announced yesterday that the first payment of interest to holders of HOLC bonds has been authorized by Washington, effective on Jan. 1.

Federal reserve banks throughout the country will cash the first coupons on the 4 per cent HOLC bonds due in 1951. That means that mortgagees who have exchanged defaulted mortgages for bonds will receive the first income in many months on their investment.

A. OF C. STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR CONVENTIONS

The Association of Commerce is renewing its campaign to bring the nation's biggest conventions to Chicago during 1934. Last year 1,478 conventions brought to the city 1,596,000 persons. William J. Hennessy, head of the association's convention bureau, announced yesterday that 350 conventions are already signed to come here this year.

The first of these is the convention of the American Road Builders, which opens its sessions at the Stevens hotel Jan. 22. More than 12,000 are expected to attend, Mr. Hennessy said. On Jan. 11 a committee representing the American Society for Steel Treating is expected to decide on bringing its 10,000 delegates to Chicago this year.

It was announced that Marshall Field & Co. has made available the entire second floor of the Merchandise Mart with 102,000 square feet of floor space for convention exhibits. Last year, according to Mr. Hennessy, Chicago lost several large conventions because of its inability to provide an exhibit hall.

The railroads and hotels, the association reported, have unofficially agreed to again offer as low rates as prevailed during the 1933 Exposition.

Gen. Parker to Make Air Survey of Philippines

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, new commander of the Philippines department of the United States army, today announced that he plans to start tomorrow on a thorough aerial survey of the islands.

OUSTS HARVEY OFFICIALS FROM RULE OF CWA JOB

Work to Be Taken Over by Illinois Director.

Frank D. Chase, director for the civil works administration in Illinois, announced yesterday that he had received authority from the CWA in Washington to take over a sewer project in Harvey, in southern Cook county, because he is dissatisfied with the manner in which the $533,982 project is being handled by the heads of the city government of Harvey.

The project calls for the tiling of an open ditch three miles long in Harvey, and is to provide work for 1,462 men, of whom 1,250 are unskilled laborers, 132 skilled workers, and 80 supervisors or professional workers. The project has been supervised by Paul G. Robinson, city engineer of Harvey, under the administration of Mayor M. Bruggeman, who signed the application. Work was started on the sewer on Dec. 11. Of the total cost, $389,100 is to be spent on labor and $144,882 on materials.

To Take Over Work Today.

Mr. Chase plans to go to Harvey to place the work directly under his administration this morning. His decision to remove the city officials of the suburb from control of the work was reached as the result of reports by his inspectors, he said. Similar action will be taken in connection with all projects that fall below specifications set up by the CWA, he said.

"I have no specific charges to make in connection with the administration of the Harvey sewer project," Mr. Chase said, "except that we are dissatisfied with the manner in which it is being run, and with the prices paid for materials obtained by the local officials. If we cannot run these CWA projects on the same engineering basis that we would in working for a private client, we will close them down and transfer the men to new projects. We have cancelled many purchasing orders prepared in other political subdivisions because they did not conform to the federal price regulations, and we shall continue to do so."

Prosecutions Threatened.

Howard O. Hunter, regional supervisor for the federal CWA, said that Mr. Chase's action has the approval of the federal administration, and that if any evidence of graft or chiseling on CWA materials or pay rolls is found it will be turned over to the department of justice for prosecution.

Mr. Chase also revealed that his appeal last week for new and better project applications in order to improve the work done by the CWA, had been answered by an average of 250 new applications a day, of which more than half are from downstate counties.

He also announced that as of Dec. 26 101,860 men were working on CWA projects in Cook county and 27,767 more had been assigned to jobs not yet under way. The county's quota of jobs is 123,013. Although the total of men now employed and those assigned is greater than the quota, it is believed that this discrepancy will be remedied by the dropping out of some of the workers.

Russell L. Peters, chief auditor of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, which is preparing the pay rolls for all Illinois CWA projects, announced yesterday that all past due pay checks will be issued this week. Pay rolls for some projects were from two to four weeks in arrears. A new accounting system is being put into effect this week to simplify the procedure, and plans have been made to employ a night force if necessary to keep the pay rolls up to date.

SEVEN NEW CIVIL WORKS SCHOOL PROJECTS ADDED

Seven additional civil works educational projects were approved for Cook county yesterday, bringing the total to 119, according to Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, Illinois emergency relief commission.

Four hundred and two unemployed teachers have been engaged to date, to whom will go $36,097.60 in wages. By Jan. 15, when the classes for adult idle and children of nursery school age, from 2 to 4 years, are scheduled to be under way, a total of from 800 to 1,000 teachers will be employed, Mr. Reynolds said. The 402 already engaged will have from two weeks' to two months' work. They were chosen from 3,000 applicants.

Forty-one councillors and 41 teacher clerks, or secretaries to the councillors, will be added to the CWA pay roll today, according to Dr. Charles J. Lunak, assistant superintendent of schools. These councillors will go throughout the city recruiting classes among jobless adults, advising them on studies and organizing classes of from 10 to 15 persons. Mrs. Rose H. Alschuler, clubwoman, will organize the nursery classes.

Adults will begin registering for classes next Monday, in any social center, such as the Y. M. C. A. or Y. W. C. A. A few classes may open next Monday. Teachers will be paid $25 a week for a 30-hour week.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GRAND LARCENY AS A VIRTUE.

There has been singularly little indignation over the asserted determination of the government to take its billions of profit from the devaluation of the dollar.

The absence of protest must be attributed in part to the colossal amounts concerned. A transaction which would be obvious larceny if it involved a few hundred dollars belonging to a few neighbors is not so easily recognized for what it is when the amount directly involved is more than four billion dollars and the nominal owners of most of it are the impersonal federal reserve banks. Moreover, thinking about the matter is likely to be confused, partly because of the exalted personalities concerned and partly because judgment is likely to be perverted by patriotic sentiments.

Nevertheless, it is altogether obvious that the government's proposal is grand larceny on a scale perhaps never before attempted anywhere by any one. The government is deliberately undertaking to debase the dollar, to make it buy less. To the extent that the government succeeds every one who has a dollar in any form is going to be robbed of part of it as certainly as if the tax collector actually went around to his bank and took a third or a half of all the money he could find. The strong and wealthy will suffer, of course, but they at least should not know deprivation. The victims selected by this process for its cracking down are precisely the defenseless who might properly expect the government to protect them.

The aged who can no longer earn their livelihood and must live on their savings will be victimized. The widows and orphans for whom insurance policies were taken out will suffer.

All this is supposed to be necessary in the interest of the unfortunate debtor classes. It may be that some debtors will be helped to some degree, but the one certain beneficiary is the biggest debtor of all, the government, because whether commodity prices rise or not the treasury is going to make at least a cool two billion of profit on gold at the expense of the citizens. We got where we are through government squandering and now we are going to try to get out through robbery of the citizens by the government.

The best that can be said for this program is that it may be the necessary purge following a career of unexampled profligacy. Perhaps such a case might be made, but it is not being made. There is no note of regret or remorse to be detected in the news from Washington. The country is invited to regard grand larceny by government as the highest virtue.

ASSASSINATION IN EUROPE.

The news from Rumania must have prompted many people to wonder with some dismay if they were going to have the same reason to remember the name of Sinaia that they had to remember Sarajevo, and the same reason to remember the name of Constantinescu that they had to remember the name of Gavrilo Princip. For the apprehensions the parallel was superficially ominous.

Again the violent political ideas convulsing Europe are being executed by the assassin. The murderous enthusiasm which makes the Rumanian prime minister, Duca, its victim finds its inspiration in another country. The doctrines upon which the German Nazi state is founded find their expression in Rumania in the murder of a high government official. It was only recently that Dollfuss of Austria escaped an assassin's attack, and that attack also came because the Austrian government is endeavoring to keep the German idea out.

No one who sees the manifestations of political fury in continental Europe can feel any assurance that the new year will be without another terrific explosion of unforeseeable consequences.

SAFEGUARDING THE SANITARY LOAN.

A recent editorial in THE TRIBUNE called attention to the fact that the best methods and apparatus for sewage treatment in use today are likely to be outmoded in a few years. The point was made, of course, in connection with the public works loan to the sanitary district. No sewage plant on a comparable scale has ever been built. The expense is colossal. Therefore, it was said, every precaution should be taken in advance to assure that the money will not be thrown away on works which will be obsolete in a few years.

Mr. Joshua D'Esposito, state engineer for the public works administration and an expert on caissons, no doubt thought he had placed himself on record in support of this position in a letter published a few days ago on this page. He called attention to a paragraph he had inspired in the contract between the federal government and the sanitary district, requiring a study of the plans by a commission to be appointed from Washington and paid by the sanitary district. The commission is "to make a general survey of the entire situation so as to take full advantage of any change in the development of the art of sewage disposal."

This is something but not much and not enough. A commission to be appointed from Washington promises just another pay roll of men with political pull and slight knowledge of any subject. Undoubtedly the plans as now drawn will pass any ordinary engineering examination, for the men who designed the projected works know far more about large scale sewage treatment than do most engineers in their field.

What is needed is recognition of the fact that the science is in its experimental stage. It follows that money spent on sewage treatment works at this time is almost certain to be wasted in part and may be nearly a total waste. That is the point of view which should be uppermost in the minds of the engineers who pass on the plans and it is not a viewpoint which is to be expected of an engineering board appointed by the easy money administration whose prime object is to spend huge sums in as short a time as possible. In the interest of the sanitary district taxpayers the ultimate engineering authority should possess a maximum of skepticism and caution.

A COURT FOR AUTO THIEVES.

Theft of automobiles and parts is of scandalous extent in this city and neighborhood. It presents not only a prosperous field of crime in itself but it is an important adjunct to other forms of crime. The stolen automobile figures in almost all robberies and murders.

Efforts to cope with this evil have not been as successful as the gravity of this form of crime demands, and the public will welcome the establishment of a new special court to deal solely with automobile thefts. It ought to help and will if the judge in charge of it is the right man. He should be a man interested in punishing guilt rather than in reforming society, in enforcing the laws, not in experimenting with his own theories of policy. If existing laws are ill-advised they should be corrected by the lawmaking agency of the government, not by judges who cherish theories not embodied in the law. We are supposed to have established a government of law and not of men. Our system of punishment assumes that the penalties prescribed will deter crime. They will not if they are not imposed. If their effects are not satisfactory, other rules should be established, but by the legislative judgment and action and not in the unregulated discretion of any judge who happens to hold other views of public policy.

Editorial of the Day

THE TUGWELL BILL.

[Alfred E. Smith in New Outlook.]

An extraordinary amount of interest has been aroused throughout the country over the so-called Tugwell bill regulating foods, drugs, and cosmetics. This interest is due in part to effective propaganda by the department of agriculture and by its supporters, in part to an opposition campaign on the part of manufacturers and advertising interests, and in part to a general conflict of opinion as to what are the proper limits of government regulation and control. In the meantime there is a cross fire of approval, comment, and criticism from the embattled exponents of all the various camps.

The issues at stake are worth examining. To begin with, it must be admitted that the present federal laws governing foods, drugs, and cosmetics need strengthening, because there is altogether too much harmful stuff being foisted on the unsuspecting public. It must also be admitted that the absence of any jurisdiction over advertising as distinguished from labeling of these products has seriously handicapped the federal authorities in carrying out the spirit of the present laws. Amendments therefore are in order, and only stupid reactionaries and unprogressive manufacturers and advertisers will deny it.

The Tugwell bill, however, goes a long way beyond simply amending and putting teeth in present laws. The author himself has stated with considerable frankness that what he aims at in his bill is not just reform, but a revolution in the whole theory governing this field. He regards advertising as largely waste, and he thinks that the government should take a hand in limiting costs to the ultimate consumer by cutting out the advertising middleman. He also believes that government control of industry will inevitably take the place of mere regulation, that the government is competent to exercise such control, and that it will be in the interest of the average citizen.

Let us see how these notions are reflected in the Tugwell bill: In addition to a certain reasonable broadening of the word "drugs," the bill defines drugs as including all substances and preparations other than food, and all devices intended to affect the structure or any function of the body of man or other animals. That is a pretty large order. Cosmetics are defined as including all substances and preparations intended for cleansing or altering the appearance of or promoting the attractiveness of the person—also an extraordinarily broad definition which is bound to require an immense amount of interpretation and to cause a great deal of trouble in the process. The bill gives almost complete control over advertisement, which is defined as including all representations of fact, or information disseminated in any manner, or by any means other than by labeling. The bill provides that an article is held to be misbranded if its labeling is in any particular false, or by ambiguity or inference creates a misleading impression regarding the article. A drug is misbranded if it bears the name of any diseases for which the drug is not a specific cure, but is a palliative, or if its labeling bears any representation directly, or by ambiguity or inference, concerning its effect which is contrary to the general agreement of medical opinion. Any advertisement is false if by ambiguity or inference it creates a misleading impression regarding a food, drug, or cosmetic.

The secretary of agriculture may determine that there has been an advance in medical science, and as a result may authorize the advertisement of drugs previously forbidden to be put on the market. The bill gives him power to license all factories whenever there may be any suspicion that the condition surrounding the manufacturing, processing, or packing may be injurious to health. There are other drastic provisions for inspection, seizure, etc. Publishers, advertising agencies, and radio broadcasting companies may not be prosecuted for false advertising if they give the names and addresses of the persons who paid for the advertisements in question. Power to prescribe regulations is of course included in the bill, carrying with it a substantial delegation of legislative authority.

This rough analysis shows that the bill brings up the same old problem which is popping up every day in the federal government. It is the problem of whether this country is going in for government control of industry or for reasonable regulation. It is the question of whether we are going to the left or right, or whether we shall stick to the center. It is the question of whether we shall have a minimum of government or a maximum of bureaucracy.

Suggestions from intelligent, enthusiastic, and disinterested young men are most valuable, but their advice must be strained through the sieve of practical workability. A great deal will stay in the sieve, no doubt to their distress, but they can content themselves with knowing that what goes through is the real essence which won't hurt the public.

"HARVARD GROUP RAPS ROOSEVELT RECOVERY PLAN."—Headline.

"HARVARD GROUP SMITETH YE TEN COMMANDMENTS." — Mount Sinai Daily Journal, Wednesday, Jan. 3, 1210 B. C. In regard to the Ten Commandments which have been given to the world the Harvard group says: "Let us not be deceived by the specious arguments in the Ten Commandments that those workers who are employed can purchase more. Higher wages raise costs and, therefore, prices, with the result that other people can purchase less. Those who are unemployed can purchase nothing at all, except as purchasing power is put into their hands by taking it away from others."

"HARVARD GROUP HITTETH SERMON ON MOUNT."—Palestine Morning Sun, Thursday, Jan. 2, 31. The Harvard group in a statement regarding the new doctrine embodied in the Sermon on the Mount says: "Nothing in the words of the Sermon on the Mount justifies us in the conclusion that what is contemplated is an important step in the direction of a planned economy. The attack upon competition represented in the Sermon on the Mount limiting machine hours, prorating output, producing sales below cost, and the adoption of superior techniques of production is really an attack upon the consumer."

"HARVARD GROUP KICKETH MAGNA CHARTA."—Runnymede Daily Clarion, Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1215. The Harvard group in a critical analysis of Magna Charta, which the king signed yesterday, says: "In summary, it may be said that the Magna Charta provides no panacea for recovery. Properly carried out in timely fashion, Magna Charta may at once provide much needed relief. At the other extreme Magna Charta may be merely a political football and a drain upon harassed treasuries."

"HARVARD GROUP GIVETH YE RASPBERRY TO YE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE."—Philadelphia Eagle, Monday, July 5, 1776. The Harvard group has this to say of the Declaration of Independence, adopted yesterday in this city: "In all cases of Declarations of Independence the declaration of independence comes of itself. And a declaration of independence is sound only if it does come of itself. Any declarations of independence which are merely due to artificial stimuli leave part of the work of declaring independence undone and add undigested independence, which must be declared all over again."

ERIN, SHANTHAGAL GO BRAGH!

Whist, I don't ken what you think (Nor, soft, give I a damn,
For, like a certain sailor lad,
I "yam" but what I "yam"),
But now with sense returning
And sanity restored
At prohibition's wake, look,
I strike a jocund chord
And lift me penny harp up
And troll like everything
And lilt a lusty roundelay
And this is what I sing:
Take all the whiskies known, lad,
And all the wines, though grew
The grapes whence they were pressed, friend,
On Horace's farm:—to you
I'll gladly give my portion—
I'll pipe like Colin Clout
So long as I may have my fill
Of priceless Dublin Stout!

MARY G. HOGAN'S SPAL-PEEN.

AND IT USED to be said that father spent all his money in the rum shop before he went around to the grocery store and the meat market. Not so now; the grocery store has the first crack, because in our grocery the rum and gin and rye and things are piled up right alongside the breakfast foods, the round steak, eggs, the onions, the milk, the canned fruits, and the dried beef. It's just a bit confusing, as a customer is quite liable to say to the groceryman: "Gimme four pounds of Canadian rye, two bottles of eggs, four packages of breakfast gin, two quarts of bread, and a half bushel of Scotch whisky."

THE GAY GAMBLING PALACES along the French Riviera are talking of closing up because of the hard times. Funny! For no matter how little money people have they're always willing to gamble with it even if they haven't had a square meal for three or four days.

TAM-MA-NIE, TAM-MA-NIE, big chief sits in his tepee, nary a job to give has he. Tam-ma-nie, Tam-ma-nie, they've soaked us, broke us, Tam-ma-nie.

FOREST GAP IN WINTER.

This gap, here, marks a rutted wagon road
Where men have hauled the fallen from the wood.
One naked corpse alone made such a load
That chain and leather strained to little good.
The scar is hardly healed beneath the white
And sterile bandage of enwrapping snow;
The forest sleeps, forgetful of the fight
It waged so valiantly against the slow
Encroachment of an enemy more sly
Than wind or flood; no flight of hawk or crow
Disturbs a dream; no shadow flickers by;
No foot-track breaks the silent marble brow;
The forest rests a while from joy and pain—
But I shall never rest till I lie slain!

DYSPEPTICS.

THERE is more than one kind of dyspepsia and more than one cause thereof. It follows that the man who takes a treatment because some neighbor says it cured him is apt to be disappointed. There are certain principles, however, that all dyspeptics should know about. Some of them can be applied in most cases of the disorders.

Many dyspeptics are overweight. It seems that the causes of obesity are often the same as those of dyspepsia. In many instances the dietetic treatment carried out in order to reduce weight and to keep it down will also benefit the symptoms that go by the name dyspepsia. If a person with those habits that make for obesity will change his habits so that his weight is lessened and remains down he will find that the dyspepsia symptoms will not trouble him much. Therefore, fat dyspeptics must reduce and thereafter keep the weight down.

Lean, underweight dyspeptics should bring their weight up to normal. Again, habits and foods that contribute to underweight also promote dyspepsia, and whatever overcomes one is beneficial for the other.

Whatever the main cause of dyspepsia may be, the constipation habit contributes to the discomfort. The bowel habits practically always need to be improved. One visit to the bathroom should always be made either before or just after breakfast, and there should be another after lunch or at some other rather regular hour. A free evacuation just before bedtime generally averts a night attack.

For the relief of a gall bladder attack with stomach symptoms, emptying the rectal pouch often suffices. A glass of water or one of warm water containing just enough salt to make a normal salt solution should be taken on arising.

Sometimes when stomach digestion is slow and an attack of dyspepsia seems to impend, one or more glasses of water may bring relief. In some instances a glass of charged but unflavored water is more effective than plain water.

Exercise and work are excellent though not always successful cures for dyspepsia. Rowing, horseback riding, bicycle riding, and walking are excellent. The mental processes, and particularly the emotions, are important factors in dyspepsia. Worry and anxiety are potent causes of it. The more violent emotions are harmful to dyspeptics. Whatever may be the principal cause of the stomach discomfort, harmful emotions are apt to contribute to the harm. On the other hand, whatever scheme of treatment is being used, indulgence in the harmful emotions should be one of the prohibitions.

Experience is a somewhat unreliable but nevertheless valuable teacher for the dyspeptic. He learns in time that certain foods are harmful to him, however wholesome they may be for others. He is apt to follow what he thinks experience teaches him, and about three times out of four he will be right. However, there are drawbacks. Some dyspeptics are undernourished because they are afraid to eat. Watching the digestion may provoke dyspepsia. What appears to agree with him at one time may disagree at another. Experience as a guide for the dyspeptic is good, but it has its limitations.

BIG LEGS.

Mrs. G. D. S. writes: What could cause my legs, from the knees down, and my ankles to be about one-third larger than they ought to be in proportion to the rest of my body? I am in good health, and the flesh on my legs and ankles is firm but makes me look all out of proportion. Can you tell me what I can do to safely reduce them? I have tried walking, but it tends to make them larger.

REPLY.

If these tissues are firm and there is no pitting on pressure, and the shoes and garters leave no print, the chances are there is nothing wrong. You are merely built that way. Perhaps you can make large ankles the fashion.

History is full of illustrations of bodily peculiarities having been made fashionable.

If enlargement is due to edema, the trouble may be due to heart disease, Bright's disease, cirrhosis of the liver, varicose veins, pelvic tumor, or some other cause.

In hot weather, local acidosis is apt to be the cause. What can your physician find?

PROBABLY NO DANGER.

E. W. writes: My sister is engaged to be married to a widower whose wife died of tuberculosis. Are there any chances of her getting the disease? Will the children be affected?

REPLY.

Under the conditions mentioned there will be no danger of consumption by reason of her marriage, nor to her prospective children.

INHERITANCE.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When common stock of a corporation is owned in joint tenancy with right of survivorship and one of the parties dies [1] is the share of the deceased subject to state inheritance tax? 2. Is the share of the deceased subject to government inheritance tax? 3. Should the share of the deceased be probated in court? 4. Can the stock be sold by the survivor without the signature indorsement of the deceased? If so, what should be done when selling the stock? 5. If the survivor wants the stock certificate changed to show ownership of the survivor only, what should be done? 6. Can the survivor cash the dividend check without the signature indorsement of the deceased? If not, what should be done to accomplish this? R. M. W.

1. Yes, as to the one-half which passes by survivorship.
2. The federal estate tax applies to the total estate left by a deceased. The exemption is $50,000 worth.
3. No.
4. We suggest that you first get in touch with the transfer officer of the corporation and have a new certificate issued in your name.
5. See 4.
6. We see no objection to his indorsing the check. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

La Porte, Ind., Dec. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A farmer sold a cow at a sale seven years ago, for which a note was given by the purchaser. The note was discounted at the bank and the farmer received the cash, less the discount. During that time the purchaser has lost all he had. He is renting a small acreage and the bank has a mortgage upon all his products. Now the bank has presented the discounted note to the farmer who received this "promise to pay" for his cow sold seven years ago. Is the farmer who sold the cow, discounted the note for cash, responsible for the amount paid by the bank to him? The bank has held this note all this time, and now, failing in making the collection from the man who bought the cow, presents it for payment to the man who sold the cow. What is the law in such a case? L. I. D.

It is the general rule of the negotiable instruments law that for the holder of an instrument to recover from an indorser he must have presented the instrument to the maker at maturity and given notice of dishonor to the indorser. It seems probable that the indorser in your case is discharged by the failure of the holder to take these necessary steps.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI.—America's sales of leaf tobacco and cigarets to the far east are likely to be adversely affected as a result of recent Japanese moves to establish a tobacco monopoly in the Japanese protected state of Manchukuo.

In 1931 American tobacco growers sold to China, including Manchuria, leaf tobacco valued at $65,000,000 silver [about $23,000,000 in United States currency at present rates of exchange]. Sales of manufactured cigarets made in the United States and Great Britain, but from American leaf, in 1931 amounted to $18,000,000 silver [$6,000,000 in United States currency]. Chinese consumption of cigars is limited, only about $1,000,000 worth being imported annually, and these mostly from the Philippines.

The chief importer of American leaf and manufactured cigarets in China is the British-American Tobacco company, popularly known as the "Anglo-American trust." This company has large factories in all parts of China and also in Manchuria. Other concerns which participate in the trade include Liggett & Myers Tobacco company and the Chinese Nanyang Tobacco company.

Up to the time of the Japanese occupation of Manchuria the B. A. T. enjoyed a practical monopoly of the cigaret trade in these provinces, considered the most profitable market in the entire country. But after the Japanese occupation the Manchukuo authorities began to place restrictions on the company's activities, once going to the extent of placing guards about the factories and preventing shipments to dealers.

This was due to a dispute over taxes, but later on, when the guards were withdrawn, it was found that the Manchukuo authorities had extended special facilities to a Japanese concern known as the Toa Tobacco company, a subsidiary of the government monopoly bureau in Japan. In order to meet this competition the B. A. T. cut prices and precipitated a price war which lasted for practically two years. Officials of the B. A. T. allege that the Japanese company's products receive preferential rates on the Manchukuo railways and special police protection which are not accorded to the Anglo-American combine.

Recently the Osaka Mainichi, organ of Japanese industrialists in the Osaka district, announced the possibility that the Manchukuo government would grant the Japanese company a tobacco monopoly in Manchuria. This probably would not have an immediately adverse effect on sales of American leaf, because the Japanese also are large purchasers of American tobacco for their monopoly bureau.

But the Japanese for a considerable time have been striving to develop independent sources of supplies in Formosa, Shantung province and, according to report, in Jehol province.

The British-American Tobacco company also has encouraged Chinese tobacco cultivation in Shantung province, where climatic conditions are favorable, but increasing Chinese cigaret consumption has taken up the Shantung production without adversely affecting imports from the United States.

ONE LIFE IN REVIEW.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Dec. 27.—I am writing this letter to thank you for printing such a wonderful Christmas edition. I have spent the best part of Monday carefully perusing its contents, and refreshing the memories of those bucolic days in front of a blazing hardwood fire while a howling wind is driving a heavy, drifting snowstorm off Lake Michigan. In the last 87 years I have faced many such storms; thirty-six of them here at Benton Harbor and the remainder in Illinois.

When I read in your paper the notice you were sending out these reproductions of early numbers I had figured in my mind you were going back into the '40s at the time I began to creep. My father, Judge William E. Holmes, who settled in Bloomington in 1848, was a subscriber to the paper, which I have read since I was 12 years old. During the civil war I worked for Dalton & Dibble, news agents, and carried a route.

Other high spots in my TRIBUNE life were my first visit to Chicago, when I saw the paper being printed on its eight cylinder press in the basement on Madison street, and in 1877 visiting the composing room on the fifth floor of the Tribune building, where I first met Editor Medill. In 1897 I moved to the city and put in a job printing office opposite McVicker's theater on Madison street, finally selling out to Skein & Stewart, stationers, and wandered back to the wide open spaces on the prairie, at Paxton, and operated a Greenback paper for that party during the Garfield campaign and had to retreat, finally landing back at Bloomington, buying out a Sunday paper of a society flavor, which soon joined the ranks of the down and outs.

The lure of the windy city again attracted my attention after a period of twenty years' struggle with all the phases that went in a country paper in those pastoral days, and I tackled the "open board of trade" in gamblers' alley in the rear of the exchange building, corner Washington and La Salle streets, and for ten years tried all the avenues in that line to beat the game, but found it was impossible.

When the panic of 1892 struck us we traded our apartment building for a finely equipped fruit farm, and after 36 years tickling mother nature's back we are still sitting pretty here on the farm, fighting the depression.

NO SNAP.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—The writer is working on a CWA project, and, for your information and the public's, it's no snap riding 30 miles out in open trucks in this weather, a meager fire to warm up before starting to work, and then digging into frozen ground. When through with this work you are in a sweat, you board a truck in this sweaty condition, and when you get off you are thoroughly chilled. The writer has worked over six weeks, has received three days' pay, and is expected to get by at a time when commodity prices are jacked up and the spirit of selfishness stalks the land.

FRED YOUNG.

PAROLE.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—My attention has been called to your new article in yesterday's TRIBUNE criticizing the parole law on account of one or two failures and entirely ignoring the ninety and nine who make good by reason of the desirable supervision which that law affords.

Permit me to state the facts, not as a sentimentalist or even as a humanitarian, but from the common sense view of public protection and out of an experience of thirty-three years in dealing first hand with the delinquent.

In justice to the public and in view of your expressed desire to print the truth, I hope you will publish this letter.

The situation is simply this: Just about the same number of men must necessarily leave prison each month or year as enter prison for the corresponding period. If this were not so, your taxpayer would be called upon to build a new prison or two each year in each state, to say nothing of supporting the accumulating prison populations.

The question is whether it is better for these men to be turned out with a handout of $5 or $10 in the old way, without any responsibility on the part of the state for their welfare, without a home or promise of work, and without any clew as to their whereabouts, or any string on them by which they can be returned to prison, without expense of trial in case of lapse; or whether we should have their address and keep them under supervision so far as possible?

As a matter of fact, the indeterminate sentence operates to extend sentences an average of one year longer than under the old definite sentence, and it is infinitely better to have men under a planned parole than to turn them loose without supervision.

From 80 to 85 per cent of paroled men complete their parole with credit, and only 4 to 5 per cent commit other offenses while on parole. All parole boards should be bipartisan and made in such a way that half the members will have experience at all times, and all parole officers should be qualified under civil service.

Even without these desirable standards Illinois is doing as good or better parole work than any state in the Union, and the parole law is one of the best examples of social planning and protection adopted in a hundred years.

SUES TO ANNUL ORDINANCE FOR TRANSIT MERGER

Lawyer Calls Extensions by Council Illegal.

A suit seeking to have the 1930 city transit franchise ordinance declared null and void and requesting an injunction to restrain city officials from carrying out its provisions was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Attorney Frederick J. Bertram on his own behalf as a taxpayer. The ordinance authorizes the unification of the street car and elevated systems.

The attorney contends that the ordinance is inoperative because extensions granted by the city council for its acceptance by the traction companies were illegal, and asserts that the 1929 merger valuation of $260,442,083 placed upon the properties was excessive and discriminatory against the taxpayers. The suit was assigned to Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher. A hearing was set for Feb. 5. Attorney Bertram said he might go into court before that date on a motion for a temporary injunction to block any move intended to make the franchise operative.

Officials Not Perturbed.

City officials and attorneys who have been negotiating a reorganization of settlement requisite to the consolidation of the transit companies expressed no concern over the suit. Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the city council local transportation committee, who was named in the suit with Mayor Kelly and City Treasurer James A. Kearns, expressed the belief that the ordinance was sound unless it lapsed because of failure of the reorganization plans.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher, who was appointed by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to negotiate an agreement on a consolidation plan, said he had never heard of Attorney Bertram or of his interest in the transit problem.

The traction companies have until Jan. 31 to accept the ordinance. Mayor Kelly and city officials have warned the financial interests of the transit systems that the deadline will not be extended unless they can show extensive progress toward unification. Attorney Fisher is to report to the federal court this morning in a hearing on the status of the merger negotiations. He is expected to recommend to the court the reorganization plan on which there is now a general agreement.

Calls Extensions Illegal.

In the suit filed yesterday Attorney Bertram alleges that the extensions granted by the city council for the acceptance of the franchise ordinance were illegal because they were not approved by the voters in a public referendum as required by law. The ordinance, under the original provisions, should have been accepted by the unified local transportation company within 120 days after July 1, 1930.

The bill charges that the actual value of the surface and elevated properties on Aug. 31, 1929, when the first merger plan was agreed upon under the domination of Samuel Insull, was 70 millions of dollars less than the "agreed" value of $260,442,083. The agreed value was the purchase price, plus additions and less depreciation, at which the city ultimately might take over the consolidated system.

Ordinance Unfair, Says Bill.

The provisions of the ordinance, it was asserted in the bill, are "grossly unfair and unjust to street car and elevated train riders." Enforcement of the ordinance, it was declared, would result in a despoliation of public funds and an undue burden upon the taxpayers.

"I am only a poor lawyer who thinks he knows what the law is and feels something ought to be done to rectify it," said Attorney Bertram last night. "The ordinance is a feature of the old Insull régime and the only thing it's worth is a decent burial."

START STAMP SALES TODAY IN CAMPAIGN ON HEART DISEASE

The annual sale of Valentine stamps to provide revenue for fighting heart disease in Chicago, will open today under the auspicies of the Chicago Heart association. The drive will end on Feb. 14, St. Valentine's day.

The heart shaped stickers which are used on mail come in books of 100. The price is one dollar for each book and they may be obtained at the headquarters of the association at 293 North Wabash avenue.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary, said yesterday that she thinks the public does not realize the seriousness of heart disease, especially in children. Recent reports, she said, revealed that 1.5 per cent of all school children have cardiac ailments that might be helped through education and in most cases eliminated before the child grows to maturity.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $236,092, making a total of $98,356,868 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Jan. 2	$ 7,785	$ 25,449
Uncollected	15,781,232	42,129,069
	1930.	1931.
Jan. 2	$ 67,044	$ 136,714
Uncollected	66,741,294	65,920,335

Assessor J. L. Jacobs will take the stand this afternoon before County Judge Jarecki to defend the 1931 real estate assessment under the cross-examination of attorneys for the Chicago Real Estate board.

The board, in a test case incorporating the tax objections of nearly all the 438,000 owners of homes and small flat buildings in Cook county, charges the assessment rolls are fraudulent and discriminatory. The board asks that Judge Jarecki reduce by 15 per cent the assessments of property owners who joined in the suit. In hearings three weeks ago Assessor Jacobs on direct examination said the assessment was equitable and denied any discriminations against small property owners.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday filed tax receivership petitions under the Kerner-Skarda act against 20 income bearing properties. The properties named owe $38,857 in taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930.

AURORA BUDGET RAISES WORKERS' PAY 14 PER CENT

The 1934 budget for the city of Aurora, submitted yesterday to the city council, provided for a 14 per cent increase in the pay of municipal employés, who took a cut of 31½ per cent a year ago.

One part of the economy program adopted then was retained, however. No mention was made of restoring to duty fourteen policemen and ten firemen who were discharged.

Mayor C. M. Bjorseth and the four city commissioners, who took the 31½ per cent cut with other city employés, voted to restore their pay rates to the original amounts, $4,000 for the mayor and $3,500 each for the commissioners. It was explained that the slash had brought their compensation below that set by state law for the positions.

REDS BADGER LA GUARDIA ON RELIEF WORK

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia on his second day in office faced two groups of unemployed women who went to city hall today demanding relief, one an orderly delegation of 100 and the other a dozen belligerents.

The minority group, led by Juliet Stuart Poyntz, who was a candidate on the communist ticket, was disowned by David Lasser, secretary of the workers' committee on unemployment, who led the larger delegation.

Presiding at the first meeting of the new board of estimate, in a discussion of federal and city funds for the unemployed, Mayor La Guardia was interrupted suddenly by Miss Poyntz, who shouted demands for relief.

Crucial Test.

The mayor explained that he was doing everything in his power to see that adequate relief was provided out of the city treasury.

"You don't care what you do about starving men and women," Miss Poyntz yelled. "You are an agent of Wall street."

When Miss Poyntz interrupted the meeting again the mayor turned to T. H. Whitney, local CWA administrator.

"Mr. Whitney, offer that woman a job and see if she will take it."

Miss Poyntz made no reply. She sat down then and remained quiet until the meeting adjourned. Returning to his office Mr. La Guardia directed his secretary, Lester B. Stone, to arrange a meeting with the women in the reception room across the corridor. Miss Poyntz selected a committee.

Close Range Battle.

Plainly annoyed the mayor entered the reception room.

"Let's understand each other right now," he said. "You are not fooling me. Get that straight. I know who you are. Now any man that wants work can get it clearing snow. We are trying to do everything possible for the women too."

"You think you can get here in a small room and bulldoze us," Miss Poyntz shouted.

"Now, do you want a job?" the mayor asked.

"We didn't come in here to be bulldozed," Miss Poyntz shouted again.

"You are not representing the workers," the mayor declared, "and the next time you come here and interrupt the board of estimate I am going to put you out."

Seeks Legislation.

The mayor told Mr. Lasser and Orlie Pell of the Association of Unemployed Single Women of his hopes that the CWA projects would have 180,000 workers employed in the city in a few days.

Proposed legislation, drawn by the mayor, was dispatched to the legislature tonight for consideration at its opening session tomorrow to give the mayor power to abolish agencies of city government, consolidate them or reorganize them. Provision is made for pay cuts and enforced furloughs of one month a year without pay.

BANDITS BATTLE POLICE IN SQUAD CAR AND ESCAPE

Three bandits took $1,000 yesterday in a holdup of the People's currency exchange, 1200 North Ashland avenue, and then made their escape in a running gun battle with a police squad.

The robbers wore handkerchief masks and when they left the exchange a pedestrian shouted an alarm to Policeman Ralph Miller, who was walking his beat nearby.

Policeman Miller opened fire on the bandits as they clambered into the automobile, and the pursuit was taken up by Policemen Joseph Ponicki and Edward Kennedy, who were passing in a squad car. The bandit automobile, dodging in and out of alleys, outdistanced the slower police car, but crashed into a truck.

The robbers drove on in their crippled car to Paulina and Division streets, where they stopped Frank Wojcik, 1322 West Huron street, took his automobile, and escaped.

BEVERLY WEST, MAE'S SISTER, FILES TO WED

Beverly West, an actress and a sister of Mae West, appeared yesterday at the county building with Vladimir E. Balkoff, an executive of her vaudeville revue troupe, and got a license to marry. Miss West recently made a vaudeville appearance in Chicago.

Miss West was married in 1918 to Serge Treshatny, whom she described as a Russian count when she instituted divorce proceedings several years later. Treshatny filed a counter suit and got the divorce in New York in 1927, charging misconduct.

CONFER ON PLANS TO MEET SCHOOL AND CITY BONDS

No Actual Default, Says Banker.

City and school board officials conferred with loop bankers until late yesterday on plans to meet maturing bond obligations amounting to $20,158,000. This amount represents the principal on the bonds. Interest totaling $3,862,790 was paid by the two governments out of funds on hand.

In the event of a default on the obligations the credit of the city and schools would be seriously impaired, since their securities could not be purchased by trust companies, insurance concerns and other investors in many states over a period of years, Frank McNair, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, heading the bankers' committee on the matter, said the situation would be cleared up without an actual default.

Will Exchange Bonds.

According to the plan, the city's refunding bonds will be exchanged for $15,000,000 worth of bonds of both governments. Bonds of the refunding issue bear 5½ per cent interest.

"If the exchange of $15,000,000 worth can be accomplished," said Mr. McNair, "I believe the banks can take up the rest by a purchase of tax anticipation warrants."

When the conference broke up last night bondholders had deposited $11,067,000 of their bonds. Of this amount $2,700,000 were school securities.

Confidence Expressed.

The bond principal payments of the city which fell due Jan. 1 were $15,0 3,000 and the school board's obligations amounted to $4,500,000. In addition the school board has $700,000 in principal due Feb. 1. The February payment will be included in the refunding plan.

James B. McCahey, president of the school board, and City Controller Robert B. Upham, who participated in the conference, also expressed confidence that the obligations would be met.

The school board has ample borrowing power on its 1932 and 1933 tax levies to make the payments, since only $628,000 in tax anticipation warrants have been issued for these years. The unused balance in tax warrants against the bond redemption levies for the two years amounts to $10,800,333.

Miss Lillian Sampson, 52 years old, confessed to Evanston police yesterday that she looted the homes of prominent persons in the suburb and Chicago where she had been employed as a cook. She took the loot to a safety deposit box in the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston and produced deeds to Evanston property, stocks, bonds, and tax warrants in her own name, and loot which police said is worth thousands of dollars.

Her most recent employment was in the home of Dr. George Dick, 1015 Greenwood street, Evanston. She was arrested there after a police investigation instituted by Mrs. Dick, who missed several pieces of jewelry.

Upon questioning, the cook confessed and took police to her room, where she brought forth a gold bracelet set with amethysts worth $600, a pair of crystal cuff links valued at $200, and several other pieces of jewelry taken from the Dick home.

She also confessed to having taken a ruby necklace from the home of Christian H. Wieland, 2920 Commonwealth avenue, vice president of the Wieland Dairy company, where she worked last June, and the theft of miscellaneous jewelry from the home of Albert I. Appleton, 2735 Sheridan road, Evanston, where she worked in September.

Township Closes Schools Until Feb. 5 for Economy

Public schools in Zion township, Lake county, will not be reopened until Feb. 5, according to F. H. DePew, president of the board of education. He said the sixteen teachers are unpaid for September and all succeeding months, and that 50 per cent of the township's taxes for the last year are in arrears. It was estimated the closing would save $2,000.

CINCINNATI HAS $3,831,866 IN TILL AT START OF 1934

"Pay-as We Go" Policy Is Huge Success.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 2.—(AP)—With a balance of nearly four million dollars in its exchequer, Cincinnati—where the nonpartisan city manager charter form of government established a record yesterday by entering its ninth year—starts 1934 with a comfortable feeling of security and pride.

That feeling was explained today in the report of city manager, C. A. Dykstra, who remarked that "Cincinnati has been immensely more fortunate than most cities."

She is meeting her debts as they come due, without resort to strenuous efforts; her till holds $3,831,866, or more than $1,400,000 in excess of the balance as of Dec. 31, 1932, he reported.

Expenses have been reduced more than two million dollars since 1931, and a 5 per cent cut in the pay of municipal employes has been restored.

Lost No Cash in Banks.

"We lost no public deposits in failing banks and comparatively few of our citizens had such losses. Tax revenues held up remarkably well, says Dykstra.

His report showed that reduction of expenses since 1931 saved taxpayers $1,159,000.

Further explaining the city's favorable position, Dykstra said "only a very few cities had better tax collection records than Cincinnati. Although our debt service charges for 1933 were heavy, we were entirely able to meet them.

"Furthermore, beginning in 1931 administration costs have been consistently pruned down so that when 1933 came around the city found itself in position to meet the heavy losses without a breakdown of service."

No Taxpayers' Strike.

Dykstra points out that widespread commendation for its record has come to the city which in 1925 swept out a Republican machine which dominated the city hall more than 20 years and replaced it with a fusion administration of Democrats and independent Republicans.

The morale of the city has not suffered like that of some communities, he says. There has been no taxpayers' strike, "no descent upon the council by outraged citizens." taxes are not more than 7½ per cent delinquent, and the "total of tax bills unpaid is infinitesimal compared with many places."

FRANK COUZENS TAKES OATH AS DETROIT MAYOR

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Facing what political friends and foes alike concede to be a "tough job," Frank Couzens, 31, son of United States Senator James Couzens, became mayor of Detroit today, the youngest chief executive the city has ever inducted into office.

But it is for just such a "tough job" the younger Couzens has trained himself. He has studied municipal affairs intensively, has held several lesser offices, and might be considered a "career man" in city politics.

He became acting mayor last spring upon the resignation of Frank Murphy to become governor general of the Philippines. He resigned last fall and became a candidate in his own right.

With the city government far "in the red," Mayor Couzens' problems are largely financial. For months the city has been meeting much of its pay roll in scrip. Eighteen million dollars in scrip was issued last spring. As tax revenue slowly came in, permitting retirement of outstanding certificates, $10,000,000 more of scrip was issued in October. It is estimated that $23,000,000 more must be issued during the next six months to meet pay rolls, and the law says $18,000,000 is the limit.

Mayor Couzens and his fellow city officials must find some way to close that gap of $5,000,000.

MAYOR M'NAIR PUTS HIS DESK IN REACH OF ALL

Sits in Corridor at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Mayor William N. McNair, the first Democratic mayor Pittsburgh has had in over thirty years, today deserted the luxurious quarters of the city's chief executive and established his headquarters in the lobby of the City-County building where every Tom, Dick and Harry, not forgetting members of the female species, could approach and talk to him.

He announced that he would be there each day for an hour starting at 8:30 to confer with any and all comers. To the crowd he said:

"What this city needs is a good advertising man. If any of you can qualify, step up now and I'll give you the job."

Desk Near Cigar Stand.

The mayor's lobby desk is located near the wall between the entrances to the city treasurer's and city controller's offices and only a few yards from the public cigar stand—which was very agreeable and pleasing to the stand's proprietor.

A group of Pitt students came in to look at the mayor. They handed the mayor a long report on unemployment.

"It's a lot of baloney, but I'll read it," Mr. McNair remarked.

Then he announced to the students that he would turn all applicants for jobs over to them.

Asks Job for Son.

A mother brought her young son in for a job.

"Are you a specialist?" the mayor asked.

The young fellow was embarrassed.

"What kind of a specialist?" he asked.

"But I want to drive a truck," the youth replied.

"That's not enough," the mayor told him. "You've got to be a specialist. I could use you right now if you were a specialist.

"Here," he continued, turning to one of the Pitt students, "you take this young fellow to school for a few months. He can become a specialist and I'll hold the job open."

Mr. McNair retired to his fifth floor office a few minutes later and ordered his secretaries to keep all the doors wide open. They did.

QUASH MOVE FOR DEPOSITIONS IN WILLETT SUIT

Judge Paul McWilliams of Litchfield, sitting in the Superior court, yesterday sustained the motion of Attorney Alice Greenacre, representing Mrs. Mary Cave Hall, 5490 South Shore drive, to quash the commissions issued for the taking of two depositions on behalf of Mrs. Grace Williamson Willett in her $1,000,000-suit against Mrs. Hall. Mrs. Willett charges alienation of the affections of Howard L. Willett, head of a trucking company. The commissions, which were to take testimony from Ralph Willett of New York, a brother of Howard, and Norman Willett, son of Ralph, were quashed because they did not give a definite date for taking the deposition.

Curb your Cold with VAPOR
It's the ONLY way to reach the HIDDEN nasal passages

WHEN your nasal passages get all clogged up and the membranes way in the BACK of your nose become infected, it takes a powerful vapor to break through the congestion. Oily liquids can't possibly reach the hidden passages, where the cold is rooted.
A little VAPEX on a folded handkerchief makes a scientific vapor-tent that quickly curbs the nasty symptoms of a cold and wards off coughing. The pleasant vapor rises as you breathe. Nothing to insert in the nose; nothing to leak or irritate.
The instant you inhale the pleasant vapor of VAPEX, you feel its soothing medication way in the back of your nose and throat. The hot, inflamed membranes are cooled and comforted. The cold-fighting powers of the nose are strengthened, so that NATURE can throw off the cold.
Since its dramatic wartime discovery, millions use VAPEX. It clears up colds naturally—without dosing and without muss. It is not a nose drop.

Chicago Girl Is Ranked with Great Carmens

Coe Glade Is Extravagant with Her Gifts.

"CARMEN."

Opera in four acts by Bizet. Presented by the Chicago Grand Opera company at the Civic Opera house Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1934.

THE CAST.

Don Jose ..... Aroldo Lindi
Morales ..... Wilfred Engelman
Zuniga ..... Norman Cordon
Carmen ..... Coe Glade
Frasquita ..... Margery Maxwell
Mercedes ..... Ada Paggi
Escamillo ..... Desiré Defrere
Micaela ..... Hilda Burke
Dancairo ..... Reinhold Schmidt
Remendado ..... Lodovico Oliviero
Incidental Dances by the Ballet.
Conductor ..... Henry Weber
Stage Director ..... Desiré Defrere

BY EDWARD MOORE.

There is extra pleasure in making public the above cast this morning, and for two reasons. It represents a bright, colorful, and generally commendable performance. It also contains the name of an artist who will one day be acclaimed as one of the great Carmens of the generation. She is Coe Glade, Chicago contralto.

As a matter of fact, she is close to being one of the great ones now. After regarding her potentialities no less than her achievements, one is inclined to believe that if it were possible for her to do about a dozen performances of the part in the next three or four weeks she would be just that.

Miss Glade has powers and possibilities, and no end of both. The time is far off when she will be obliged to make a careful calculation of what she is going to do in any given scene. At present she can afford to be exuberant, not to say prodigal, of her gifts, and after watching many years of the calculated variety it is exhilarating to see one running toward wastefulness. She can throw herself into a dance little short of athletic without fear that she will be without breath on her next phrase. She can fling her voice about just as she does her body. When it is time to explode a bit of hatred she can snarl it in most feline fashion, quite the reverse of her normal voice, which is a lovely, dusky tone, with just the range and power that one imagines Bizet had in mind when he wrote the part. She is young, she is a grand singer, and she has an instinctive sense of the stage. A few extra performances would put her fully in touch with the part, not to learn new things, but to restrain what she knows now.

And so "Carmen" scored among the season's successes, though it was presented under rather marked but carefully concealed handicaps. For Dimitri Onofrei, who was to have sung Don Jose, woke up in the morning with a bad throat, and Mr. Lindi, who was to have made his first performance tonight, came in at short notice and without rehearsal. This may have caused a little preoccupation to Mr. Weber on the conductor's stand, but Mr. Lindi is a highly capable and well routined artist in many rôles, and Miss Glade is quick on the uptake.

In addition, another baritone had been originally billed for Escamillo. As he, too, had succumbed to the winter climate of Chicago, Stage Director Defrere appeared in the part. Mr. Defrere is another highly stage wise artist, and while the music of the rôle does not lie altogether well for his voice, he and the chorus put over the "Toreador" song in all its dash and excitement. Miss Burke's Micaela was entirely lovely, a demure, serene, melodious bit, furnishing exactly the right lyric contrast to Carmen's impassioned drama. The smaller parts were as excellently cast as the larger.

It was Mr. Weber's first appearance in this company, and he came out with flying colors. Whatever may have been his technical difficulties, he presented a brisk, lively, and well colored performance, being apparently convinced that Bizet wrote a score of pure gold and being desirous of projecting it in all its aureate glow.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Lady Killer" is a fast stepping number that initiates you into the inner working of crookdom and then, by way of variety, speeds you behind scenes in a Hollywood studio. It is zestful, punchful, and smartly dialogued—and A-1 vehicle for pugnacious, popular and unpulchritudinous James Cagney. [And the title doesn't mean a thing.]

You first meet Dan, the hero, as a theater usher, doing a tidy crap business on the side. He is dismissed for plenty of cause.

He picks up a beautiful lady's purse and returns it to her—discovering in due course of time that the lady is a come-on for some penny ante racketeers.

Smart Dan crashes in on their game and becomes King Bee. The gang branches out into other activities that bring the police rallying 'round . . . To Hollywood! To Hollywood! Giddyap, giddyap—W-H-O-A! Here at the station Dan and Myra are greeted by a smiling cop reception committee . . . Myra [the come-on]—who has Dan's roll, cases out, leaving her pally wally to take the break. And so to the movies . . .

The astute Dan starts out as an extra. But, being the business man he is, it's not long before the demands of his great public—we'll let the picture show you developments here . . .

The film will also reveal interestingly Dan's undersired reunion with his gang and what comes of that, and depict for you the star's amusing romance with a famous cinema actress.

Mr. Cagney, true to form, slaps his women down and otherwise treats 'em rough and makes 'em like it. But he gets his, too! For this smart, tough, smiling yahoo discovers that there are policemen who can come up quite as smart, tough, and smiling as he is. By the time the movie's over, Dan and the law are just like one . . .

The resourceful James comports himself as his admirers like him to. His firsts and his nice wise cracks are always ready. Mae Clarke [she DOES get the most stunning hair cuts!] does a beautiful job as the bad girl in his life. Margaret Lindsay, on the other side of the fence, is charming Supporting players are all able.

"Lady Killer" has been directed with snap and intelligence. Good entertainment.

Daughter Buys Table Silver at McCormick Sale

Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard at N. Y. Auction.

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—A fur-coated audience, with lorgnettes and lap dogs, crowded the auction rooms today where the belongings of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick were going under the hammer.

Among them were Mrs. McCormick's daughter Muriel, now Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard, who bought up most of her mother's table silver, and Mrs. McCormick's sister, Mrs. Parmelee Prentice, who bought nothing.

Elaborate porcelains, gilded silver finger bowls, gold plated dessert plates, and other luxuries were brought, one by one, to a red velvet stage, and the eager Park avenue crowd snapped them up.

The total of the day's sales was $23,372. The highest price paid for anything was $500 for a "Neo-Gothic" silver candelabra. The lowest was $10 for a Persian "camel trapping" of crimson velvet.

Decorating the walls of the auction room were the lace-trimmed bed sheets which will be auctioned off later in the week, and in an outer room was a four-poster bed that looked as though it had been designed for a stage setting.

Snickers came from spectators at one piece put up for sale, a huge porcelain punch bowl with fittings for electric lights. It was too Victorian for the taste of today, but some one bought it for $60.

An 18th century brocaded Spanish bedspread went for $80, and three pairs of embroidered satin hangings for $120. A Spanish renaissance altar frontal brought $260.

Besides the table silver bought by Mrs. Hubbard, her husband, Maj. Hubbard, went away with 18 gilded silver dessert plates with the McCormick monogram and a silver tea and coffee service—this last cost $410.

David Warfield, the actor, paid $100 for a gilded silver soup tureen.

Others in the crowd included Mrs. Alfred E. Smith, who looked on but did not buy; Mrs. Walter Chrysler, and Walter Chrysler Jr., Mrs. William Douglas, Mrs. Charles Whiting, Mrs. J. J. Carlisle, and Mrs. A. V. Stout.

One of the high spots of the sale will be a silver service originally owned by Pauline Bonparte, sister of Napoleon. This will be sold later in the week, as will the lavish collection of lace, the antique furniture, the jewels, the sable coats and the Persian rugs.

Next week the furnishings of Mrs. McCormick's Lake Shore drive home in Chicago and her villa at Lake Forest, Ill., will be sold in Chicago.

Plaits Appear on New Frocks for Afternoon

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Back to plaitings! You've worn them on your most flattering evening gowns with great success. Now you can wear fascinating new afternoon dresses in silk crêpe that have narrow five inch flounces of finely plaited crêpe around the lower edge of the skirt. The fluting is repeated in shoulder festoons and sleeve trimmings.

Luscious new colors are available . . . soft powder blues that will be welcome additions to the "brown and" wardrobe or as the contrast for deep blue wool winter coats . . . soft rosy coral and a vastly becoming new shade of apple green and quantities of gold and old gold shades as well as some mustary green dull crêpes that go with practically anything.

If you want to really try a different color scheme try the right shade of golden yellow and red . . . it will inject life into the weariest of winter wardrobes.

Judging by the first collections, navy blue is slated for the biggest comeback of fashion history . . . flocks of the best looking new frocks are of this always flattering color. They are interesting becaure of the clever accents or frills of snowy white collars and cuffs . . . most of them are severely simple with perky little kick plaits in the front and side front seams of the skirt and an occasional plait in the back.

Along with the revival of blue are dainty collar and cuff sets, the frillier the better, and lest you think there is nothing new in this idea look at the new sets . . . tucked cavalier cuffs that are shaped to flare awankily from below the elbow with the matching collar that is nothing more or less than two intricately fashioned epaulets of sheer white stuff that matches the cuffs.

Hockey Game Closes Gay Holiday Season

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Pretty young Margot Reid, subdeb daughter of the Bryan S. Reids, and Hubbard Phelps, son of Mrs. DeKoven Phelps, were among the dozens of young girls and boys at home from schools and colleges for the holiday season who spent New Year's night watching the Blackhawks suffer defeat by the Toronto Maple Leafs. The hockey game, preceded by numerous dinner parties, climaxed a season that has been very gay and busy for the young people of society as well as their older brothers and sisters. Miss Reid is a student at the Concord academy in Massachusetts and young Mr. Phelps attends the Tabor academy in the same New England state.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

THE holly wreaths are down, the Christmas plant is fading, and the little German angels and the Madonna they attend are packed away for another year. In Fields' the gaudy Christmas decorations are replaced with great baskets of green ferns starred with white blossoms. White freesias have begun to bloom upon coat lapels instead of gardenias and orchids, and lucky folk are looking at cruise folders. . . . We don't care about that, though, and are happy looking forward to quiet domesticity. Now we may have time to get at the tulip and hyacinth bulbs, to buy rich black dirt and pot them ourselves. . . . And even if they don't bloom we still will like doing it. . . . We want time to read our Christmas set of Montaigne, to take Sandy and Binge for long walks and to teach Binge not to fight. Although if that torn ear he got in the last scrap he started himself didn't teach him, the result of other discipline seems doubtful.

FIRST prize for children's thank-you notes probably must be awarded to little Eleanor Cochrane, daughter of the John L. Cochranes. A friend of her mother's sent her note paper for Christmas, and Eleanor wrote immediately to express her pleasure at the gift.

"Dear Aunt Peggy," she said. "I was just praying that you would give me writing paper for Christmas so I could write you a letter on it."

Make Talkie Record of Wedding Ceremony of Miss Doris Warner

New York, Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Doris Warner, eldest daughter of Harry M. Warner, president of Warner Brothers, was married today to Marvyn Leroy, film director of the Warner company, in the presence of 200 film notables.

The ceremony was performed under a pergola backed by a grove of cedars with calla lilies forming arches. The Rev. Israel Fineberg, rabbi of Temple Mount Semech, Mount Vernon, officiated. Arc lamps illuminated the scene for the motion picture cameras, which recorded the event in sound and pictures. The pictorial record of the wedding will be presented to the couple by the bride's father.

The bride's gown and veil were of flesh velvet with accessories to match. Her veil was held in place by a cap of rose point lace. She carried a bouquet of pink camelias.

Reporters were informed that the bridal outfit, veil excepted, cost $450, and that forty gowns, negligees, sport suits and other ensembles had been prepared especially for the wedding trip. An estimate put the total cost of the bride's clothing at between $15,000 and $18,000.

Mr. Leroy's first marriage to Edna Murphy, stage and screen actress, was terminated by divorce in July, 1932.

Coward Play Presented by Uptown Group

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Noel Coward's romantic comedy, "The Queen Was in the Parlor," was staged in the Chicago Woman's club theater last night by the Uptown Players, a semi-professional group which is doing meritorious work without the customary gestures of art-for-art's sake.

This piece, which is a graceful variant upon the old story of a royal princess in love with a commoner, was first staged in 1926 and has had professional production in Chicago. The Uptowners, whose deportment was good enough to hold my interest, will repeat the performance tonight, tomorrow night, Thursday night, and Friday night.

In spite of Katharine Hepburn's immense success in cinema plays, the New York dramatic critics, after observing her return to the stage in "The Lake," have announced that she is a promising young actress, but nothing more.

Eva Le Gallienne will end her engagement in the Grand Opera house next Saturday with "Alice in Wonderland" for the afternoon performance and "Hedda Gabler" for the night bill.

Edith Mason Sings Before Opera Friends

Support for New Company Is Asked at Meeting.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FOR the first time since their beautiful memorial concert to Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, their honorary chairman, in November of 1932, in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house, 400 Friends of Opera assembled yesterday for another delightful afternoon of music, this time in the ballroom of the Drake hotel. Mme. Edith Mason was the artist and the warmth of the reception she received was indicative of how glad her friends are to have her back in Chicago. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman, presided in her usual gracious manner, and introduced Mrs. Jacob Baur, who made a plea for the FOGOS (a reminder of the days when the organization was called the Friends of Grand Opera) to support the new Chicago Civic Opera company by buying boxes, seats, or coupon books.

After Mme. Mason's program—she was looking very handsome in a gown of black velvet with gardenias at her belt—tea was served. A few of those who were there were Mrs. Meeker's husband, son and daughter, Mr. Meeker, Arthur Meeker Jr., and Mrs. Ambrose C. Cramer; Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Fairbank, Mrs. Archibald Freer, Mrs. Mark Trude, Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Walker, Miss Margery Maxwell, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. William A. Yager, Mrs. Hugo Simon, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm and her mother, Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, and Mrs. Edward A. Leight.

Mrs. Leight was busy inviting some of those she met to a tea and cocktail party she is giving Friday at 5 o'clock at her home at 2416 Lake View avenue for Mme. Mason and another opera star, Mme. Rosa Raisa.

Junior Art Friends Enjoy Program.

Another delightful musical affair on yesterday afternoon's calendar was the meeting of the Junior Friends of Art at the Blackstone hotel. Silver poinsettias flanking the impromptu stage of the Crystal ballroom were the perfect setting for the opera stars who appeared.

Before Miss Mildred Gerber, a coloratura soprano, and Oscar Colcaire, tenor with the Chicago Grand Opera company, had completed their program, Mrs. Baur and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne spoke a few words in behalf of the opera season. Not to neglect intimate opera, Mrs. Howard Linn, smartly dressed in black woolen, sable trimmed, told of this musical interlude which is benefiting Olivet institute. The afternoon closed with a group of readings by James Bradley-Griffin.

Arts Club Opens Exhibit of Paintings.

Chicago florists must have done a record business over the new year week-end to judge by the experience of the Arts club officers who literally had to scour the town yesterday afternoon to find two dozen "matching" roses. They wanted them for decoration for the tea table they were set-

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return, Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. The older members are unaware that Pomeroy is an involuntary guest. Pomeroy manages to elude his guard, Grateful, and get out of his room, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges through Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason, the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left, before the tragedy, in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland. Pomeroy asks Irma to marry him.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

AVOIDING PUBLICITY.

They carried the general downstairs first and out through the storm filled world to the lonely boathouse.

"It's better this way," Orleneff said. "She wouldn't want to be carried any place and not find him waiting there."

He waited in another green bower. Here, too, Irma and Olga had been at work and the corner where the couple lay and the severe pine boxes that held them were now decorated with the greens of the winter woods. Even the window, below which he had nailed his signal on the outside of the building, was concealed by greens. He made a mental note to send the Crosbys a new silk flag in the spring.

When everything had been done the four men lingered a moment looking at one another uncertainly. It seemed all wrong to go away and leave the pair there with no formalities, no service. But no one had the faintest idea what to do or how to do it. They edged toward the door and Orleneff, Grateful, and Andy went out. Pomeroy lingered behind. It took only an instant to put a chair up on the table that held one of the long boxes and reach the window. His signal was still in place. He rejoined the others and Andy closed the double doors and snapped the padlock. As he turned after this last duty Orleneff held out a hand.

"Thank you, Mr. Mason," he said simply. "My family and I will never forget how kind you've been."

Mason nodded, held the hand a minute and released it slowly. His opinion of young Orleneff had undergone some modifications in the last twenty-four hours.

In New York the minds of various persons interested in the sudden disappearance of Bruce Pomeroy were becoming increasingly disturbed. The disturbance showed itself in various and characteristic fashions. In the offices of Vanderhoof & Co. the blood pressure of the distinguished president, Marcus Vanderhoof, mounted to two hundred, and Mr. Vanderhoof sought relief from this strain by free expression of his opinion of the New York police department. This was subsequently and effectively relayed to the officials who were directing the quiet but energetic search for young Pomeroy that was in progress, and the search grew hectic.

In Pomeroy's factory the feeling and expressions of feeling were naturally even more intense. The facts were withheld from the rank and file of the workers, but little groups "in the know" gathered in the main offices to discuss the strange absence of the boss. Mary Reardon, red eyed and nerve wrecked by insomnia, " carried on " with increasing difficulty and a growing disbelief in "the finest."

From his eyrie on 5th avenue Mr. Herbert Schuyler continued to look down into Central park and to speculate on the mysterious fate of the limp figure he had seen lifted into a waiting automobile. But Mr. Schuyler had decided that he was through with the police. He had told his story to half a dozen officials, the last time to no less a personage than the august commissioner himself, but apparently nothing had come of all these recitals. The fact embittered Mr. Schuyler. He held the lowest opinion of every one concerned in the episode, from Marcus Vanderhoof down.

"What I can't understand," he told that irate gentleman during one of their frequent interviews, "is how a man of your position and influence can be so helpless in this matter. You ought to be able to—to——"

"Well, to what?" Mr. Vanderhoof rasped with a dangerous gleam in his eye.

"Why, to push a button and have the kidnapers brought into your private office," Mr. Schuyler replied airily.

Vanderhoof grunted.

"That's all you know about it," he muttered. But he was struck by the similarity of Mr. Schuyler's viewpoint and his own. In his heart he had really expected some such result as Schuyler had suggested when he put the police on his young partner's trail. He thought of Pomeroy and occasionally spoke of him as his "young partner." He liked the sound of the words and the glow they diffused around Pomeroy's memory. Theoretically they should have added vigor and elan to the search for the missing man. But this seemed to be a case in which all theories failed.

Mr. Vanderhoof was at once chastened, furious, and very low in his mind. He reiterated that he would pass on to Schuyler any news he himself received, and with this assurance Schuyler was expected to be content to wait patiently. But Schuyler was not a patient man. He called again Saturday morning.

"I can't understand why you have to be so secretive about all this," he said irritably on that occasion. "If you would let the newspapers in on it and offer a reward you would probably find Pomeroy in twenty-four hours."

"And then have him under some sort of stigma for the next twenty-four years," Vanderhoof snapped. "It doesn't help a young fellow in business to be associated with one of these mysterious disappearances that come from mental lapses or affairs with women. Pomeroy would never live it down. And it would certainly blow his proposed merger sky high. Every time his name came up in big business some one would cackle 'Wasn't that the chap that disappeared for several days and had the police force of the country looking for him while he was dallying in some love nest?'"

"I don't know Pomeroy. But his photographs don't look like those of a dallier, and from what I could see of him from my windows he didn't look like a dallier himself," Schuyler pointed out.

"I know all that, and I wouldn't have put him in that category either," Vanderhoof conceded. "But look at the evidence. He stops to speak to a girl in trouble. The next minute he's chloroformed or knocked out—you admit that you didn't see all that happened—and bundled into a car and hustled away. Thugs don't go in for the refinements of ladies in the case unless the ladies have a right there. They simply hold up a man and drive off with him. The police think the girl is some one Pomeroy wronged and that her father or brother or both picked up a couple of pals and drove him to a minister's."

"If that's the case, why isn't he back by this time?"

"How in hell do I know? Perhaps he's on his honeymoon." The financier's nerves were raw and he showed it. "All I know," he went on more quietly, "is that it won't do him or us any good to have a lot of publicity about this thing. A reputation for mental lapses or seduction doesn't give a man a boost in big business."

"In the meantime he may be in some cellar or icehouse, half dead," Schuyler murmured.

"I know—and that's what gets my goat," the financier admitted. "From what I know of the boy it seems to me much more likely than the other possibilities. But we'll move slowly for a day or two yet, anyway." The nerves of the speaker snappy suddenly. "Who in hell," he yelped, "would have any object in hurting that boy unless they had something on him?"

"He may be kidnaped."

"He may—but why? What for?"

"For money," Schuyler said patiently.

"He hasn't got much money—yet. He's going to have. But no one but ourselves realizes the big possibilities of that clip. It isn't a thing criminals would get wind of or know how to handle."

"You say the detective that went up to Maine to talk to the owner of the car didn't get anything?"

"Not a damned thing except the conviction that your man had misread the car number. The fellow could prove that he hadn't been away from his town for a month and everybody in the town vouches for his character!"

"And the detective only got back this morning?"

"Yes. He hung around there all day yesterday and decided that we were on the wrong track. He thinks it's a New York job."

"Do you suppose I could talk to him?"

"If you like," Vanderhoof said indifferently. "But you won't get anything."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

He's Bashful, Too.

"Dear Miss Blake: What do you think of a fellow who asks my girl friend about me, but never speaks to me when he sees me? BASHFUL."

Maybe he's as bashful as yourself. Can't the girl friend fix things so that you two could get together?

BY MARY MEADE.

Don't let foolish folks laugh you out of the use of a can opener! They'll try it, I know. And all sorts of neat jokes are piped about the young woman who flunked the modern cookery course because she couldn't remember the name of that useful implement. But never you mind. To naughtily paraphrase, more has been wrought from cans alone than this world dreams of.

And one of the most versatile and inspiring of these said cans is chock full of baked beans! Have you discovered what a perfect booster the bean is for meals that are low in price and high in family favor? I didn't myself until I ran across a little booklet recently in which beans really do spiurge in all their glory. And since I can't exactly send you all that book, I'm going to do the next most handsome thing, rustle out a few of the best bean cookery tips in it, and pass them on to you here and now with the compliments of one of our best liked bean bakers.

First, I'm feeling in the mood to stuff things. Did you know that big Bermuda onions, green peppers, and tomatoes are marvels of flavor when filled and running over with goodness and baked beans? For a strong start try BEAN STUFFED ONIONS.

6 large Bermuda onions
3 tablespoons butter
1 medium sized can baked beans
¼ cup tomato catsup
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup dry bread crumbs

Peel the onions and scoop out the centers, leaving a hollow cup with an opening at the top about the size of a half dollar. Measure about ½ cup of the scooped out onion, chop it fine, and simmer it in the butter until golden brown. Add the remaining ingredients, mixing well, then pile the mixture into the onion cases. Place these in a deep pan, add a very little water in which to let them stand, and bake in a moderately hot oven 1½ hours, or until the onions are tender.

For the bean stuffed tomatoes we peel and scoop out the tomatoes to form cups. Combine this drained pulp with a medium can of pork and beans. Add seasoning, 2 green chopped peppers, and 5 slices of minced bacon. These last two ingredients should first be slightly fried together. Fill the tomato shells and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for 20 minutes, or until the tomatoes are tender.

And for the last among the stuffed fellows, the filled peppers, simply wash them, cut in half lengthwise, and remove the seeds. Then drop the shells into boiling water for five minutes. Drain and fill the blanched cases with baked beans. Sprinkle over buttered bread crumbs generously and bake, with a little water, in a moderately hot oven for half an hour.

New England next turns up with a shepherd's pie, made by lining a casserole with seasoned, fluffy potatoes, and piling in a medium can of baked beans and a tablespoon of minced onions, mixed. Over the beans spread a tablespoon of prepared mustard and, finally, more puffy mashed potatoes and a crest of grated cheese and paprika dashes. Bake at medium heat until heated through and brown.

Another beanful casserole includes a medium can of baked beans, 2 cups of canned corn, a minced green pepper, a beaten egg, and seasoning. Mix them all up together, pile into a baking dish, dash over with grated cheese and buttered crumbs, and bake 40 minutes at moderate heat. Tomato or chili sauce is "tops" with this.

Pork chops, fried until browned, and then oven cooked with baked beans and a suggestion of sugar, are more treats. Add to that a bean roast made by blending one medium can of baked beans with a cup each of grated cheese and soft bread crumbs. This loaf also rates a finely chopped onion, an egg, and seasoning. Mixed all together and baked in a greased pan in a moderate oven for half an hour, this conglomeration of foods turns into a golden brown, firmly tender loaf with a most tantalizingly elusive flavor.

Sausage patties baked with baked beans swirling around them; that bean loaf above made into patties and pan fried to be served with tomato sauce; mashed baked beans with mayonnaise and chopped pickle for a sandwich spread, and cream of baked bean soup are all competitors for favor.

George Raft Has Preference for Brunettes

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—It's always easier for him to make screen love to a brunette, George Raft says, than to a blonde. Reason being he was raised in an Italian district in New York City, where all the girls were dark haired and he never got over feeling strange or at least a little unusual in presence of yellow hair. Raft's girl friend, Marjorie King, is a brunette.

Ralph Morgan, who is a graduate of Columbia, and Jim Cagney were rooters for the New York football team at yesterday's game in the Rose Bowl.

Herbert Mundin turned up at Fox studio this morning with his fingers crossed. "Can't get them uncrossed," he said, "after wishing so many chislers a happy New Year."

Jean Frontal, wife of Chick Chandler, the limber legged smart cracker, is to be billed in films in the future as Jean Fontaine. Much easier to spell.

Irene Dunne gets the spot that was to have been held for Katherine Hepburn in "Age of Innocence" at Radio studio.

Richard Arlen replaces Cary Grant in Paramount's "Come On Marines," due to Grant's illness in England.

Lowell Sherman will play the Black Douglas in "Elizabeth and Mary" as well as direct the film when it starts shooting at Universal next week.

Stuart Erwin's new year's resolution was not to pick up any more stray dogs and it was duly resolved after some remarks by June Collyer [Mrs. Erwin]. Seems the last dog had a very damaging effect on Junior's new suit.

Fox has every star and every leading personage on its lot, except Will Rogers, playing in "Fox Follies." Will's contract calls for only so many pictures a year, and so much money a picture, and a scene in "Fox Follies" would constitute a picture under his contract.

Bill Gargan admits that he is the guy who broke his little boy's electric train before Christmas, and now knows enough to let the second purchase strictly alone.

Now that prohibition is not here baths can be had that are quite de luxe at a moderate cost. Florence Lake says a pint of white wine emptied in a tub of hot water makes a marvelously relaxing bath, as the fumes help as much as the liquid.

Greta Meyer, comedienne in "Grand Hotel," "Jennie Gerhardt," and others has some unique chapters in her film career. Daughter of a German stage family, she starred in plays and operettas in Berlin, Vienna, Dresden, Amsterdam, before crossing the ocean, the first time in 1912, and after the war. Although of a German Christian family, she was featured in the New York Yiddish art theater with Paul Muni, Rudolph Schildkraut, Maurice Schwartz and others.

NO CHILD

can GROW properly with a FUSSY little APPETITE

The finest gift you can give your child is the heritage of GOOD HEALTH. Yet if a fussy appetite keeps them from eating the foods they should, you may fail in this important obligation. Tempt them in this clever way; prepare a dish of CREAMETTES, the delicious macaroni product. It has "new-food appeal."

All children love CREAMETTES, and best of all it is nourishing and body-building—a food every growing child needs. All grocers sell it.

ting for the reception opening of exhibitions of the paintings of Edward Hopper and Georges Rouault. It wasn't until 3:45 that they found the two dozen American Beauties they used on the marble topped refectory table in connection with their stunning crystal candelabra.

The tea was a pleasantly informal party, the hundred or more guests passing enthusiastic comment on the paintings. Attracting particular attention were "The House by the Railroad" and the "Night Windows" of Mr. Hopper.

Mrs. Vaughan C. Spalding, wearing a costume of sable brown; Mrs. Walter Ayer, also in brown, and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, especially lovely in a long white tunic and a black sailor, took turns presiding at the tea and coffee urns. Miss Betty Offield with her mother, Mrs. James R. Offield, contributed color to the gathering dressed in a lipstick red crêpe dress. A sharp feather in her gray beret matched her dress.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley covered her brown satin dress with a handsome sable coat while Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, the club president, provided another color note with her ribbed bagheera dress fashioned with the new cowl neckline in the back. Others who came for a cup of tea and to review the exhibition were Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Frank L. Loesch, Mrs. John Zane, Mrs. George A. Poole, who was answering many questions about the recent marriage of her daughter, Betty; Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, and Mr. and Mrs. John U. Nef.

Society Folk Guests of South Side Editor.

Ask Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin or her husband, Maj. McLaughlin, or either of the George Richardsons what party during the holidays they enjoyed the most and probably he or she will say "Robert S. Abbott's reception and the charity ball that followed it." At least that is what we're told all four of them have said when telling about the south side party to which they went last Wednesday night. The reception was held in "the home of Robert S. Abbott." I quote from the Defender, the Race publication. . . . "the editor of the Chicago Defender. . . . The affair was brilliant in many respects—brilliant in that it marked the first time that these distinguished citizens of Chicago have ever traveled to the south side to be guests in one of our homes, brilliant in that it brought together some of the most outstanding musical artists of Chicago, and brilliant in that it gave guests and host an opportunity to engage in one of those charming and pleasant tête-à-têtes so necessary to the cultural life of any city: It was in the nature of a forerunner to the old-fashioned charity ball at the Savoy that Mr. Abbott's reception was arranged. Mrs. McLaughlin, known in every city in America and throughout the capitals of Europe as Mrs. Irene Castle, had deferred her regular trip south for the winter to accept an invitation to be present at this affair, sponsored by the Indiana avenue branch of the United Charities, and to spend an evening chatting with friends of Mr. Abbott. Promptly at 10 o'clock the North Shore party arrived, to be met by Mr. Abbott, their genial host, and Mrs. Maude Roberts George and Miss Hattie C. Butler, who acted as hostesses for him. . . And here, in an atmosphere which radiated the refinement and culture of those present, the guests of honor were presented to many of the most outstanding citizens of this community. . . . It was a distinctive affair from every point of view. . . Men and women of all shades of complexion, representing the highest in cultural development of two races, yet with never a thought of racial differences impeding the obvious pleasure each felt at the opportunity to be together—that was a part of the picture presented here on this night. . .' Here is a setting I had never expected to find outside of Paris,' one of the guests of honor was heard to say to another, and the agreement was immediate: 'Perhaps America will yet come of age.'"

Turn to Skates as Dance Relief.

With holiday festivity, midnight balls, and dinner dances a matter of history, debutantes and their beaux are reverting this week to the skating rink. The big ice arena in the Chicago Stadium, where hockey is the sport, is a more popular attraction than ever [this was proved New Year's night]. But one interesting party has chosen a west side roller skating rink for its entertainment this evening.

Requesting their guests to come in sports attire Mr. and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey are taking the 24 young people they are having for dinner tonight for Miss Jean Wilhelm on to the west side for roller skating. The dinner, which is to be held at the Fred Harvey restaurant in the Straus building, is set for 7:45 to allow plenty of time for skating.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey will be seated with Miss Wilhelm's parents, the Frank Wilhelms, at a separate table at dinner. Later they've promised to put on roller skates along with the younger generation.

The other variety of skating, ice hockey, is in store for the eight guests whom Mr. and Mrs. H. Paul Juergens are entertaining at supper next Sunday evening for Miss Jean Hyman, another bud of this winter. The Juergens will have their young guests for supper at their home at 52 Bellevue place and then take them to the Stadium for the hockey game.

The nicest New Year's greeting received Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Juergens was a message from their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hurley [the former Gwendolyn Juergens]. It was dated Nassau, which is the last port at which the Hurleys are stopping on their wedding cruise to the West Indies and South America. This means that they will dock in New York tomorrow and reach Chicago not later than Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Hurley are to make their home at 1500 Lake Shore drive until summer, when they will go out to Wheaton to spend the warm weather months.

Mrs. Frank Hibbard will be a luncheon hostess and a tea hostess tomorrow and her guests will be the same at both functions, members of the board of the Children's Memorial hospital who are going out tomorrow afternoon to try and get shops to contribute shopworn articles to be sold at the White Elephant Rummage shop for the benefit of the hospital.

Mrs. Hibbard's luncheon party will be in her stunning apartment at 1301 Astor street and the tea party will be at her little bureau run for charity, Conveniences, on Oak street. The board members have the job during the entire year of collecting stock for the shop, of course, but it is only once every year that they solicit the shops for contributions.

The rest of the time they obtain white elephants from their friends.

Mrs. Millard Polhemus, who has been spending the holidays with her niece, Mrs. Francis Johnson, of 1430 Lake Shore drive, is returning to her home in New York today.

Over teacups yesterday more than one comment concerned the interesting invitations issued by Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Strotz and Mrs. Stresenreuter Butler of a cocktail party Friday afternoon at the Strotzs' Stone street apartment. Two connecting telephones conveyed the idea that Mr. and Mrs. Strotz are moving this weekend from town to the large Hinsdale house of Mrs. Butler. "A pre-housewarming is what it is," explained Mr. Strotz. "A good-by to our town apartment and an invitation to our friends to come and see us in the country."

Hats, Gloves, and Bags of Antelope Latest Paris Fad

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Antelope reduced to an adorable thinness is being used a lot in Paris to make hats and accessories which women carry with their winter clothes. Rose Descat makes charming little toques and cloches of antelope, and bags, gloves, belts, and even muffs of antelope are frequently seen. It comes in bright shades, like the fashionable new leaf green, and rose red, two accessory colors that are popular with black, dark brown, and navy this season.

The complete accessory ensemble in antelope, which is smocked like any ordinary cloth, is shown in our sketch. This ensemble comes from Vallet and is done in green. There is a beret of the green antelope, which is smocked at the right side and has a bow at the left toward the back. The belt has two triangular flaps in front, also smocked, and closes on an antelope covered button instead of a buckle.

The huge green antelope bag is exceedingly smart, mounted as it is on a solid silver frame, and trimmed with a big triangle of smocked antelope in front. The slip on gloves are also trimmed with triangles of smocked antelope.

Conceal Pride if Fickle Beau Is Wanted Back

Errant Lovers Return When Tact Is Shown.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He was paying her pretty steady attention until he met her girl friend. Then he seemed to fall. He did, however, keep calling on Anne once a week. But Anne's pride was hurt, so she let the girl friend take him on exclusively. It didn't work out that way. The girl friend didn't have the charms that hold. Now, he's squiring a third girl and Anne, the original sweetheart, would like to get him back.

A nicely worded note, hinting that life is not the same without the boy, might bring him back. Or, an encouraging remark when he is next met face to face.

But it was about the injured pride act, that loses a suitor permanently, that we would speak.

It was all right in the old days, when girls couldn't do anything else about it, to go in for bursts of pride, but it's a silly waste of time and emotion today.

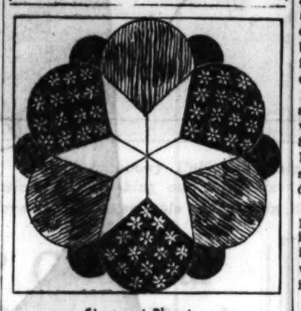
To begin with, unless you're engaged to a chap, he's whole heart and fancy free to experiment around with girls. Just as it is your privilege to play around until you meet the certain one and only. There shouldn't be the ill feeling, to which girls are prone, with a falling off of attentions temporarily. It's human, of course, to resent a newcomer. It's human to suffer a few pangs of injured vanity, but it is not in the modern code to continue resenting and suffering.

Instead, your smart modern girl makes it her business to appear, to the former suitor and her fair rival, as unconcerned as possible. Greet the ex-escort as if he were still a good old friend you're always glad to see. It takes grit to do it, of course, but it's smart billiards. Then, if the occasion arises when his comeback is desired you're all set and ready, and no bad feelings to patch up.

Also, the apparent disinterest may just whet his curiosity and intrigue him into thinking you must be interested in some one else, which, again, is good love politics.

The trouble with indulging in hurt pride orgies is that there are so many attractive girls around today that the "ex" forgets quickly, so your act must be more attractive than ever.

Celestial Design Lends Brilliance to Charming Quilt



Stars and Planets.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Those who want to capture the brilliance of the heavenly bodies for a quilt block may select the Star and Planets design. The bright star is of gold and the planets of celestial blue and soft rose prints, while the satellites or small half circles are of a deeper blue. "Star and Planets" is the type of quilt block to be used in a room with a northern exposure.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, the Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A POLITICAL RIOT.

"If you gentlemen don't mind I'd rather not talk particularly about crime this afternoon," Professor Fordney continued, addressing a luncheon club in Indianapolis, Ind., "though, to be frank, possibly as man, if not more crimes have been committed in the name of politics than any other name.

"Well," he went on "I was in your city at the last presidential election. The campaign speeches were over, both major parties had finished hurling their verbal shafts, pledges had been made and the charges and counter-charges of corruption common to every national election had been aggressively and vigorously stated and answered by the leaders of both parties.

"The great day was at hand; the day that would decide the destiny of the country for the next four years. I was standing outside a polling place when two fine examples of American manhood, one a United States soldier and the other a United States sailor approached. As they attempted to enter, the soldier in front, the sailor behind, they were stopped by the man in charge, whom I knew to be a crooked politician.

"They protested vehemently, and in a few minutes as fine a riot as you would care to see was in progress. Squad cars and patrolmen were hastened to the scene, and after swinging of clubs and blackjacks, order was finally restored.

"When the melée was over I approached the two chaps who started it and told them that while the man in charge was a crooked politician he was right in barring them from voting."

WHY?

[See solution on page 27.]

One's Emotions Are Important Part of Beauty

Expressionless Face Can Never Be Lovely.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A woman across the room was pointed out as exhibit A of physical perfection, minus emotional appeal. A calm, cold face it was, though perfectly lovely of feature and coloring. You looked at it, granted it was lovely, and turned away; no holding power there; no lasting interest created.

"Like a beautifully appointed house," observed the companion, "but no fire to warm!"

Incidentally, did you ever play the game of comparing women to houses? It's amusing! Great, gaunt houses like great, gaunt women. The plump little bungalow type of house and woman. The sturdy brick, well planned, and kept like women serious about life, systematic, planning everything with the idea of its lasting. And the funny little place, odd, amusing, like a gay young matron whose ambition is to be a bit different. Pretentious, imposing houses, like pretentious, overbearing women. And ordinary dwellings, like women without imagination. And so on. One can go on forever.

But, to return to emotions and beauty, some one said and, I believe, rightly, that beauty must have a certain degree of ugliness in order to create interest. Cold perfection palls. It's the surprise element in beauty that intrigues. This is illustrated by a number of current movie favorites. One moment you're started by a downright homeliness, but before you've recovered from the shock a lovely quality of face confronts you. It isn't entirely a trick of camera, either. Some camera, no doubt, but it is due more to the play of emotions in the face.

Authors Will Open Winter Season Today

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

A score of years to their credit, the Midland Authors are welcoming the new year with enthusiasm. Armed with new ideas, they are launching a revamped program today.

They are meeting at noon for the first of a series of Wednesday luncheons. Clarence Joseph Bulliet will speak on art criticism and the members will exchange ideas on their 1934 prospects. The luncheon will be held in their attractive clubroom in the Hotel Sherman, where rows of partially filled shelves await the future products of members.

Fresh from a holiday of five weeks in New York, Mrs. Harold C. Pynchon . . . Adeline Atwater, author of "The Marriage of Don Quixote," . . . has planned the Wednesday series as a feature comparable with the weekly round tables of the Authors' club in New York. Mrs. Pynchon will present many well known guests each Wednesday during the late winter and spring months. Also as the result of her holiday, Mrs. Pynchon has arranged for an exchange professorship with the New York Authors' club.

The Midland Authors' room with the volumes that have already found places on the much coveted shelves [all of the books are the work of members of the group] reveals the history of the group. There is "The Life of Molière," by Hobart Chatfield-Taylor, who was elected the first president of the organization in 1914. It was Mr. Taylor who at a founders' dinner on Nov. 28 of that year in the Auditorium hotel suggested the name for the society and extended the bounds, previously drawn by John M. Stahl, to include all of the important writers of the middle west rather than just those of Illinois.

Benefit Musical.

A musical will be held at the Covenant club tonight by the Anshe Emet Sisterhood as part of a campaign to raise funds for the synagogue's religious school. Mrs. Ruth Fisher Lipstone will direct the affair.

Children Need Cod Liver Oil in Correct Doses

Baby of Six Months Can Take Ten Drops.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is strange to think that a codfish swimming about in the ocean stores up something in its liver that is so valuable—or perhaps I should say invaluable—to human beings. I don't know just what Mr. Codfish eats, but the facts are that he lives upon something in the sea rich in vitamins and those vitamins accumulate in his liver.

Yesterday we were talking about the importance of cod liver oil in the child's diet—whether he is definitely undernourished or whether he is in good health and we want to keep him so. Mothers of babies and young children may be interested in knowing the exact dosage advisable.

If your baby is less than six months old give him ten drops once a day after eating. The next day give him one dose only of twenty drops, the next day thirty drops, until you get him up to one teaspoonful a day.

When he is between six months and a year give him two teaspoonfuls daily.

When he is over a year give him a teaspoonful three times a day—that is, the total quantity for the day will be three teaspoonfuls. Give it after eating.

Children take cod liver oil readily, especially if they are started with it young. Jazzing it up or trying to disguise it by mixing it with fruit juices or something sweet is a mistake, as it is apt to spoil their taste for the food it is mixed with.

Occasionally there is a baby whose body doesn't handle cod liver oil well. In such a case omit it. And, of course, if the stomach is upset, or the bowels are out of order, don't give it, either.

There are various new concentrated forms in which cod liver oil is now available. As these go under trade names we cannot mention here, if you plan on using one of those, be sure to get the dosage for your child from your doctor. Even for an adult these concentrated forms of cod liver oil have dosages measured in drops, not teaspoonfuls.

Many of our readers do not know that this department covers the physical care of babies by having its own baby book—BUILDING THE BABY, by Carolyn Van Blarcom. This book is obtainable by writing to the Public Service of the Chicago Tribune and enclosing 60 cents.

Eight Reasons Why you should buy

CANNED APPLESAUCE

1. It offers exceptional food value.
2. It is a fact that when apples are prepared as applesauce they are more easily digested.
3. Applesauce is good for you—containing mineral salts that are beneficial.
4. It is good alone—refreshing for breakfast, as a dessert for lunch, or as a side dish with the meat course at dinner.
5. It is a favored food for children.
6. It is a quick and "friendly help" in preparing desserts that will satisfy the most critical, jaded appetite.
7. It is uniformly fine, in quality, flavor, and consistency.
8. It is more economical and satisfactory than making it yourself—if you figure the cost of apples, sugar, waste, and fuel.

You can make applesauce only from the type of apples which happen to be in the market—but is a blend of apples of distinctly different flavors.

FRENCH REBUFF TO HITLER STIRS BRITISH ANGER

Hasty Action May Isolate Paris Government.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 2.—France may have lost the coöperation of Great Britain by hustling its presentation to Germany of a refusal of Chancellor Hitler's recent proposals for a disarmament settlement.

Britain had been trying to induce the French to delay their reply until after Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Premier Mussolini conferred in Rome tomorrow.

The French, however, desiring to present Britain and Italy with a fait accompli, rushed the presentation of their aide memoire to Germany yesterday, and so put themselves on record against any concession to the German claims for equality of armaments.

Foresee Shift in Opinion.

Judging from the temper prevailing at the British foreign office today, France by so doing has lost two potential friends and embittered an old enemy.

Sir John, who reached Rome tonight, will meet Mussolini tomorrow. He expects to return to London Sunday. He will then report to the cabinet, which will frame the policy to be presented when parliament meets later in the month.

From all indications today, the Anglo-German entente, which was interrupted by the early excesses of the Hitler régime, is now in a fair way to revival.

It is expected that Mussolini will be just as angry as the British over the French coup and that an Anglo-Italian lineup in favor of Germany may result.

Duce Backs British Plan.

The British plan, which Mussolini was known to approve, was, if possible, to get Germany to discuss either with the three other powers or with all the members of the league of nations a practical plan of disarmament. If this failed, it was planned for the three powers to work out a convention which was then to be presented to Germany either to take or leave or accept as a basis for further discussions.

France had been induced to go a long way, even to the extent of agreeing to increase the German armed personnel in the first four years and war material in the second. This, however, was not enough for Germany, which desires immediate equality and evacuation of the Saar territory, where a plebiscite is scheduled to be held in January, 1935.

Duce to Urge "Caution."

ROME, Jan. 2.—(AP)—That Premier Mussolini in a conference tomorrow with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, will take the attitude that extreme care must be used to avoid "exasperating" Germany and precipitating a renewed arms race was reported tonight in informed circles.

This will not mean, a qualified spokesman said, that the Italian premier will adopt an anti-French stand, but will merely discuss with Sir John the danger of provoking Germany into an open and reckless program of rearmament.

The two statesmen in their first talk tomorrow afternoon will examine various possibilities of the Franco-German viewpoint inasmuch as recent events make this problem more important now than Mussolini's demand for league of nations reforms, it was said.

Italy Modifies Policy.

The newspaper Giornale D'Italia, in an inspired article tonight, admitted that Italy's heretofore favored project for an immediate and drastic disarmament on a wide scale is not feasible at present. Declaring that this factor must be recognized, the paper said:

"The practical goal to seek for the time being is revision and more modest preparations. There are three ways out of the Franco-German deadlock.

"First, conciliation; second, resumption of freedom of action, which would bring a prompt revival of the arms race, and, third, a preventive war by France and the Little Entente [Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia] on the grounds that Germany violated the treaty of Versailles."

Italy and England, backed by world opinion, the paper said, refused to entertain the idea of a preventive war even though, it added, Germany admittedly is rearming on a small scale.

Conciliation was said by the newspaper to be the only avenue open for discussion. It is this, Giornale D'Italia went on, that will occupy Mussolini and the British foreign secretary.

France Awaits German Reply.

PARIS, Jan. 2.—(AP)—France's firm "no" to German demands for rearmament, as given Chancellor Hitler yesterday in Berlin, was understood in diplomatic circles today to have left open the door to counter proposals from Germany.

The French foreign office was anxiously awaiting a German reply before the league of nations council meeting Jan. 15 in Geneva, or at least before the disarmament bureau session Jan. 21.

France hopes that at one of these meetings there may be reached either an agreement with Germany or a flat rejection of further negotiations. In either case, France feels that the problem should be threshed out in the mill of the league of nations.

Germany Calls Note 'Polite.'
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The French aide memoire to Germany rejecting Chancellor Hitler's demand for equality in armaments was termed "polite and conciliatory" in official circles today.

Chancellor Hitler left the aide memoire in care of the foreign office and flew into retirement as his chalet at Obersalzberg, in the Bavarian Alps. The nazi party diretcorate will meet at Munich Thursday to discuss the German reply.

The first regular cabinet conference has been summoned for Jan. 8 in Berlin. This will enable the Germans to draft their reply before disarmament discussions are resumed at the league and after they learn the result of the meeting between Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Premier Mussolini.

Teaches on Midway

FASCISM HASN'T CHANCE IN U. S., SAYS ECONOMIST

Professor Ousted by Nazis Gives Views.

Individualism is too firmly rooted in the people of this country to permit of any dictatorship or any system such as Fascism or Nazism, is the opinion of Dr. Melchior Palyi, German economist who was dismissed by the Nazi government from high semi-official positions in Berlin. He arrived in Chicago last week to act as visiting professor of economics at the University of Chicago.

"To understand the growth of Hitlerism," Dr. Palyi said, "you must understand the history of Germany, and that a proud people was hard hit politically and economically. In this country the philosophy in the back of your mind is different.

"You suffered in the depression, but your reaction to it was unlike that of European countries. You do not have the inferiority complex. You feel no need to place the blame on some one else. You were not trained in the militaristic scheme of things, either. You do not feel that a corporal is the right fellow to tell you what to do.

"I do not think it possible for you to have anything but a democratic government."

Asked for an opinion on President Roosevelt's monetary policies, Dr. Palyi said an outsider's view would be that he had no one policy or theory, but was experimenting. Experimentation, he said, he recommended "within narrow limits," adding that the President had reached the utmost limit "if he has not passed it" in his acts.

GERMANY SEEKS HAVEN FOR THREE IN FIREBUG TRIAL

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The ministry of interior announced today that negotiations are proceeding with foreign governments who are likely to grant hospitality to Georgi Dimitroff and two other Bulgarians acquitted in the recent reichstag fire trial.

Dimitroff, Blagoi Popoff, and Wassil Taneff have been held in prison at Leipzig since the trial.

Deportation of the three has been ordered by the government.

18 COURTS TO RULE ON STERILIZATION SET UP IN GERMAN STATE

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Thuringian state authorities moved rapidly today and established 18 courts to handle exclusively the cases of persons suffering incurable ailments who will be subject to sterilization operations under a decree made effective today. A state sterilization Supreme court was named to hear appeals of these cases.

For the most part, however, many of the newly inaugurated sterilization tribunals did not begin functioning today as scheduled because details of organization were not complete.

Dr. Arthur Guett, eugenics expert of the interior ministry, said most courts would not begin their hearings for several days.

GERMAN SCIENCE TO END IMPORTS OF FOODSTUFFS

Nation Will Raise All Own Produce by 1944.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—Within ten years Germany will be able to grow all the staple foods it needs. The nation will not have to buy a scrap of food from the American farmer or anybody else. Whatever is imported will be in the nature of luxuries. This is the prediction of Germany's outstanding men of science.

Chemistry, as applied by Prof. Fritz Haber and science of heredity, as exploited by the late Prof. Erwin Baur of the Muncheberg agricultural experimental laboratories will enable Germany to achieve this startling self sustenance. It will prove a vital factor in all Germany's future economic actions, especially in her trade relations with foreign countries.

Ground Laid by Chemists.

The groundwork for this achievement was prepared by chemists. Prof. Haber enabled Germany to make ammution to carry on the world war after 1915, after regular stores were empty, by discovering how to obtain introgen from the air. He has since taught the country how to obtain fertilizer from the air and improve its soil.

Thus Germany which before the war always had to import most of its wheat, is now able to produce nearly all the grain it needs.

"Agrobiology" has set in with energy. Germany is still short of meats and fats to a great extent, because there is not enough fodder to raise cattle cheaply. Prof. Baur solved this problem. By applying the laws of heredity to lupines, he succeeded in growing a "sweet lupine," which enriches the soil, and at the same time provides fodder for cattle.

Tests 20,000 Plants.

He first tested 20,000 plants of ordinary lupine until he found a few that could be improved into the practical sweet variety. His first tests succeeded in 1927. In the fall of 1934 the first batch of 2,000,000 pounds of sweet lupine seed will be distributed to German farmers. Prof. Baur was able to announce this a few weeks before his death last November.

Farmers and scientists agree that the fodder problem will thus be solved for Germany in a few years.

This leaves the question of oils and fats. In a kind of "last scientific will," Baur, the Burbank of Germany, asserted that from a scientific viewpoint this problem is solved, again through lupine. He succeeded in growing a lupine containing from 16 to 18 per cent of oils and 32 per cent of albuminates. Baur believed it superior, for German purposes, to the soy bean now being imported.

Strangely enough, both Prof. Haber and Prof. Baur, despite their signal services to German agriculture, incurred the enmity of the Nazi regime. Prof. Haber resigned recently his directorship in the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Physical and Electro Chemistry after his regular assistants had been ousted and young Nazis put in their places.

Prof. Baur criticized the appointment of professors and alleged specialists on the science of heredity and just before his death he was threatened with arrest. He died before the threat could be carried out.

AUSTRIA NAMES DICTATOR OVER LABOR CHAMBERS

VIENNA, Jan. 2.—(AP)—A federal commissioner was appointed by the government here today to manage the affairs of chambers of labor, which were created under a postwar law to represent labor wherever chambers of commerce exist.

Subcommissioners will be appointed by the minister of social welfare from the ranks of nonsocialist labor unions and will represent working class interests in the various chambers.

A communique Sunday announced that henceforth the chambers of labor will be administered by government appointees instead of elected officers and that the appointees will not be Socialists.

According to the official Austrian handbook, Socialists cast 284,000 votes in the last election of the Vienna chamber and all other groups received 61,000 votes. The action, therefore, meant the elimination of majority rule.

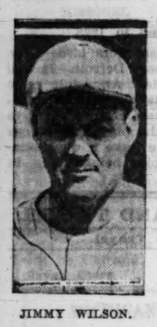
MARQUETTE HALTS WISCONSIN FIVE, 28 TO 26

JIMMY WILSON NAMED TO LEAD PHILS 2 YEARS

Shotton Is Made Free Agent.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Catcher Jimmy Wilson, a native son who made good in the "big time," today was given the job of building the Phillies from a second division baseball team to a National league pennant contender.



JIMMY WILSON.

"Meet the new manager," was President Gerald Nugent's announcement to newspaper men when he told them that the star catcher, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals a few weeks ago, had been signed to a two year contract as player-manager, succeeding Burt Shotton.

Shotton, manager for the last six seasons, was made a free agent, but there was no announcement of the disposition of the two years his contract still has to run. Reports were heard that he may be signed by the Cincinnati Reds, or that he might return to the Cardinals' organization.

Jimmy Happy About It.

A seasoned veteran at 33, Wilson is expected to develop the Phils to a much higher rating than the seventh place which was their lot last season. He disclosed no plans today, but did acknowledge that he would take over active direction of the pitching staff, a department in which the Phils have been weak for years.

"I'm delighted at the opportunity to pilot the Phils," he said after Nugent announced the transfer. "It's great to have such a job, particularly in your home town.

"I don't have any plans or trades in mind. I haven't had a chance to talk things over with Gerry yet. Perhaps we will do something.

Only Two Rules.

"Right now, all I can say is we'll have two rules on our team. They are 12 o'clock and hustle. Players must be in by midnight and on the field they must hustle every minute.

"Since I will be playing-manager, I will need two coaches. Dick Bartell will continue as captain.

"As far as the pitchers are concerned, I'll handle them myself. I don't know much about the squad, but I'll be getting acquainted with records and performances until we leave for the south."

Wilson's elevation brings the number of playing managers in the big leagues to a half dozen. Along with Jimmy are Bill Terry of the New York Giants; Mickey Cochrane, newly appointed manager for the Detroit Tigers; Joe Cronin of Washington, Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs, and Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals. The list may reach eight with Lou Fonseca and Rogers Hornsby, who are on the borderline.

Not a Big Surprise.

Wilson's appointment was no surprise. It had been rumored for weeks. The only question was: "How about Shotton?" It is understood the Phils will be responsible for the two years' salary—at $15,000 annually. If he signs with another club and his salary is less than what he received from the Phils the local club will make up the difference. Wilson's salary was not disclosed.

Wilson's rise to prominence began in 1923 when the Phils signed him after he performed with New Haven in the Eastern league. When Art Fletcher's tenure in office as Phils' pilot ended in 1926, Jimmy became acting manager for a few weeks. In 1928 he was traded to the Cardinals for First Baseman Don Hurst and Catcher Virgil Davis. A few weeks ago he was traded back and Davis was returned to the Cards.

REDS NOT AFTER SHOTTON.

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Larry MacPhail, president of the Cincinnati Reds, today denied that Bert Shotton, deposed as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, had been approached with an offer to lead the Redlegs or that any such action was planned.

"You can say that I have not talked to Shotton or Nugent about the Cincinnati managership," MacPhail said, "nor do I have any such conference planned.

"Various persons have been trying to pick a manager for the Reds and also sell Chick Hafey for us, but Hafey will be playing center field for Cincinnati next year and a manager of our own choosing will be leading the team."

MacPhail said he came east "partly on club business" but that there were no developments to announce. MacPhail said his New York visit would end tonight but that his destination after he leaves New York "depends on developments." There have been reports that he was interested in a trade with Boston.

SHOTTON REMAINS SILENT.

Winter Haven, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Burt Shotton tonight refused to comment on the announcement that he had been replaced by Jimmy Wilson as manager of the Philadelphia National league baseball team.

Apparently he was not surprised at the announcement, although recently he scoffed at rumors that Wilson would succeed him in the post he has held for six years.

SKATES DERBIES WILL PRODUCE 17TH CHAMPION

Art Staff Won First Title 'Way Back in 1917.

Senior Winners

1917—Art Staff	1925—Oneill Farrell
1928—Sigurd Larsen	1926—Eddie Reed
1919—Charles Fisher	1927—Ross Robinson
1920—Roy McWhirter	1928—C. Delphier
1921—W. Steinmetz	1929—Eddie Murphy
1922—Jack Stowell	1930—William Minster
1923—Harry Kaskey	1931—Eddie Schroeder
1924—Francis Allen	1933—Don Wittkamp

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Beginning with Art Staff, winner of the first pair of silver skates in 1917, and ending with Don Wittkamp, who received the trophy last winter, there have been 16 champions in the annual tournament sponsored by THE TRIBUNE. The seventeenth series of races will be held one week from Saturday and Sunday at the Garfield park lagoon, weather permitting.

The first year only one division was held, but since 1917 the total of age classes has been increased to seven, two of them for girls. How Silver Skates has grown is best shown by the dates in which interest in the races caused new classes to be adopted. The years follow:

Fair Test for All Ages.

A schedule of distances has been worked out to furnish a fair test for each age class. The championship distances and qualifying distances for each group follow:

Men's senior [18 years and over]—2 miles, qualifying 1 mile.

Boys' intermediate [16 and 17]—1 mile, qualifying ½ mile.

Boys' Juvenile [12 and 13]—Quarter mile, qualifying 220 yards.

Boys' midget [under 12]—220 yards, qualifying 110 yards.

This schedule of distances has been adhered to except on those race occasions when it was necessary to reduce the distance because of unfavorable ice.

Youths Furnish Show.

The popularity of Silver Skates is attested not only by the number of the contestants, always over 3,000 in recent years, but by the fact that more than half are boys and girls under 16 years of age. For these Silver Skates frequently is their only competition in the season and many of the class A skaters got their start in Silver Skates.

Preliminary and semi-final races in the Boys' Midget, Boys' Juvenile, and Boys' Junior classes will be held on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 13. All other preliminaries and the seven championship derbies will be held on Sunday. The time for reporting at Garfield park for numbers on both of these days will be announced later.

Entries Close Sunday.

Entries for the seven derbies close next Sunday at midnight. No entries will be accepted if postmarked later than Sunday. Team entries may be made by the captain or coach of the team if the ages of all skaters are attested. Last year 17 teams scored. The list of teams follows: Denemark Skating club, winner of the Walter Eckersall Memorial team trophy; Olympic Skating club; Northwest Skating club; Orr playground; McCormick playground; Brentano playground; Union League Boys' club; Kelly Skating club; Mozart playground; Corkery playground; Walton Athletic club; La Follette park; Henry playground; Amundsen playground; Sleipner Athletic club, and the Dukes' Athletic club.

Five places in each of the races count in team scores. The table of points are: First, 10; second, 8; third, 6; fourth, 4, and fifth, 2.

WHEN COLUMBIA SURPRISED STANFORD

2 Columbia Players Rush Home by Plane

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Owen McDowell, first string end, and Tommy Tomb, second string quarter back, who helped Columbia defeat Stanford in the Rose Bowl football game at Pasadena yesterday, left tonight by airplane for New York.

McDowell, captain, and Tomb, member of the Columbia basketball squad, expected to reach New York in time to play against Fordham Saturday night.

Sun Joins in Celebration.

Without a care in the world the Columbians stepped out today to see something of Los Angeles and Hollywood. As if it wished to join in the celebration the sun came back after an absence of three days and gave the visiting New Yorkers their first peep at a sunny southern California sky.

This afternoon the Columbia players and coaches and the New York sports writers with the team were guests of honor at a motion picture studio luncheon and saw pictures in the making.

All the players were able to attend the luncheon. Tony Matal, Columbia end, had recovered from his injuries and Capt. Cliff Montgomery laughed off a bruised nose and black eye.

There were alumni parties last night for both Columbia and Stanford players and the Stanford team was officially disbanded after a long season.

Columbia will leave for New York tomorrow night.

Question of Eligibility.

Whether Joe Richavich, tackle, sacrificed a year's eligibility when he helped defeat Stanford yesterday, was a question which puzzled Coach Lou Little tonight.

"Frankly, I don't know how it will work out," said Little. "Off hand I would say Joe probably will have only one more year instead of two because he played New Year's day. This would be true if the game applied to the 1934 schedule.

"I do know I'd hate to lose him. He played a great game against Stanford." Richavich was ineligible until just before the trip west.

It became known today that Bobby Grayson, Stanford full back, who collected 160 yards against the Lions, played through the second half in which he made most of his long gains, with two cracked ribs.

John Sisk, Half Back of Bears, to Marry Tomorrow

John Sisk, half back of the Chicago Bears football team, will be married tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock to Catherine L. Lemon of Chicago at St. Agnes church, 39th street and Washtenaw avenue.

In the Wake of the News

RECENTLY The Wake published several "Bright Sayings" which we personally knew to be true. Such publication naturally brought a grist from contributors, of which a few samples are picked at random.

Helper Jim relates that although Son David is almost past the age for relating childhood anecdotes, he recently was asked by his Sunday school teacher the nativity of Jesus. With a fine outburst of patriotism, David replied "American."

The young cousin of Helper C. A. K. lives next door to a United States army officer. Great pals, they recently went walking after a heavy rain. Returning to the officer's home, they carried in a lot of mud on their shoes.

When the cousin went home, he told his mother that he and "Dal" had walked over Aunt Jessie's rugs with mud on their shoes. "What did Aunt Jessie say to you?" asked his mother. Bud replied hesitantly, "Well, she didn't say anything to me, but, O boy, she just gave Dal hell."

School teacher had been telling the class about the word triangle, and finally said, "Give me a sentence with the word triangle in it." This puzzled Jimmy until he came forth with "When you go fishing, try angle worms."

Here's one from a Helper which concerns Bill Kenefick of THE TRIBUNE advertising department. Mother called Bill Jr. in the morning, "Bill, it's 5 to 8." Bill sleepily asked, "Who's winning?" to which his mother responded, "Well, you're losing, so it's time to get up."

Levinsky's Pup.

Levinsky's pup was in disgrace;
For days he didn't show his face;
He had his back pinned to the mat
By getting tough with Murphy's cat.

Up to this time his fame spread round
By licking each and every hound.
All laurels won, he took a rest,
Breathed midnight air, lived on the best.

But Murphy's cat had signed the pledge,
And this, of course, gave him an edge;
For in the conflict, you can see,
The cat produced vi-ta-min D.

Levinsky's pup and Murphy's cat
Now occupy the same door mat.
They heard the call, cut out the play.
"Much has been done; we're on the way."

Regardless of what Chancellor Hitler thinks about it, Max Schmeling of Germany may battle Kingfish Levinsky, Chicago's Jewish heavyweight, here some time within the next eight or ten weeks.

The Kingfish is hilarious at the news. He was so hilarious last night that he had forgotten all about that offer he made to fight Schmeling for nothing if permitted to take one smack at the German. The King was in the depths when he made the offer, having just been notified the match was off.

Fight Is Off and On.

Joe Foley of the Stadium, who had announced to the newspapers 24 hours earlier that the proposed match was off because Chancellor Hitler would not stand for it, a report which had spoiled the Kingfish's jovial mood on New Year's day, told all sorts of stories if press reports are to be believed.

In Chicago, early in the day, Mr. Foley had said, "Yes, the fight is off. The chancellor has 'beefed' about it."

From New York, Joe Jacobs, the Jewish manager of Schmeling's American affairs whose job is also said to be in jeopardy, was happy to be quoted as follows:

"It's a lie and if Mr. Foley says the match is off then he is a liar."

It's a Mixup.

A little later on Mr. Foley, in the midst of his first major heavyweight promotional venture, found himself in such a whirl that he threw up both hands and said, "Wait a minute; there seems to be an awful mixup."

The talkative Jacobs in New York was in full jaw wagging motion by this time. Came a further statement from him:

"I have just talked long distance with Mr. Foley and he has assured me that he hasn't the slightest idea who gave out the report that the fight was off and has promised me that he will run the culprit down if it's the last thing he ever does."

In explaining his original announcement that the fight had been called off, Foley said:

"We didn't get our information from Jacobs nor did we even seek it from him. Persons who claimed to be close to high German authorities gave us the word that there wasn't one chance in a thousand that Schmeling would even be permitted to leave Germany if Hitler had an idea that a Jew would continue to manage him in America and that the first man he

RANGERS DEFEAT CANADIENS, 3-2; REACH 2D PLACE

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The New York Rangers jumped over the heads of two rival clubs into second place in the American Division of the National Hockey league tonight with a 3 to 2 victory over the Montreal Canadiens. The victory, scored before a crowd of 10,000, put the Rangers a point ahead of the idle Detroit Red Wings and defeated Boston Bruins.

The Canadiens got a double dose of hard luck as Howie Morenz, star center, was injured in the play on which Aurel Joliat scored the first Montreal goal in the final period. He suffered a badly twisted left ankle as he banged into a tangle of players and tumbled over Bun Cook of the Rangers.

Dillon, Keeling Lead Charge.

Cecil Dillon and Butch Keeling, speedy reserve wingmen, were the leaders in the Rangers' triumph. Keeling scored two goals, while Dillon sank the important opening tally and passed to Keeling for the last. Earl Seibert, who played a strong defense game for New York, had the other assist.

Jack Riley banged in the final Canadien counter four seconds before the finish. Lineup:

Hilltop Attack Led by Morstadt.

BY CHARLES NEVADA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—Marquette university toppled the University of Wisconsin from the ranks of undefeated Western conference basketball teams with a 28 to 26 triumph over its state rival before a capacity throng of 6,200 in the auditorium tonight.

RAY MORSTADT.

The defeat of Wisconsin, which had won six straight games, including a 32 to 30 decision over the Hilltoppers at Madison early in the season, leaves Iowa as the only Big Ten five with a clean slate. The Badgers will open their conference campaign against Illinois at Champaign Saturday night.

Marquette has won six of its seven starts this season. It led at the half, 19 to 14.

The Hilltoppers jumped into a 6 to 0 lead in the first five minutes of play on two baskets by Ray Morstadt, high scoring sophomore from Waukegan, Ill., and one by Ernie Kukla. The Badgers collected five points in the next few minutes on two field goals and a free throw by Hamann.

Marquette Keeps Going.

Morstadt and Mullen then scored from the field and Ad Gorychka added a free throw to run the Hilltoppers' advantage to 11 to 5. Morstadt, who was high scorer for both teams with 13 points, then counted his lone free throw, which was matched immediately by Smith. Marquette made it 14 to 5 on Morstadt's fourth basket of the period.

Felix Preboski of the Badgers gathered three points on a basket and a free throw, and then Morstadt dribbled around Stege for a Hilltopper goal. Hamann scored from the free throw line just before Gorychka counted from the field to make the count 18 to 10 for Marquette. Poser scored from midcourt and Mullen got Marquette's 19th point just as the half ended.

Wisconsin pulled up to within a point of a tie early in the second half when Preboski, Stege, and Poser counted in quick succession, making the board read 21 to 20.

Badgers Tie It Up.

Kukla scored following a scramble under the basket and Marquette again pulled away. Rubado, Marquette guard, was ordered out when his fourth foul resulted from blocking Smith. Smith dropped in the free throw for Wisconsin.

Wisconsin then tied the score for the first time when Stege made a basket by tossing backward over his head. A free throw by Smith put the Badgers in front, 24 to 23. Kukla's basket put Marquette ahead again and Morstadt added the basket that clinched the game. Preboski counted for Wisconsin with seconds left to play and Blask produced the final point of the game after being fouled by Smith. Lineup:

IOWA WINS, 42-32

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—South Dakota's second half rally, which threatened to shake the University of Iowa basketball team from the undefeated class, fell short in the closing minutes tonight and the Hawkeyes continued their point a minute record by winning 42 to 32.

After accumulating a 25 to 15 lead at the end of the half Iowa started listlessly early in the second period, and at the same time the Coyotes began registering on their long shots. With four minutes of the game remaining the Hawkeyes held a one point lead, 33 to 32.

Johnny Grim registered a one handed shot to give the Iowans 35 and Moffitt put the home team out of danger when he sank a free throw. Barko, Moffitt, and Bastian then made field baskets.

ROTHIER FACES SUSPENSION BY BOXING BOARD

Ordered to Adjust Contract with Manager.

The Illinois athletic commission yesterday ordered Henry Rothier, Chicago welterweight boxer, to sign a supplementary contract to the original with his manager, Paul Stanger, or face suspension until he does after he goes through with a match against Meyer Grace Friday at the Rainbo Fronton.

The hearing yesterday was a continuation of that held last Tuesday. At that time the commission upheld the manager's contract and suggested that each sign a supplementary document giving Rothier power to arrange his own matches with the stipulation that he give Stanger a percentage of all his purses as their original contract specifies. The manager did this, but Rothier refused. The contract does not expire until next August, when Henry will be 21 years old.

With a view toward taking the case to court to institute civil proceedings Rothier has hired an attorney, Ralph Rosen.

SMITTY—MOTHERS UNDERSTAND

Bocek to Lead Major League Five Monday

Milt Bocek, rookie outfielder of the White Sox, will lead his Major league all-stars against a strong north side club as a preliminary game to the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league contest between the Chicago Fast Freighters and the Hutchinson, Kas., Renos Monday night at Arcadia Gardens.

The first five on the baseball players' team are members of different major league clubs. In addition to Bocek, they are: Phil Weintraub, New York Giants; Milt Galatzer, Cleveland Indians; Ed. Linke, Washington Senators, and Roy Schalk, New York Yankees.

In an effort to strengthen the Freighters for Monday's game and forthcoming ones, Harry Kellar, star of two Purdue championship Big Ten teams, has been added to the lineup. He is to take his first workout with them this morning at Franklin Park gymnasium.

A completely offensive style is employed by teams in the Valley league, now in its eighth season. Hutchinson has averaged 40 points in two league encounters, making 52 tallies against Oklahoma City, which downed the Freighters in that city recently.

Elmer Johnson, hurt in the first league game in Tulsa, has recovered and will be in the Freighters' opening lineup.

"We learned late today that once Schmeling is out of Germany that he may do as he pleases and that if he wants Jacobs to manage him and desires to scrap Levinsky it will take more than Hitler and all his storm troops to stop him. Of course Schmeling's homecoming will be something else again. That's up to Schmeling. One thing sure, I'm not going back with him."

It all smacks of a build-up, and more so because Stadium representatives will go to New York late this week to await the landing of Schmeling on Jan. 11. On bended knees they will beg him to come to Chicago to battle our Kingfish.

Even though it is a build up it may be much more serious. If Hitler should attempt to prohibit Schmeling from fighting a Jew, it will be the first direct tipoff to the Olympic games committee that he will not permit Jews to participate in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin.

GARDEN PLANS BAER-CARNERA TITLE BATTLE

Hoffman said details will be arranged at a conference of Dempsey and Garden officials within a few weeks and that the meeting had been solicited by John Kilpatrick, president of the Garden.

"They asked me to bring Dempsey to see them," Hoffman added, "and I believe they mean to declare him in as co-promoter."

Dempsey will confer with Hoffman first in Washington, following which they will both come to New York to complete plans for the bout.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—Jack Dempsey will leave Los Angeles tomorrow night for New York City, where he will confer with Madison Square Garden officials concerning a Max Baer-Primo Carnera championship bout in June or July, he said today.

Billies Orphan Wins Tropical Park Sprint

Miami, Fla., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Billie's Orphan, a 4 year old filly raised on a bottle following the death of her dam, Billie W., returned to the scene of her early triumphs today and soundly trounced a field of claiming sprinters in a six furlong dash at Tropical Park.

Carrying the silks of F. C. McAtee, Billie's Orphan stepped the three-quarters of a mile in 1:11 3-5 to finish two lengths in front of Dornoch, winner of four of his last five starts. Tansen was nearly two additional lengths behind in the show position.

WHERE IS SITE OF PASSENGER PIGEONS' NEST?

Enormous Flock Vanished Years Ago.

BY BOB BECKER.

Does any veteran hunter know anything about the last breeding area of the passenger pigeons near Petoskey, Mich., if there was such a rost? If any Michigan sportsman old enough to have seen the last stand of the extinct passenger pigeon in Michigan has any information on this subject he can do a great favor to an Illinois student of the passenger pigeon by writing this department.

G. H. Gurler of De Kalb, Ill., is the man who is trying to pick up the last bits of evidence available from observers of the passenger pigeon in Michigan.

Asks for Information.

He has appealed to this department for help in the following letter:

"I am writing a history of the passenger pigeon, but I am up against a stone wall right now. About 42 years ago I was hunting in the Indian territory, now Oklahoma. The last pigeon roost was there at that time. When they migrated north in the spring they stopped at their old breeding ground in the vicinity of Petoskey, Mich., for several days. When the flock started north it was never heard from again. I thought perhaps that yo uor your readers might have some information on the last stand of the passenger pigeon which would be of help to me in my research. Can you furnish me with any information?"

As far as we know, the last important nesting of the passenger pigeon in the state of Michigan was in the year 1881. Just where this site was seems to be a matter of controversy. According to the authorities this 1881 gathering place of the pigeons was "only of moderate size—perhaps eight miles long."

Cover Wide Area.

Although eight miles seems to us like a long distance for any species of bird to take over, we read that a really good sized Michigan nesting site covered 28 miles of wooded country and the birds spread out until the nesting area was three or four miles wide. This description gives us a pretty good idea of the abundance of the passenger pigeon and makes us wonder all the more how this great bird was wiped from the face of the earth.

The state of Michigan [lower peninsula] is recognized by ornithologists as one of the places where the extinct passenger pigeon made its last stand. Therefore it is only natural that one of the two last unquestionable records on the bird should come from that state.

Two Found in 1898.

In 1898 two passengers birds were taken, one from near Detroit. It was an immature male. An adult male was shot the same year near Canandaigua, N. Y. These records seem to spell the end of the pigeon, although as late as 1904 we have a questionable record of a bird being taken in Maine.

SLAUGHTER AND SCOZZA BANNED IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Two professional boxers, Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., Negro, and Lou Scozza, Buffalo, N. Y., were suspended indefinitely by the Wisconsin boxing commission today. Bert Finch, manager of the Buffalo light heavyweight, also was suspended by the commission.

Slaughter was punished for fouling Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Can., in the windup bout of a New Year's day fight show. His suspension will remain in effect until the commission meets again.

Failure of Scozza and his manager to show up for the semi-windup on the same card was the basis of action against them.

BEATEN EASTERN GRID STARS TELL COAST 'GOOD-BY'

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Stars who roamed the gridiron in the annual New Year's day charity football game headed homeward today while 30,000 fans who saw the West defeat the East, 12 to 0, mulled over the events of a game that saw the easterners make most of the yardage and first downs and the westerns claim all the points.

Statistically, the eastern stars, coached by Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate, had the better of the argument.

Percy Locey of Denver university who, with Orin Hollingbery of Washington State, coached the west team, had an answer for the east's undisputed edge in the matter of figures.

Use Only Nine Plays.

"There weren't so many publicized players in our lineup, but the boys saw and seized their opportunities. The fact we did not make so much yardage should not detract from the win. Besides, we only used nine of our twenty plays. After we had scored the two touchdowns in the first period there was no need to open up and take chances on losing the game."

The brilliant play of George Sauer of the University of Nebraska won him fresh acclaim today. Coaches and players of both teams were agreed the blond back field star turned in one of the greatest performances seen in many years. Sauer, a full back during his college days, played left half for the West. He scored both touchdowns, one on a 28 yard run, and was outstanding on defense.

Praise Eastern Players.

The western coaches were high in their praise of several of the easterners, especially Ed Danowski of Fordham, who played full back; Chuck Bernard, Michigan center; Francis Schammel, Iowa guard, and Beattie Feathers,, Tennessee half back. Feathers made the longest run of the game, a 56 yard dash that put the East within scoring distance.

Aside from Sauer, other western players who came in for commendation by the East's coaching staff were Lee Coats, University of California at Los Angeles, center; Fred Canrinus, St. Mary's end; Phil Sorboe, Washington State quarter back, and John Borby, Idaho half back.

BLUE RIBBONS TO PLAY PITTSBURGH LACROSSE TEAM

The Chicago Blue Ribbons lacrosse sextet will meet the undefeated Pittsburgh Pirates tonight at the Arcadia Gardens, 4444 Broadway. The Blue Ribbons defeated Milwaukee in their last two starts at the Arcadia and are out to make it three straight. The Pirates are composed of last year's Canadian champions.

The majority of the Pirates are French Canadians. La France is said to be the fastest man in lacrosse and one of the most finished forwards. The Langevin brothers, on defense, are two hundred pounders. L'Heureux at center plays much the same style of game as "Newsy" Lalende did when he was the most colorful player in the game. Piper Bain and L'Heureaux are both well up in the scoring records.

Bill House, former Penn State lacrosse and football star, will make his debut with the Chicago team. Capt. Len Plummer received a hurried call to the bedside of his wife who is seriously ill in Toronto and will not be in the game tonight.

Cecil Smith's Polo Team Defeats Mexican Officers

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

JIM THORPE once was a Big Ten football coach. . . . He assisted Coach Childs of Indiana in 1915, and old time Hoosiers will tell you he could kick the ball a mile. . . . It is reported that Hunk Anderson will receive $10,000 a year at North Caroline State. . . . Charlie Gardiner, goalie for the Blackhawks, considers Chuck Conacher of Toronto the fiercest shot in hockey. . . . Rocky mountain schools deserve credit for introducing the idea of football players wearing numbers on their backs. . . . On Nov. 18, 1913, Colorado School of Mines and Colorado college had their men numbered in the game between the two teams played in Denver. . . .

Los Angeles sports writers will not need food for weeks. . . . They'll be busy eating the words they printed about Columbia after it was chosen to meet Stanford in the Rose Bowl. . . . Think what would have happened to coast prestige if Princeton or Michigan had been the opponent. . . . Garland Grange will look after his brother Red's business interests while the Bears are on a six weeks' trip to the south and west. . . . King Levinsky has been offered a tour in vaudeville. . . . The first game of intercollegiate football was played between Princeton and Rutgers on Nov. 6, 1869. . . . Rutgers won, 6 to 4. . . . Two members of the Princeton team, Homer D. Boughner of Denver and Charles Lane of Maryland, are still living. . . .

Joe Puerto, former Illinois wrestling captain, has taken up boxing and will compete in the Golden Gloves tournament. . . . He was the Big Ten's 118 pound mat champion and won the national title at 128 pounds. . . . He was a cinch for the American Olympic team until he was ruled ineligible because his father had migrated from Spain to New Mexico and never had been naturalized. Puerto has taken out his papers and will become a citizen as soon as he is 21. . . . Based on its showing thus far, Notre Dame has the best basketball team in its history. . . . Tug Wilson of Northwestern said after the game at Patten gym Saturday night he did not see who was going to stop the Irish. . . .

Several American league ball players keep in shape during the winter months by ice skating. . . . Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, is on Delaware park lake, Buffalo, whenever there is ice. . . . Bump Hadley, pitcher for the Browns, who resides in Lynn, Mass., keeps down his weight with an hour or two on the blades daily. . . . Charley Gehringer, who was chosen by the fans to play second base in the Game of the Century, does not fear excess suet, but he is an ardent skater just the same. . . . The National Collegiate Athletic association is to be congratulated for reelecting Maj. John L. Griffith as president. . . . No man has done more to keep college sport on a high plane.

Most of the Big Ten basketball coaches are said to favor the suggestion of Craig Ruby of Illinois that the conference teams all play one another. . . . This would mean an 18 game schedule and the elimination of nonconference contests. . . . Opposition came from two schools which operate on a quarter system. . . . Some games would have to be played in December and they would risk losing players by ineligibility without time to patch up the gaps as they have at present. . . . Few schools are able to make basketball self-supporting. . . . Purdue, which usually is among the best in the conference, last year lost $10,000. . . . Notre Dame packs 'em in but charges only 40 cents. . . . Doc Meanwell of Wisconsin and Ruby of Illinois, whose basketball teams meet Saturday night, ought to know each other's style of play pretty well. . . . Ruby played under Meanwell at Missouri and succeeded him as coach when Doc went to Wisconsin in 1921.

Ten Years Ago Today.—Joie Ray, Illinois Athletic club distance runner, was picked to race Willie Ritola at 3,000 meters in New York on Jan. 16. . . . Maj. Griffith Answers Slap at Athletics

The attack that Henry Wallace, secretary of agriculture, made against college football, branding it a "racket," was answered last night by Maj. John L. Griffith, president of the National Collegiate Athletic association and commissioner of athletics in the Western conference.

"Secretary Wallace may be an authority on pigs, cows and corn, but it is a question as to whether his training in the field of agriculture qualifies him to speak with authority on educational subjects, including college athletics," Maj. Griffith said.

"After all, college athletics is entitled to scientific treatment, and a man who gives his opinion that college football is a 'racket' apparently has not taken time to gather the facts on which to base his conclusion.

"Secretary Wallace may be correct in his belief in the philosophy that prosperity is to be achieved through scarcity, but at any rate, until his various economics have been proved sound, it might be pertinent to suggest that he leave the field of college athletics to those who know the difference between a racket and college athletics as administered by the educational institutions of this country."

Postpone Indoor Soccer Until After Holidays

The indoor soccer games scheduled for tonight at the 124th Armory between the Wiebolds Wonderboldts and Ravenswood Scots and Macabees and Schwaben have been postponed until after the holidays.

New Job Will Give Anderson More Trouble

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Heartly W. [Hunk] Anderson may find it just as hard to lead North Carolina State college's football team from the wilderness of defeat and disappointment as it was to keep Notre Dame's victory march up to the high pitch set by Knute Rockne.

The opposition won't be as tough as that encountered by the South Bend team but, on the other hand, Hunk won't have anywhere near the material he was given at Notre Dame.

Alumni Eager to Win.

The North Carolina State alumni are just as eager for victories as the graduates of Notre Dame. Few football alumni are satisfied with a fifty-fifty season and Anderso must contrive to keep his winning percentage high if he hopes to survive the slightly better than two year average tenure of office held by North Carolina State coaches in the last dozen years. He has a three year contract.

Since 1922 the Raleigh institution has had six coaches—Harry Hartsell, Buck Shaw, Gus Tebell, John Van Liew, Ray Sermon, and John Smith—and Smith's 1933 team won only one game. It tied three.

North Carolina State, a member of the Sounthern conference, may be somewhat handicapped, so far as football material is concerned, by its proximity to Duke university at Durham and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. These three major schools lie within a 30 mile radius.

Learn Notre Dame System.

Duke and the University of North Carolina are natural rivals of North Carolina State and Anderson must win a majority of his battles with these foes to keep the alumni in a happy frame of mind. Several factions of the alumni have been at odds in recent months, some holding out for Smith's retention.

One thing in Anderson's favor is that the football squad has been trained in the Notre Dame system by Smith, who played under Rockne.

C. Y. O. FIGHTERS PAY A VISIT TO CATALINA ISLAND

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—[Special.]—Chicago Catholic Youth boxers spent a drier day on the ocean, going to and from San Pedro to Catalina island today than they did on terra firma while visiting the Columbia-Stanford football game in the midst of yesterday's rain.

Bishop Bernard Sheil and a party of 36, including 7 clergymen, five laymen, 16 boxers and 6 seconds, made the trip to the island, and tomorrow are to be guests of the Fox movie studio.

Tomorrow night the boys will be guests at the Culver City arena, where finals of the Southern California C. Y. O. ring tournament will be held. These bouts will qualify some of the boxers whom Bishop Sheil's group will meet in tackling the combined Los Angeles-San Francisco team in the latter city Jan. 12. The Chicago boys resume boxing workouts Friday at the Pasadena Athletic club.

National Championship Road Race Is Canceled

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The 250 mile national championship road race, scheduled to be held here Feb. 22 under auspices of the American Automobile association, was definitely canceled today. A. C. Phillsbury, regional director of the A. A. A. made the announcement, but gave no reason. The 250 mile stock car race scheduled for the same date will be held, he said.

Select Coaches for Jewish Youth Boxers

Well known characters in sport have volunteered support to the athletic committee of the Jewish Organized Youth which is beginning a continued all around athletic program for the Jewish boys and girls of Chicago and the central states with a boxing tournament to be held early in February at the Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard.

Danny Spunt, featherweight boxer of other days, will help coach the boys. Harry Garbell, 118 pound Golden Glove champion in 1929, will also coach, as will Leonard J. Sterling, sports announcer for the Illinois athletic commission, Central A. A. U., and the Golden Gloves; Joey Medill, former lightweight contender, and Jack Penn, formerly of Cincinnati, who did most of his fighting in the east.

Al Schwartz, captain of the 1932 American Olympic swimming team and former Northwestern, Illinois Athletic club, and J. P. I. star, also assured his help.

All amateur boxers of Jewish nationality are eligible for the tournament provided the boy is physically fit and 16 years of age and older. There is no entry fee charged and all boys can enter, whether affiliated with an organization or as an individual.

The participants will be divided into two classes, novice and championship, and will include all weights, ranging from a featherweight at 112 pounds to the heavyweight at 175 pounds and above.

Sleipner Skate Derby Will Be Run Saturday

Sleipner Athletic club's fortieth annual ice skating Derby, originally scheduled New Year's day, will be held next Saturday at Humboldt park at 1 p. m. Entries will still be accepted by Secretary John E. Benson, 4520 West Grand avenue.

HAWKS PREPARE FOR GAME WITH RANGERS SUNDAY

Shift Lineup in Speedy Workout.

With the world champion Rangers, headed by Lester Patrick, coming here on Sunday for a match that may decide first place in the American division of the National Hockey league there was great activity yesterday in the camp of the Chicago Blackhawks. The Hawks are determined to hold on to their position at the head of the group and will give the Stanley cup holders a desperate battle next Sunday night.

Following their game against the Toronto Leafs Monday night Lionel Conacher was the only absentee yesterday when the Blackhawks worked out under the eyes of Maj. McLaughlin, their president, and Manager Gorman.

May Shift Lineup.

The latter indicated that he might again make some shifts on his attack, as Tommie Cook worked out at center on a new line between Louie Trudel, recently recalled from Syracuse, and Donnie McFadyen, who has been doing utility work. McFadyen replaced Sheppard and Trudel was used in Bill Kendall's place. This line worked out well and may get a trial against the Rangers next Sunday. Gorman needs more speed on his attack, and he figures that McFadyen and Trudel may answer the purpose. Sheppard and Kendall were both in uniform.

The Blackhawks will work out again this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will have ice every day this week. Manager Gorman was particularly pleased yesterday over the form shown by Taffy Abel and Art Coulter. Both are rounding back into shape and will be at their best for the Ranger game on Sunday.

Double Shift Defense.

This will give the Blackhawks their double shift defense of Conacher and Jenkins, Abel and Coulter, with which they began their big drive at the beginning of December.

There is a possibility of one new forward being added to the Chicago roster this week.

QUEENS U. TEAM LOSES TO BABY RUTH SEXTET, 3-0

Dutch Manderfield was the star of the game. He scored two of the three goals, the first with the assistance of Latva, in 17:48 in the opening period. With 15 seconds remaining in the middle frame, he scored again on a solo effort. Nichols teamed up with Hill and Beda to catch the tired Queens outfit off guard in the last inning to score in 14:35.

SLAIN RUMANIAN PREMIER BURIED; CAROL IS ABSENT

10,000 Persons March in Funeral Procession.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Jan. 2.—(AP)—A wreath of red lilies from King Carol adorned the coffin of the assisinated premier Ion O. Duca as it passed through the streets of Bucharest to Belue cemetery this afternoon on a gun carriage drawn by six horses.

The monarch himself was not among those who walked behind the coffin. A slight illness prevented his appearance. Cabinet members and diplomats and a crowd of more than 10,000 persons, many of whom came to Bucharest on special trains, participated in the procession.

Titulescu to Keep Post.

The funeral was the biggest since that of the late king Ferdinand. The body of Duca, who was killed last Friday by Nicholas Constantinescu, a member of the anti-semitic iron gaurd, was temporarily laid to rest in Belu cemetery. Later it will be taken to a burial plot near the Duca country estate.

Meanwhile, Nicholas Titulescu withdrew his resignation as foreign minister upon the persuasion of the provisional prime minister, Constantine Angelescu.

When he returned yesterday from a holiday in Switzerland, Titulescu maintained that he no longer wanted to remain in a government which "so signally failed to take sufficiently energetic measures against a movement [the iron guard] which imperilled not only the inner political but foreign relations" of the nation.

Iron Guard Leaders Face Trial.

It was announced that not only Duca's confessed assassin and two alleged accomplices, but many leaders of the iron guard will be tried for complicity in the death. Officials said evidence indicated that the assassination was the result of a widespread and well organized plot.

The Little Entente conferences of Czechoslovakian, Rumanian and Jugo-Slavian representatives will take place on Jan. 8, as scheduled.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Another Day

BLUE SHIRT CHIEF SCORES VICTORY OVER DE VALERA

Army Tribunal Delays Trial of O'Duffy.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Jan. 2.—Gen. Owen O'Duffy's legal advisers scored a distinct success over the government today when, fortified with a conditional order granted by Justice O'Byrne of the civil high court prohibiting the military tribunal from hearing charges against the Blue Shirt leader, they obtained an adjournment of the hearing until the high court decided whether the order will be made absolute. O'Duffy is charged with inciting the murder of President Eamon de Valera.

John Costello, Gen. O'Duffy's counsel, stated at the outset of the proceedings that the fact that O'duffy attended the meeting of the tribunal must not be taken as prejudicing his position under the high court order or as indicating his submission to the jurisdiction of the tribunal.

Government Claims Power.

Attorney General Conor A. Maguire for the government submitted, notwithstanding Justice O'Byrne's order, that the tribunal has full power to try the charges against O'Duffy.

Under the public safety act no other court had power to restrain or interfere with the jurisdiction of the tribunal, he asserted. He proposed to contest Justice O'Byrne's order, but in the meantime suggested adjournment of the case.

The president of the tribunal said he was satisfied that the military body had the power to proceed with the charges, but to avoid a clash with the civil courts he said the tribunal would accede to the application to adjourn the case to a future date.

A Principle at Stake.

The issue now arising is exceedingly interesting. Hitherto it has been held that the tribunal is superior to the civil courts.

If the civil court makes the order of prohibition absolute it will be for the tribunal to assert its superiority. The president of the tribunal today contended that the tribunal is not inferior to any court in the state. He did not, however, say it was superior. This is a point which will arise subsequently.

WEIGALL, EXPERT ON EGYPT, DIES; CITE TUT CURSE

LONDON, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Arthur Edward Pearse Brome Weigall, a leading authority on the antiquities of Egypt, died here today after a long illness. He was 53 years old.

He retired from a position as the Egyptian government's inspector general of antiquities in 1914, and devoted himself to travel and writing. He published books covering subjects ranging from "Bedouin Love" to "Wanderings in Anglo-Saxon Britain." He was the author of biographies of Cleopatra, Nero, Mark Antony, Sappho of Lesbos and Alexander the Great.

The legend of Tutankhamen's curse, under which misadventure was foreordained for violators of that ancient Egyptian king's tomb, was recalled with the death of Weigall. He was present when the tomb was opened. Friends said there was something mysterious about his illness, the cause of which could not be traced.

JONES OUTLINES PLANS FOR RFC POWER IN BANKS

Continental Action to Set Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation's intervention in the management of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company through its preferred stock voting rights will set the policy for the RFC's future use of preferred stock powers over 4,500 other banks in which it has invested, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation, indicated today.

Just what the RFC will insist upon in the way of management control over the Continental Illinois, in which it now holds a clear majority of voting power, will be mapped out at a meeting here next week between Mr. Jones and a commitee of the directors of the bank, Mr. Jones explained.

In addition to asking a free hand in electing a chairman of the board, a post now vacant, the RFC may demand a majority on the board of directors, forcing out some of the present members.

Not Committed to Cummings.

Mr. Jones, however, declared that the RFC has not committed itself to backing Walter J. Cummings, resigning head of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, for chairman of the bank board.

Mr. Cummings' name has been mentioned in discussions of the vacancy, Mr. Jones admitted, adding that Mr. Cummings was an excellent business man, but neither the bank nor the corporation has asked Mr. Cummings if he would serve, Mr. Jones said. Mr. Cummings, however, has been approached informally.

Future business policies rather than future personnel, Mr. Jones insisted, will be the RFC's chief interest when talking over the Continental Illinois matter with the directors next week. He will be chiefly interested in the program the directors have outlined for the bank.

Will Extend Control.

Mr. Jones made no bones about admitting that the open intervention in the Continental Illinois through preferred stock rights will be spread to other banks.

He pointed out that the RFC has a clear majority control, such as it owns in the Continental Illinois, in comparatively few banks, but he admitted that a 30 or 40 per cent ..ck ownership might give the RFC a working control.

The RFC's dilemma, as revealed by Mr. Jones, arises out of a need to protect its preferred stock investment and a desire to interfere as little as possible with banks.

"There should be no clash," he said. "All we want is good management and to get our money back. Anybody ought to be interested in good management. We are trying to have as little to do with it as good business judgment will allow. Of course, we are responsible for this money, and we are trying to safeguard it.

Must Know Management.

"We would be derelict in our duty here if we didn't know something about the management of a bank in which the government has invested fifty million dollars or any other large sum. We are naturally interested in who or what the management of the bank will be."

He revealed that he has called for a list of all banks in which the RFC has voting rights. More than 4,500 banks have sold an aggregate of 823 million dollars' worth of stock or notes to the RFC.

While the purchase of capital notes by the RFC in state banks does not carry voting power, as in the case of preferred stock, the RFC retained the privilege of examining each nonmember at least once a year coinciding with state examinations. Thus, for the first time, except while national banking holiday restrictions existed, the federal government will possess a measure of supervision over many state nonmember banks.

City National Has Profit in Last 8 Months

PHILIP R. CLARKE.

The City National Bank and Trust company operated on a profitable basis in the last eight months of 1933 despite abnormally large cash resources and an absence of demand for commercial loans, according to the second annual statement of the bank, issued yesterday by Charles G. Dawes, chairman, and Philip R. Clarke, president.

The Northern Trust company, whose annual statement was published Jan. 1, yesterday reported its net earnings for 1933 totaled $750,848. This was equivalent to 25.02 per cent on the capital stock and 6.61 per cent on invested capital. The bank's net earnings in 1932 totaled $750,380, which was equivalent to 25.01 per cent on the capital stock.

Early Loss Reduced.

In their statement, the heads of City National said:

"The bank has realized an operating profit for each of the last eight months, despite abnormally large cash resources and the unusual lack of demand for sound commercial loans that has prevailed throughout the year. The aggregate loss sustained during the early and formative period of the bank's existence is being steadily reduced and as of Dec. 30, 1933, amounts to $101,733 after setting up various reserves for taxes, interest, depreciation, etc., totaling $330,719.

"Deposits, which amounted to $73,364,000 on the date of opening, Oct. 6, 1932, have increased to $84,879,000 as shown in the statement of Dec. 30, 1933."

The bank reported that deposits as of Sept. 29, 1933, totaled $81,131,000, indicating an increase of more than $3,000,000 since that date.

Detail Position.

In its December, 1933, statement the bank reported: cash and due from banks, $48,728,875; U. S. government securities, $17,686,011; state, municipal and other securities, $2,686,673; loans and discounts, $20,594,423; federal reserve bank stock, $150,000; customers' liability on letters of credit and acceptances, $352,484, and other resources, $269,107, making total resources of $90,467,576.

Liabilities include: capital, $4,000,000; surplus and reserves, $1,228,286; letters of credit and acceptances outstanding, $352,484; other liabilities, $6,769, and deposits, $84,879,335.

Deposits of the First National Bank of Englewood, whose president, J. M. Nichols, has refused to participate in the government's insurance deposit plan, have been steadily increasing. On Sept. 30 deposits totaled $5,842,000; Oct. 21, $5,934,000; Nov. 29, $6,138,000, and Dec. 30, $6,256,000.

REOPEN INQUIRY OF DETROIT BANK SITUATION TODAY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Members of the senate committee investigating Detroit banks said today the inquiry would be resumed tomorrow as planned, but that they had no information on the course it would take.

Arrangements have been left entirely to Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, who has spent the 10 day recess in New York and has not returned.

When the hearings recessed before Christmas Pecora announced they would be resumed with further evidence in connection with the operation of the Guardian group of Michigan banks which were being studied at that time.

He indicated it would take several days more to present the evidence in connection with the Guardian group, after which the committee would turn to the Detroit Bankers company, another holding group.

Following the Detroit phase of the inquiry, the committee will take up the Cleveland bank situation and after that the New York Stock exchange. Mr. Pecora is bringing back a summary of the 1,375 questionnaires sent to stock brokers several weeks ago

NATION'S BANKS LAUNCH DEPOSIT GUARANTY PLAN

One Reserve Member Here Holds Aloof.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—At the close of a historic first day of government guaranteed bank deposits, Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, said with satisfaction that only one federal reserve member bank had refused to become a part of the system.

All the others and more than 7,000 state nonmember banks were under the protection of the insurance plan, which until July 1 guarantees all accounts of $2,500 or less and which thereafter will cover deposits of an even larger amount. In all, 13,423 banks have joined, while 141 institutions were found ineligible.

Status of Chicago Bank.

As for the one staying outside, the First National of Englewood, Chicago, officials expect prompt settlement of its case when the time comes. Unless it changes its mind by July 1 and buys its allotted share of deposit corporation stock the law compels the federal reserve board, Gov. Black said today, to expel it from the reserve system.

In addition, the law stipulates that the controller of the currency must appoint a receiver or conservator for the institution. However, the bank could circumvent this, it was said, by relinquishing, meanwhile, its charter as a national bank and obtaining a license to operate as a state bank.

The author of the legislation providing for the temporary insurance plan between now and July—Senator Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] — today heaped praise upon the Deposit corporation and the Reconstruction corporation for a "superb piece of work" in getting the system functioning on the appointed day.

Sees Hoarding Excuse Removed.

Through the system inaugurated today, Vandenberg said, safety for 97 per cent of the nation's depositors has been provided, and "any remote excuse" for hoarding removed.

"This spells maximum fiscal and social service and minimum hazard," he added. "Personally I should be glad to see this temporary formula and this $2,500 limit substituted for the permanent formula which otherwise becomes effective in July if our experience during the next few months vindicates our expectations."

Banks participating in the insurance fund will not be listed publicly by the corporation. Banks which are members of the fund, however, may advertise this fact.

U. S. MONEY PLAN EASES CANADA'S BURDEN OF DEBT

OTTAWA, Can., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Canada has been placed in a greatly improved position, as far as her outside indebtedness is concerned, by the policy of the present American administration, H. H. Stevens, minister of trade and commerce, said today in a review of 1933.

He estimated that a year ago, $3,248,000,000 in Canadian bonds were payable in United States funds and involved, at the December exchange rate, "an additional obligation of practically $500,000,000 for exchange."

"That extra obligation in principal, together with the corresponding obligation for interest," he went on, "has been swept away in 1933, materially lightening the burdens which this country is carrying."

He cited improved conditions as a warrant for looking forward to gradual recovery in 1934.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube May Make Electric Pipe

Youngstown, O., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Dow, Jones & Co. reports that the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company plans to enter the small sized electric pipe production field under a new process necessitating equipment expenditure of about $1,500,000.

List Banks of Chicago Area in Deposit Insurance Plan

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Names of the banks in Chicago, Cicero, Evanston, and Oak Park which have been admitted to membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation were announced last night.

ARTHUR F. ALBERT [Wallinger Photo.]

Only 33 state banks in Illinois—one of them in Chicago—did not apply for membership, Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, announced last night. The total applying in Illinois was 569, representing more than 99 per cent of the deposits in state banks, Mr. Barrett said.

The Edgewater Trust and Savings bank alone of the Chicago state banks did not apply for membership. Explaining the failure of the bank to apply for membership, Arthur F. Albert, president, said last night:

"The Edgewater Trust and Savings bank did not apply for membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation because we may have other plans to announce later."

National Bank Does Not Apply.

Up to last night the First National Bank of Englewood had not contributed a dollar to the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation. J. M. Nichols, president of the bank and known throughout the country as "100 per cent Nichols" because of the high degree of liquidity at which he maintains his institution, has said that the only way he will enter the deposit guarantee plan will be through government coercion.

Mr. Nichols has been in Wisconsin over the holiday. H. G. Johnson, vice president, said last night that the bank has not paid the ¼ of 1 per cent which banks participating in the plan forwarded to Washington to cover their share.

The names of the banks listed as participating in the plan follow:

CHICAGO.

Amalgamated Trust and Savings, American National Bank and Trust, Austin State, Banco di Napoli Trust, Beverly State Savings, Broadway Trust and Savings, Chicago City Bank and Trust, City National Bank and Trust, Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust, Drexel State, Drovers National, Drovers Trust and Savings, Edison Park State Savings, First National Bank of Chicago, First National Bank of Englewood, Halsted Exchange National, Hamilton State, Harris Trust and Savings, Howard Avenue Trust and Savings, I-C Bank and Trust, Lake Shore Trust and Savings, Lake View Trust and Savings, Lawndale National, Liberty Bank of Chicago, Live Stock National, Main State, Mercantile Trust and Savings, Merchandise Bank and Trust, Metropolitan State, Mid-City National, Mutual National, National Boulevard, National Builders, National Security, Northern Trust, Personal Loan and Savings, Pioneer Trust and Savings, Pullman Trust and Savings, Sears-Community State, Sixty-third and Halsted State, Skala State, South Chicago Savings, State Bank of Clearing, Terminal National, University State, Upper Avenue, Uptown State, West Thirty-first State.

CICERO.

EVANSTON.

Evanston Trust and Savings, First National Bank and Trust, State Bank and Trust.

OAK PARK.

Barrett Analyzes List.

Mr. Barrett asserted that every state bank which applied for membership and was certified by his office was admitted to membership in the FDIC. The 33 banks which did not apply, mostly small ones, were for the greater part institutions which were highly liquid and did not feel the need of insurance, he added.

"There are 602 state banks in Illinois which have deposit liabilities," Mr. Barrett said. "The 33 which did not apply amount in number to approximately 5.5 per cent and hold less than 1 per cent of total deposits.

"Only about $4,000,000 worth of debentures or capital stock of the RFC were taken by states banks in Illinois."

Mr. Barrett said that deposits in state banks as of Sept. 30, 1933—the date of the last call for reports on condition—totaled approximately $590,924,000. Deposits in banks which did not apply for membership total approximately $5,600,000.

STEEL INDUSTRY OPENS NEW YEAR ON 29.3% BASIS

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute reports that the operating rate of steel companies at the beginning of the new year is 29.3 per cent of capacity, compared with 31.6 per cent a week ago and 28.3 per cent a month ago.

The decrease from last week was somewhat less than is usual at the holiday period, as operations recently have been helped by the rush to complete deliveries on fourth quarter contracts.

JOHNSON ISSUES CALL FOR PARLEY ON BANKING CODE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 2.—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, has called representatives of the banking code committee of the American Bankers' association to meet in Washington for consultation on banking rules of fair practice, it was reported today in banking quarters.

Bankers here were uncertain whether the conference would be held on Wednesday or Thursday, nor did they know what members of the code committee would attend it. It was considered certain, however, that Frank W. Simmonds, deputy manager of the American Bankers' association and secretary of the code committee would be among the representatives.

Pending results of the conference, bankers here suspended work on their rules of fair practice. There was a widespread feeling, however, that once Gen. Johnson had examined in detail provisions of the so-called master code sent out by the banking code committee and used by bankers in this city as the basis for their code, he might modify terms of his sweeping suspension of code making activity.

It was viewed as likely that the general outlines of the original master code would be reinstated, but that changes would be made in the provisions for service charges.

U. S. Land Loans in Illinois Total 3,481 for 8 Months

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—The governor of the farm credit administration, in a preliminary report published today, said the Federal Land bank and land bank commissioner had closed 3,481 loans in Illinois from May 1 to Dec. 23, for a total of $13,821,160. His report showed that there were 12,310 loans outstanding as of Dec. 23. These totaled $64,252,042.

Small Saver Forgotten Man of New Deal

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The "forgotten man" in the New Deal's monetary experiments is the fellow of modest means who has struggled to build up a competence against old age and who has bought life insurance, painfully garnered a few dollars in a savings account and has, perhaps, a bond or two.

The professors of the brain trust have figured that by reducing the value of the dollar to 50 cents or so prices will automatically rise 100 per cent and it will take two dollars to buy what one would buy before.

This is supposed to ease the pressure on the debtors. How the debtor who could not pay his debt in 100 cent dollars will be better able to pay in 50 cent dollars if all his living costs go up 100 per cent in the process is something of a mystery.

But what of the creditor? Assuming that the plan will work as outlined by the professors, what would happen to him? His living costs, too, would go up 100 per cent. And his life insurance, his savings and his bonds would be halved in value. If he's a salaried man his income, also, would be cut.

Most individuals are part debtor and part creditor. There's no way to separate them into two distinct groups. Take the case of a salaried man who has a mortgage on his home, a savings account, life insurance and a bond or two. Devaluation [if it works as promised] would cheapen his mortgage. That is, it would make the mortgage smaller in proportion to the total value of the property [still assuming that real estate would increase in value in direct proportion to the cheapening of the dollar] but it would also reduce the purchasing power of his salary and interest income of 50 per cent and make his insurance, savings deposit and bonds worth just half what they were worth before.

Who are the creditors? Are they a small class of millionaires or are they a great number of ordinary folk who have been working hard to put away a few dollars to raise their families and protect them against emergencies?

First, there are the savings depositors. The records show that last year there were more than 43 millions of them throughout the country and that their average deposits amounted to about $500, excluding Christmas savings and postal savings accounts.

There is in force in this country a total of about 100 billion dollars of life insurance which, in the event of a 50 per cent devaluation, would be worth only 50 billions on the old basis.

A check of some of the leading insurance companies discloses that the average policy runs between $1,500 and $3,000. If a 50 per cent devaluation of the dollar would raise prices 100 per cent the widow who was left $1,500 of life insurance would be able to buy only $750 worth of necessities with it.

A similar analysis of bond investments is more difficult, but even individuals who themselves own no bonds are indirectly interested in bonds through the investments made in securities by banks, insurance companies or corporations.

With mortgages it is the same story. Insurance companies are by far the largest holders of farm mortgages, owning an estimated total of about 25

HARRIMAN CITES WHAT BUSINESS NEEDS FROM U. S.

Announces 12 Points in C. of C. Program.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Currency stability, a balanced budget, and modification of NRA code inequities were among 12 points urged upon American business men today by Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

In a statement to the chamber's membership, characterizing business conditions as considerably improved, Harriman outlined the 12 points as a basis for the chamber's 1934 general program. His suggestions were:

"Consolidation and broadening of the benefits of codes, in order that prevention of all forms of unfair competition may become a permanent part of our American business practice. Modification and adjustment of codes to remove all inequities that appear, as between communities of different sizes, as between sections, and as between small and large enterprises in the same field.

Wants Business Independent.

"It was an essential purpose of the recovery act that independent businesses should be free to continue their independence in accordance with their several abilities.

"Accelerate the activities of the industries producing capital goods.

"Assurance of currency stability, both national and international will go far to release funds needed to carry forward our capital goods industries.

"Advance our foreign trade.

"The securities act requires certain amendments. I believe thoroughly in the objectives of this act, and I think in some ways its provisions should be strengthened. On the other hand, its penalties are, in my judgement, greater than is required to assure the fulfillment of its purposes, and are retarding the sale of securities so much needed not only to refinance maturing issues but to furnish the funds needed by the capital goods industries.

"Approach revenue legislation in the spirit of treating all business enterprises equitably, for taxation may heedlessly be made a deterrent of recovery.

Asks Governmental Economy.

"Ask all government agencies to exercise the same economies that all business concerns must seek.

"Work for balanced budgets in government for the same reason that every business has to strive for a balance in its budget, and with full realization that, as the government is larger than any business, a balanced budget for it is proportionately more urgent, and in the highest public interest.

"The crime of the cities has been unbridled expenditures. Many of them are saddled with burdens of debt that can hardly be met, and we should not hesitate to give to the executives of our cities broad powers to effect economies."

New York, Jan. 2.—The initial bond market of the new year witnessed higher prices in all sections of the list but trading was only moderately active. The rise in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S average of ten leading foreign loans resulted in the establishment of the highest level since the compilation was begun many years ago. United States government bonds were up 1-32d to 14-32d points in fairly active dealings.

A firmer tone was exhibited by high grade railroad and utility issues in a continuation of the recent recovery trend, although trading volume remained light. A number of representative obligations brought higher prices, including American Telephone debenture 5s and sinking fund 5s, Detroit Edison 5s of 1955, Consolidated Gas 5s and 4¼s, Norfolk and Western consolidated 4s, Pocohontas 4s, and Public Service Electric 4s and 4½s.

Speculative List Gains.

Low priced speculative bonds likewise were mostly higher in a quiet market. Good demand developed for Postal Telegraph 5s, and United States Rubber 5s were a strong feature. Local traction bonds, notably Interborough issues, resumed their advance with increased vigor with the launching of the new administration. The conviction will not be downed that unification action is imminent.

Strength in German bonds featured the foreign list, many issues gaining 1 to 7 points on the news from Washington, D. C., that the government plans a protest to Germany against German plans for cutting the interest on German dollar bonds. The German government 5½s and 7s, which are not affected by interest reduction plans, moved up fractionally.

Utilities Score Gains.

French government bonds closed the day unchanged to up 2½ points, while United Kingdom issues were up a point to down fractionally.

Bonds of the Australian group showed considerable strength. Latin-American loans moved higher under the leadership of Argentine government issues which showed maximum gains of 1 to more than 3 points.

Utility bonds made better average gains for the day than did rails and industrials.

Bastian-Blessing.

Investors' Guide: Please give me what information you can regarding Bastian-Blessing stock, and much oblige.—P. M. G.

Answer: Bastian-Blessing company manufactures carbonators, soda fountains and parts, bars, torches, and specialties for oxygen, acetylene, and carbonic gas industries.

The return of beer provided a powerful impetus for earnings. Last March the company was forced to double its working force to take care of orders.

Net income of $146,000 in the quarter ended June 30, 1933, offset the loss of $144,000 for the preceding four months, and resulted in a profit of $2,000 for the seven months to June 30.

Net loss in the year ended Nov. 30, 1932, after $160,000 chargeoffs, amounted to $424,000. This compared with net income of $72,000, or 65 cents per common share, for the preceding year. Earnings of earlier years are not strictly comparable since they are on a nonconsolidated basis. On the basis of income of the parent company only, net profit for the Nov. 30, 1930, year was $288,000, or $2.50 per common share, against net of $690,000 for the 1929 year.

Current assets on Nov. 30, 1932, including cash assets of $173,000, amounted to $1,464,000, and current liabilities were $301,000. Notes payable to banks were $230,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization is represented by 3,180 shares of no par $6 dividend cumulative preferred and 137,774 no par common shares. Nothing is being paid on the preferred.

Both the preferred and common are speculative.

The annual meeting of stockholders, originally scheduled for Dec. 20, was adjourned to Jan. 27 to enable the management to compile the figures concerning operations for the annual report.

Write to the Company.

Investors' Guide: Who is paying agent for dividends on stock of Borg-Warner? I notice a 25 cent dividend was paid on the common in December, but I did not get it.—Miss L. C. C.

Answer: A special dividend of 25 cents per common share was paid Dec. 18, 1933, to stock of record Dec. 6.

Corporations do not maintain paying agents for payment of dividends. Ordinarily checks are mailed to the stockholders. If you were a stockholder of record on Dec. 6, 1933, you were entitled to the 25 cent a share dividend. We suggest you write to Mathew Keck, treasurer of the company, at 310 South Michigan avenue, Chicago, in order to determine why your dividend check was not received.

STOCKS ADVANCE IN LIGHT TRADE; UPTURN MODEST

Reopening of Congress Retards Activity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 2.—With congress due on the job tomorrow, the stock market was content to make a good will gesture of confidence through today's dealings and then stand by to see what shall be seen.

Modest gains ranging from a fraction to a point or so were chalked up throughout the list but turnover was exceedingly light and large scale orders were lacking.

A large assortment of secondary issues and a sprinkling of trading favorites were allowed to lapse below the line for want of support. American Can, for instance, closed a point below its 1933 final, Du Pont finished off nearly a point, U. S. Smelting fared about as ill and fractional losses were suffered by Standard Oil of New Jersey, Johns-Manville, and Public Service of New Jersey.

Pace of Trading Slow.

Little favoritism was shown among the various groups and trading throughout the session was at a lackadaisical pace.

Conversation about the commission houses disclosed a keen interest over the tenor of President Roosevelt's message to congress at its opening session tomorrow. There is a widespread belief that the administration will clarify its monetary program before the session has gone very far, but the prevailing thought seemed to be that this important matter might be reserved for a later communication from the White House. Money's future is what the street is concerned with above all else.

Another thing that served to hold the market in check, according to brokers, was the fact that average prices are now around the peak levels for the recovery, a development always attended with more or less caution by veteran traders. "Spot" news of the day favored the bull side.

Motor Shares Buoyant.

Automobile shares claimed the spotlight in the day's big board operations. Chrysler crossed 59 for a new high since the big crash of 1929 and General Motors followed it with a new peak for the year at 36¾. The yearly motor show opens here Saturday and preparation of the industry for large scale outnut of new models is stimulating interest in the group. Auto accessory shares spurted from a fraction to around a point.

Liquor stocks were once more to the fore with American Commercial Alcohol and U. S. Industrial Alcohol vying for leadership.

Consolidated Gas was an outstanding issue in the hitherto neglected utilities in the early trading but gave way to realizing in the late trading. Mining shares were firm and foods went along with the majority as usual. Rails participated in the advance to a limited extent.

BROKER DENIES KNOWING ATLAS TACK WASH SALES

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Robert Newton, former floor member of a New York brokerage house, testified today that he had bought Atlas Tack company stock for Philip H. Philbin without knowledge that Philbin was selling stock in other accounts.

Newton, who has not been with the brokerage house since the 1929 depression on Dec. 28, was a witness in the state attorney general's inquiry into the market activities of the Atlas stock.

Newton testified Philbin told him he was representing a group in purchasing the stock. He said he had instructions from Philbin to support the market, but that Philbin never told him what he was trying to do with Atlas.

Newton testified he never bought Atlas for himself, but said that Sidney Rheinstein, stock exchange member and specialist in Atlas stock, had once remarked to him that Atlas Tack was "a one-man market."

807 Dividends Favorable, 1,405 Adverse for 1933

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—With December continuing the favorable trend of the last five months, the 1933 record on dividend declarations stands at 807 cases of increased, resumed or extra payments, against 1,405 unfavorable actions, the Standard Statistics company reports. In 1932 there were 559 favorable revisions and 2,768 adverse actions. For December the favorable announcements numbered 149, the largest for any single month since 1930, and comparing with 57 unfavorable actions.

Trade in Container Stock Starts 1934 on N. Y. Market

New York, Jan. 2.—Container corporation "B" stock, an active issue, had the distinction of establishing the first recorded trade for 1934 on the stock exchange tape today. The transaction amounted to 100 shares at $2.50 a share, up 12 cents from Saturday's close.

CHICAGO HOUSING SHORTAGE IS SET AT 69,000 UNITS

New Building in Last Five Years Below Normal.

BY AL CHASE.

With any kind of a reëmployment pickup this year Chicago, which opens 1934 with a shortage of 69,000 living quarters, is going to find itself badly underbuilt, according to Philip Stein, statistician of the Chicago board of health. Mr. Stein yesterday addressed this warning message to members of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Pointing out that in 1933 Chicago only added 100 residential quarters to its mass accommodations, Mr. Stein insists that the city must have another series of building years like 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1922 to ward off an acute shortage.

Normal Needs 23,000 Annually.

"At the present rate of population growth, Chicago's normal requirement is about 23,000 living quarters a year" said Mr. Stein. "This number is needed to provide for the increase in population, to replace dwellings destroyed by fire or that have become unfit for human habitation.

"During the five years, 1916-1921, 33,000 new living quarters were erected, while the number for the five years ending in 1933 is but 20,000. Of the 257,000 living quarters built during the seven years, 1922-'28, 77,000 must be allowed to compensate for the deficiency during the five preceding years and 154,000 was required for the latter period.

Lively Scramble Seen.

"Thus, at the close of 1928 there was an excess surplus of 26,000 living quarters in Chicago. By the term 'excess surplus' is meant the excess over the normal existing number of vacancies. By adding the 26,000 to the 20,000 living quarters built during the last five years we get a total of 46,000.

"Since five times 23,000, or 115,000 living quarters, is our five year requirement, with only 46,000 provided for, it is evident that there will be a lively scramble for apartments just as soon as the bulk of our workers begin bringing home their regular pay checks."

ABEL DAVIS SEES BETTER OUTLOOK FOR REAL ESTATE

A somewhat better outlook for Chicago real estate was indicated in a letter sent to stockholders of the Chicago Title & Trust company by Gen. Abel Davis, chairman of the board. The letter accompanied the financial statement as of Dec. 31, 1933, previously reported.

"Rentals are showing a slight improvement, foreclosures are declining somewhat in number and very materially in amounts involved," Gen. Davis said. "A burden of unpaid delinquent taxes still overhangs many properties, but there are definite signs of a lowering of current real estate taxes, bringing them more in line with current income."

A comparison of the roll of directors with that at the end of 1932 discloses that Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, is no longer a member. Other names absent are those of B. M. Winston, who died, and M. E. Greenebaum.

Fitzgerald Made Manager in Kemper Insurance Group

W. L. Fitzgerald has been appointed manager of the life insurance department of the Kemper insurance organization, according to an announcement made yesterday by James S. Kemper. Mr. Fitzgerald during the last four years has been connected with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company of Milwaukee. Mr. Kemper stated that under Mr. Fitzgerald's direction it is planned to broaden the facilities of the life insurance department to make a complete service in that field available to clients of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company and its affiliated companies.

PRICES OF HOGS RISE ON EVE OF FEDERAL BUYING

Average Gains 5 Cents; Lambs Also Higher.

Further slight gains were recorded in hogs yesterday, bringing the general average price up 5 cents to $3.40, within 5 cents of the highest point since Nov. 29, exactly five weeks ago.

In anticipation of government support for the market for three weeks starting today, sellers enjoyed a strong position in the trade yesterday. While federal buying is to be only 4,400 daily at Chicago, the orders call for strictly good grades weighing under 210 pounds and buyers at times may be hard pressed to obtain enough suitable hogs, members of the trade contend.

These kinds yesterday were meeting broader outlet around $3.50, indicating that packers look for livelier competition in these grades of hogs. Yesterday's peak price reached $3.55 late in the day.

Sheep and Lambs Advance.

There also was a better feeling in other branches of the live stock trade yesterday, particularly in sheep and lambs, which reached new high marks for the winter. All classes of ovine stock are at the highest price levels for January in three years, the various classes indicating advances ranging from 30 to 60 per cent compared with the January prices in 1933.

Most of the advance in the value of the lamb on the hoof is traceable to the sharply higher price obtained for the wool. Wool prices range from 80 to 110 per cent higher than a year ago. The lamb meat actually is being sold by the packers for slightly less than a year ago.

All buyers were aggressive in the better grades of sheep and lambs yesterday, paying $8 freely for top wooled lambs. Two loads reached $8.10. Two months ago the market for lambs was sluggish at $6.60 to $6.75, and a year ago sellers found it hard to hold the top at $6 to $6.10.

Small Cattle Strong.

Sellers managed to strengthen the market for light steers and yearlings yesterday, but did not find the outlet for big weights as dependable. Meat still is selling for less than in 1933, but the various byproducts are substantially higher than at this time last year.

Hides from cattle, for instance, still show an advance of about 110 per cent compared with a year ago, when, considering cost of carrying, they were regarded almost worthless by the packers in placing bids for cattle on the hoof. Hides a year ago were bringing less per hundredweight than the price of live cattle. Now the hide price is $4 to $5 higher per hundredweight than the average price of live cattle. Hides comprise about 6 per cent of the weight of the cattle.

Top yearling steers yesterday advanced to $6.85, within 15 cents of the highest point since last August. A greater proportion of the run sold at $6.25 and above than on any session in recent weeks. The bulk of the beef steers sold at $4.50 to $6.25.

LARD STOCKS INCREASE; FUTURES RECORD GAINS

Stocks of lard in Chicago increased 3,759,185 pounds last month to 85,382,770 pounds, compared with 7,847,066 pounds last year. Dry salted clear bellies stocks are 17,617,478, representing an increase of 1,000,773 pounds for the month. A year ago they were 8,130,889 pounds.

Fair buying of old May lard featured the trading, and the price advanced 10 cents. More deferred deliveries of lard gained 2½ to 12½ cents. Cash lard was stronger, and there was said to be a liberal movement of American lard into Germany.

Prices for bellies were unchanged for January and 7½ cents higher for May, with cash lots steadily held at 5.75 cents. Pork loins were steady at 8 to 10½ cents. Prices:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—(AP) Cotton goods opened quiet and firm. For 80 square print cloths 9⅛ cents was paid, an advance of ¼ cent. Finished goods were in light call, but shipments on past orders were active. Rayon markets opened firm, with the demand for rayon fabrics showing improvement. Silk goods were firm and quiet. Interest in women's worsted dress goods for cutting purposes was good. Burlaps opened firm.

COMMODITY PRICES RESUME RISE AFTER TWO MONTHS' DECLINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 2.—Following a loss for two consecutive months from the figure of the preceding month, Dun's index number of the wholesale commodity prices again has turned upward. On Jan. 1 it registered $162,309, a rise of $2,818, or 1.77 per cent, from the position occupied on Dec. 1. This marks the resumption of the uptrend which started last April and continued uninterrupted until November.

As the index number of Jan. 1, 1933, stood at $130,166, the current figure represents a gain of $32,143, or 24.7 per cent, making the ninth successive month that it has been above the comparative figure of the preceding year. It is 15.4 per cent higher than the January, 1932, figure and 1.8 per cent above that of January, 1931. From the 1933 low of $127,606, which was recorded for March, there has been an increase of $34,703, or 27.2 per cent, while from the eighteen year low, touched in July, 1932, there has been an advance of $36,993, or 29.5 per cent.

All seven of the components which make up the index showed an advance this month in contrast to only two in the preceding tabulation. The chief gain was recorded in the dairy and garden group, due to the higher quotations on potatoes, onions, and apples. The poorest showing in this group was made by butter, which gave ground steadily during most of the month.

ICKES APPROVES VOLUNTARY CUT IN OIL OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 2.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, as oil administrator, tonight approved a recommendation by the petroleum planning and coördination committee providing in substance for a voluntary curtailment of gasoline production during January under supervision of the committee's regional committees.

The recommendation was contained in a resolution prepared by the committee in accordance with Ickes' recent order requiring that gasoline stocks as of Jan. 31 be approximately 51,500,000 barrels.

Refiners whose production of gasoline exceeds the amounts designated by the agency acting for the regional committee shall notify the planning and coördination commmittee and submit reasons for their action, along with statistical data.

CRUDE OUTPUT DOWN.

New York, Jan. 2.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 150,050 barrels in the week ended Dec. 30, totaling 2,139,850 barrels, the American Petroleum institute reported today.
